and the ultimate cost of laws already on the books.
He said the immediate need was to obtain jobs for able-bodied, unemployed veterans, adding the veterans bureau was working with the labor department to provide employment.

Wolman told the delegates that the U. S. W. was committed to a program calling for:
Enactment by the next congress of a bill to permit full payment of adjusted compensation certificates, on which many veterans already have borrowed 50 per cent.

"Adequate hospitalization and domiciliary care for those who are physically in need of proper care and treatment."

"Equal recognition for the widows and orphans of the world war veterans with those of previous wars."

"Some measure of assistance by our government for the dependent fathers and mothers of those who died as a result of their service, although technical evidence may be lacking."

Secretaries at Junior High Go On Duty Today
The secretaries in the Parrish junior high and the senior high school will go on duty in their offices today. All students for the coming year who have not before been enrolled in Salem schools are requested to register immediately at the proper building in order that they may be fitted into the class schedules. Miss Vera McCune is the secretary at Parrish, Miss Myrtle McClay at the senior high.

In addition, all Parrish students are asked to sign up for lockers during the next two weeks. Lockers at the senior high will be assigned at the opening of school.

Garden Feature Writer Returns From Trip East

Miss Lillie Madsen, Silverton staff correspondent for The Statesman and writer of a feature garden article for the Sunday edition, was in Salem yesterday following her return Friday from a 10 week visit in Wisconsin. The return trip was made in two weeks according to Miss Madson. Botanical gardens at St. Louis, Missouri, in Chicago, and in Salt Lake, Utah, were visited by Miss Madsen. A few trying mountain roads were encountered by the travelers and much heat, but aside from that the trip was a splendid success. One stretch of mountain road was a short-cut between Redding, Cal., and Eureka, a stretch of 167 miles which took the travelers nine hours and one-half to cover.

NAVY INQUIRY ECHO OF PARTY TRAGEDY

An echo of the tragic death of Mrs. Daisy Price, six weeks old bride of Lieutenant Commander George Price (shown above at left), was heard Wednesday, when the naval board of inquiry met aboard the airplane carrier Lexington as the aftermath of the civil inquiry. Lieutenant Commander E. W. Spencer (shown at right) was among guests at the ill-fated party that preceded Mrs. Price's death. Mrs. Price died following fall from fourth floor window of a San Francisco hotel after party which was a sort of belated wedding celebration. Her husband, on account of being on duty, was not present at the party.

MAGERS FUNERAL IS HELD MONDAY

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the W. T. Rigdon and Son chapel with Rev. E. Earle Parker, officiating, for Mrs. Etta Kirkwood Magers, a member of one of the earliest pioneer families in this district, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Reed Rowland, 1175 Leslie street, Saturday, 1175 Leslie street, Saturday.

She was born in the Hopewell district June 30, 1859 to Joseph and Louisa Kirkwood who had crossed the plains in 1842. Mrs. Magers spent her entire life in Oregon. She was married to Charles Edward Kirkwood in 1895, and he died three years later.

Eight Residence Permits Issued Here In August

Construction of eight new residences to cost a total of $13,490 was announced during August, according to the official report compiled yesterday afternoon in the office of E. C. Bushnell, city building inspector. The total of building permits issued for the month was $27,162.41, the same period last year, $16,907.18. The July 1931 total was $40,508.

Of the 8 permits, 17 were for new construction, to cost $20,215, and 27 for repairs, to cost $6,947.41. The highest residence job was for $4000, the smallest, $250. Fees received from permits amounted to $37.50.

WATER SOURCE IN WELLS IS TALKED

Bert Macy Points to Great Success of System At Spokane

That Salem ought to make studies as to the possibilities of wells as a source for the city's water supply is the belief of Bert Macy, local attorney, who has just received from Spokane literature descriptive of their well supply.

