

JACK'S BRIDGE PAVING LOOMS

Stayton - Silverton Link is Completed, Van Cleave Moves to new job

According to Roadmaster Johnson, Thursday, paving will soon be begun on a three-quarter mile stretch of road between the Scotts Mills road at Pine Tree corners and Jack's bridge at the Clackamas county line by Lester Van Cleave and his paving crew. The crew was expected to finish its present paving job on the last link of the Stayton-Silverton road Thursday and from there they will move to Scotts Mills road.

When this last stretch on the Scotts Mills road is finished it will provide a complete paved market road between Mehama and the Clackamas county line, and in other words will make Marion county's share of the long talked Cascade highway paved from one end to the other.

Cascade Highway Route Improved
In the event that the proposed Cascade highway becomes a reality and links eastern Oregon with western Oregon this section, the Scotts Mills road to Clackamas county, will probably be on the main route.

This will fit in very nicely with the road between Silverton and Stayton which when converted into a market road, was aligned with the eventual view of becoming an important link of the Cascade highway.

After this work has been completed by Van Cleave and his crew they will widen out the nine foot strips of pavement between Pine Tree corners and Silverton and also pave corners on the Mt. Angel-Woodburn and the Silverton-Salem market roads.

Roadmaster Johnson hopes to save these jobs of widening and paving corners completed during September so they will be in shape for the heavy traffic which usually comes during fair time.

GERVAIS ELECTION CONTEST FORECAST

Residents of Union District Request Voter List to Assist Checkup

Possibility that the Gervais union high school dissolution election might have some repercussions through the challenge of votes loomed yesterday at the courthouse. A group of voters headed by Custer E. Ross, their attorney, appeared before the district board to ask permission that the poll list in the six voting districts be placed in their hands for checking. The board permitted the check.

Under the law, only taxpayers whose names were on the tax roll the year before the vote, are permitted to vote. Attorney General VanWinkle ruled several years ago that a vote when challenged successfully was to be subtracted from the apparent majority.

The apparent majority in the recent election was 29 against dissolution. Were the protestors successful in throwing out 26 votes the election results would be reopened. E. E. Manning, A. G. Koene and J. R. Ferschweiler were school patrons at the boundary board meeting yesterday morning. Ross appeared as their counsel.

Outside Districts For Dissolution
At the dissolution election held Friday, August 21, the majority of voters in four of the six districts comprising the Gervais union high school voted to dissolve the district. Large majorities against dissolution run up in the districts in Gervais proper swung the tide, however, away from dissolution.

The vote by districts was: No. 15, 15 for, 7 against; No. 23, 15 for, 7 against; No. 6, 54 for, 8 against; No. 76, 8 for, 114 against; No. 82, 16 for, 19 against. A total of 396 votes were cast of which 138 were for dissolution, 258 against and 1 defective vote was thrown out.

Warrants were ordered drawn yesterday in the total of $284 to pay for the recently completed audit of school district clerk's books.

LEARNS THAT BLASE ATTITUDE

Mary Esther Webb, aged two weeks, knows how to look bored if that's any help in becoming a movie actress like her mother, known to film fans as Esther Kralston. They're shown above.

Peery said, adding that the company is reported to have opened up a body of high-grade lead-zinc ore for a distance of more than 200 feet, with a width of four to five feet.

Peery at Quartzville
"Considerable activity is noted in the Quartzville district in eastern Linn county," continued Peery, who stated that Mr. Oakley is reported recently to have sold his holdings to Idaho people for $25,000 and that the newcomers will equip and develop the property at once. "A rich strike has been made in the Riley-Graves property and several hundred dollars in raw gold has been recovered."

U. S. Surveyors In
Peery stated that the United States geological survey had been working in the Elkhorn district for several weeks, making investigations that are considered of interest and importance to the future of the district.

The old Lawler property, originally located by the late Mart Silven, was purchased last June by a Mr. Medina of London, England. No announcement as to its future has been made, so far as is known. The Medina brothers have owned the property since the '90's and are credited with taking out between $50,000 and $100,000 in free gold from the shallow workings. Deeper work is said to have encountered a more complex ore, which was difficult to mill at a profit at that time, hence the mine has been closed down for some years.

