MORE JOBS SOUGHT FOR COLLEGE LADS

Jobs. More jobs. Without them, a small freshman class at Willamette university. With them, the largest class of neophytes in the school's history.

This is the dictum of Professor William Jones who as chairman of a group of downtown business men is leading a campaign for much-needed work for incoming students.

"If we can get enough to provide them with meals and with board, either in one job or at two separate tasks, we can get these students to come next month," Jones told the leaders. He indicated some success in the last seven days in lining up work but said places for at least 50 more students were needed.

Tending furnaces, washing dishes, janitor work, unpacking goods in stores, running errands, waiting tables at restaurants, driving cars, tending lawns and gardens—these are some of the occupations incoming students will be glad to handle if Salem townpeople will assist them in getting placed. Jones can be reached at the university daily, he said, either by a personal call or by phone.

His committee is to meet again next Monday night at the chamber of commerce rooms here to report progress in its task.

RODEO PARADE TO OPEN FAIR

Douglas McKay Chosen as Marshal; may Enlist "For Duration"

Douglas McKay has been designated "top hand" and marshal of the wild west parade to be held in downtown Salem as the first official event of the 70th Oregon State Fair. Members of the Salem chamber of commerce, prominent citizens, both men and women, are enlisting for the duration of the parade with Chief Buckaroo McKay.

Correct attire for the occasion will be woolly and western. The louder the better. Ten-gallon hats, loud shirts, and multicolored chapeaux are in order to call attention to the three-day Rodeo-Buckaroo, one of the opening features of the fair from Saturday to Monday.

Tentative plans call for starting the parade at Marion square. Many Salem riders have mounts of their own or may obtain them for the parade. The management of the Rodeo-Buckaroo will be able to furnish 20 or 30 head of saddle stock from its remuda.

Complete plans will be arranged by the officers and directors of the Salem chamber of commerce at their meeting sometime during the first week of September. Henry W. Crawford, president of the chamber, is expected to be at the head of the parade.

A move is on foot to have Dr. H. C. Epley ride horseback in the parade, according to Top-Hand McKay.

So cordial was the reception to the idea of a parade to officially open the fair that Max Gehlar, director of the department, made special provision in his program for the event. He declared he is confident Saturday, September 26, the opening day of this fair, will break all first-day attendance records. The custom in past years had been to open the fair on a Monday.

Gehlar said he has purposely arranged the program to get the fair in full swing at its inception, and he believes Salem will have the pleasant duty of entertaining a huge fair attendance.

Boys and girls of high school age and under will be admitted free on opening day. Other free programs have been arranged for opening day inside the grounds, including free admission to the Rodeo-Buckaroo except for reserved seats, special acrobatic and vaudeville acts on Monks Island, fireworks at 7 o'clock in the evening on Monkey Island, and all the other attractions that come with a fair in full swing.

"Mule" Yarborough, Clemson tackle, will kick the football. He's not playing this year, but will coach at Bartow, Fla.

WILLIAM H. ROBINS FUNERAL THURSDAY

Baptist Pastor Dies Here Tuesday Following Brief Illness

Coming as a shock to the entire community is the news of the death of Dr. William H. Robins, pastor of the First Baptist church, at 9 a. m. Tuesday morning at the Salem General hospital. Rev. Robins had been seriously ill since August 14, when he was stricken with an acute attack of appendicitis while vacationing at Brettenbush springs. He was rushed to the hospital and underwent an operation the following day for a ruptured appendix.

Dr. Robins came to the Salem church a year ago last May, being called from a pastorate at Pendleton to succeed Rev. Robert L. Payne. Previous pastorates were also held in Chicago and Danville, Ia., beginning his career in 1919. He received his doctor of divinity degree following extensive studies at the Moody Bible Institute and other theological seminaries. His first course of advanced study was in the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

At the time of his death Dr. Robins was but 36 years old. He was born in Gates-Head-on-Tye, England, January 7, 1895. He accompanied his parents to the United States in 1909, settling first in Pittsburgh. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Robins, two sisters and a brother are now residing in Seattle. He is also survived by the widow, Dora, and two children, Ellen and Bruce, both of Salem.

Rev. Robins contributed generously of his time and effort in behalf of the W. C. T. U. and the principles for which it stands, and also for the growth and development of the Marion County Sunday School association. Much credit is due him for his ability in conducting the weekly Union Bible school and for its progress. He was a member of the National Ministerial association.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2:30 o'clock from the First Baptist church, with interment to be announced later by the Rigdon mortuary.

The man whose business touches every budget in advertising

It is evening, and under the station lights, a man with a Gladstone bag moves out toward a limited train.

Tomorrow the records, the invoices, every document and report in a great publisher's circulation office will be opened to him. Each executive, each press foreman, every newspaper boy on the streets is instructed by the publisher to give this man every bit of information he can.

The man from the Audit Bureau of Circulations!

He is employed jointly by publishers and advertisers. Commissioned by them to go into every detail of circulation—how great it is, where it is, how it is obtained.

Over the continent, more than sixty of these trained auditors are on the road. In almost every publication office of importance in the United States and Canada they check, compare, analyze the facts.

Publishers want this work done so that they and their competitors will all be on the same basis. Advertisers need it so that their comparison of media may be all on the same basis—so that they may know what their dollars buy.

What is your share, as an advertiser, in directing these auditors of the A. B. C.? Are you supporting, helping to supervise these activities which help to guard your budget?

Advertisers are urged to join the distinguished group of advertisers, agencies and publishers who make up the Audit Bureau of Circulations, and who through co-operation have taken the guesswork out of circulation buying. Write today for full facts about Bureau membership.