Since 1907 Spokane has obtained its water from wells located in the floor of the valley a few miles above the city. Prior to that time the Spokane river was the source of supply. The wells are dug wells located in the glacial gravel which fills the valley. The ultimate source of the flow of water is the northern Idaho lakes.

One of the Spokane wells is 28 feet in diameter, the other two 45 feet each. The water stands at about 65 feet below the surface. The supply of water seems inexhaustible because in pumping from the small well at the rate of 55 million gallons a day the draw-down was only 44 inches.

Spokane uses as its slogan for its water supply: "Spokane Water, Pure—Not Purified." The water is pumped direct from the wells into the mains and storage reservoirs. The glacial deposits of course act as a natural filter. Rates are extremely low for service, too, being minimum 80c with 1000 cubic feet (7500 gallons) per month, and over that eight cents for each additional 100 cubic feet (750 gallons).

"It is generally believed by geologists," said Mr. Macy, "that the old course of the Saniam was along the present route of Mill creek. The soil of the valley along the gap in the hills and up toward Turner is gravel filled. I believe the city might well sink a test well to see if there is an underground flow of water there. If found we could get better water and save the tremendous cost of either a pipe line up the Saniam or a filtration plant here. The matter should be studied further before any decision is made."

Frank Shauble Guardian Named After Hearing

The Ladd and Bush Trust company named as guardian of Frank Shauble, Quinby rancho, when the controversy over whether he was capable or not of taking care of his own affairs came to an end and the court decided that he was not capable. The decision came with the consent of Shauble after a hearing and says that by reason of his age and senile disability he is incapable of handling his own affairs.

Robert Deem, Roy Burton and Joseph Wirth have been named as appraisers of the estate. Petition for the guardian was filed by Bertha Rodgers, a niece of Shauble who lives in Portland.

THREE ARE ALLEGED BAD CHECK AUTHORS

Justice of the Peace Hayden was on the trial of N. S. F. check passes yesterday and three violators of the law felt the reach of its tolls.
S. Tamliyanu who lives in the Lake Labish district, was released without fine after agreeing to pay court costs of $4.50, the constable's mileage costs and the $15 to reimburse the receiver of an N. S. F. check for that amount.

H. A. Kroska of Salem asked for 24 hours in which to enter a plea on the charge of issuing a check without sufficient funds. His bail was set at $500. Unable to furnish it, Kroska rested last night in jail.

W. A. Halm came into court of his own accord and said he had issued a check for $3.50 but declared he did not know he lacked sufficient back funds to cover the charge. He was released until he could be given opportunity to make up the deficiency.

Supreme Court To Resume Soon

The state supreme court, which has been recessed for the past month, will resume its activities September 8, according to announcement made by Arthur Benson, clerk. Most of the justices have returned to Salem after enjoying their annual vacations.

LIBRARY RECEIVES FORTY NEW BOOKS

Fiction and Also Science Works are Included Among Arrivals

Forty new books have been placed on the circulation shelves and two new reference works added at the Salem public library during the past week, according to a report issued by Miss Maude E. Covington, librarian.