Peery stated that geologists are said to have discovered a great dike of cyanide extending along the northern boundary of the gold zone. This has been likened by geologists, he said, to the Cripple Creek district in Colorado.

Jack McKenzie Gets 6 Months Jail Sentence

Jack McKenzie, about 35 years of age, received a six months' jail sentence and was not paroled when he pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge E. H. McManis to doing an act tending to make a girl under 18 delinquent. McKenzie protested that he was not guilty as charged but proceeded to plead guilty and to waive grand jury investigation. He was operating a service station near Donald when arrested several weeks ago.

Harry Lloyd waived grand jury investigation on the charge of issuing a forged check for $7 but the case was continued pending further investigation. Lloyd is held in jail here, having been unable to furnish bail.

South Americans Conclude U. S. Residents Are Dumb, Is Report of John Heltzel

"The South Americans think we Americans are dumb," John Heltzel, who returned Saturday from a four and one-half month trip to Argentina and Brazil, said yesterday in telling the highlights of his vacation jaunt. The natives there are generally able to speak at least four languages, English, French, Portuguese and Spanish, he says, while North Americans who go there seldom can speak in more than their own native tongue.

Evidence of the recent political upheavals in the South American states are still readily recognized by the newcomer, he went on, since the countries are yet ruled under martial law and the rebels declared "state of siege." Troops are to be seen throughout the cities. The people are in a state of world depression but the revolutions have left them in apparently a worse state than is suffered elsewhere.

New York and Chicago have not succeeded in monopolizing the gangster warfare sensations, according to Heltzel. He says in the larger cities there are running gun battles, gang slayings and racket activities reported far flung in the newspapers every day than in the United States. The papers there go in for flaring styles of journalism. La Prensa, a Spanish paper, is said to spend more money in getting news than any other publication in the world.

Two other differences between the Americas of the north and south were noted by Heltzel. He reports that the southern natives live in a combination of life two or three hundred years ago and of modern civilization. The bathing facilities, for instance, "universally found in hotels and apartment buildings in the United States, are incorporated only in the newest houses in the South American cities he visited. And sanitation in private dwellings is far behind that which is common in Salem, for example.

The other variance noted between the lives of the two western hemispheres is the attitude taken toward drinking liquor. The South Americans, Heltzel says, stop in at the cafes for a drink of beer or wine, much as people in the United States take their cups of coffee. And they do likewise at their meals. At the same time, fewer persons are seen on the streets drunk. There the persons seen intoxicated are nearly always Englishmen or North Americans, he said.

Heltzel sailed from San Francisco April 1, going first to Porto Rico by way of the Panama canal. From Porto Rico he went to

HEALTH BOARD TO REVISE ITS RULES

The executive board of the Marion county public health association met Thursday afternoon at the department of health building to plan the work for the year. In order to revise the form of organization a committee on revision of the constitution was named, consisting of Mrs. John Ballantine of Silverton, Charles S. McKinnis and Dr. V. A. Douglas of Salem.

Mrs. W. W. Allen of Silverton was appointed to arrange for preservation of the health program of the county to the county federation of women's clubs, parent-teachers association, and teachers' institute.

Plans for the county seal sale, the funds for which provide for the salary of a county nurse, were discussed briefly. Mrs. J. E. Blankhorn will have charge of this work again this year.

The association adopted as a project the posting of outdoor bulletins urging the use of toxin anti-toxin among children as a preventative of diphtheria. This immunization is part of the free service of the county department of health, and by means of it the death rate from diphtheria in the county has been greatly reduced.

Mine Manager Optimistic Over Developments Made In Cascades Near Scio

SCIO, Aug. 27—Great encouragement and no little excitement have followed recent developments at several other mines in the Elkhorn district during the present season, according to Peery. "The Silver King company has again carried forward its drift from the main cross-cut, and Mr. Donald is driving southeast on the Minnie E. with a good streak of milling ore in the face," Peery stated. "Gus Waldsberg has struck a little very rich silver-copper ore in his tunnel near the old Black Eagle. Robert Dawes is mining out the bed of Gold creek from the falls to the junction with the Santiam river. Placer miners are said to have taken out several thousand dollars here in an early day."

The Amalgamated mines have had a large force of men employed for the last two years.