They are as follows:
Bennett, "Lord Rainsford"; Bennett, "The Vanguard"; Cleugh, "Jeanne Marzoff"; Cole, "The Corpse in the Constable's Garden"; Fletcher, "The Queen of a Day"; Rea, "Six Mrs. Greenes"; Sinclair, "Mary Oliver"; Smith, "Flamenco"; Stripling, "Backwater"; Williams, "The Red Mass"; Denison, "Enlargement of Personality"; Martin, "Seven Great Bibles"; Read, "Egyptian Religion and Ethics"; Davis, "Contemporary Social Movements"; Flexner, "Universities, American, English, German"; Dampier-Wetham, "A History of Science and Its Relations with Philosophy and Religion"; Shapley, "Lights From Chaos"; Greenwood, "Amber to Amperes"; Barnaby, "Gliders and Gliding"; Howey, "The Horse in Magic and Myth"; Goodman, "Sanitation, Hygiene, Bacteriology and Sterilization"; Brenner, "Recent English Ecclesiastical Architecture"; Manston, "Old English Nursery Songs"; Angoff, "A Literary History of the American People"; "Tomorrow and Tomorrow"; Gunningham, "Everything You Want to Know About the Presidents"; Johnson, "Fanny Burney and the Burners"; Bonnell, "Notes of a Vagabond"; Radley, "I Like Diving"; Oakison, "Liddell"; Atkins, "Life of Cardinal Newman"; Newman, "Cardinal Newman"; Ludwig, "Schliemann, the Story of a Gold-seeker"; Guthrie, "Robert Louis Stevenson, Some Personal Recollections"; "The Real War, 1914-1918"; Farman, "Platleika: Russia's 5-Year Plan"; Hindus, "Red Bread"; Mann, "The History of Maya"; For reference use: "The American Year Book"; Aeronautical chamber of commerce of America, Inc., "Aircraft Yearbook, 1931."

Today the smiling Maurice Chevalier, that happy Frenchman who won acclaim without a struggle in "Love Parade" will beam on Warner Bros. Elsinore audience for the last time in "The Smiling Lieutenant."

If you liked Chevalier in "Love Parade" you will like him in this picture for he is a dashing, audacious young military officer who wears his military finery with a grand gesture, smiles his way into the hearts of the ladies, and sings and makes love in the regular Chevalier manner.

Charles Ruggles is also among those present in this picture and that name is always good for many a laugh. Claudette Colbert again is the dark-haired leading lady who acts as a foil for Chevalier.

An amusing picture to fill up an hour or two.
From the laughing carefree devilry of Chevalier there comes to the Elsinore Wednesday a real problem play "Transgression" in which dramatic interpretation gives life to the delicate situations of a stirring story.

Kay Francis, sleek and calculating and the dark Richard Cortez with his very nice voice, together with Paul Cavanaugh, a gentleman not so well known and a host of good support, carry this play through to a conclusion which you may or may not agree with but in which you will be interested just the same.

Mrs. McCormick Salem Visitor; Once Lived Here

Mrs. Edna McCormick, now of Oakland, Calif., but formerly of Salem, is spending a few days here renewing old acquaintances. She is staying at the Hotel Senator.

Mrs. McCormick reports that she made a most interesting tour of nine European countries the past year, going with the Catholic Pilgrimage party from San Francisco to the famous shrines of the old country. During the two and one-half months trip she traveled through France, Italy, Switzerland, Holland, Germany, Austria, England and Ireland, as well as the United States.

Mrs. McCormick first came to Salem in 1884, when she was a girl, later married Ed N. Eds and they lived here until 1903-3, when they moved to California. She has returned many times since, to visit with her friends.

BUILDING PROGRAM FOR SCHOOLS NEED

Survey Planned With View Of Improving System When Times Mend

Salem schools are faced with the need of a carefully planned, scientific building program, but for the present the program will wait for the return of better times, Mrs. Roy S. Keene, school board member, stated when asked concerning the progress of the special committee to which Superintendent George Hug and self were appointed last spring by the school board.

"We have been considering the matter of new buildings and additional school facilities and are certain Salem needs new school facilities but the time is not now ripe," Mrs. Keene stated. "We feel that a survey will need to be made to show the trend of school progress in Salem. From these facts we can determine our building needs. A large university has offered its services in such a survey and the only costs would be expenses of the investigators plus a charge of one-half of one per cent if the building program was followed."

High School Plant Is Now Inadequate

Mrs. Keene said that she felt the cost of a survey would more than be repaid in the eventual economy resultant from planned building. The present high school structure, in her opinion, is now inadequate in size, its auditorium is inadequate and the gymnasium is poorly located. "It is only a matter of a short time before additions must be made to the high school or some new building provided, she averred yesterday. Investigation of Portland's building program has revealed that the Rose City has profited materially from the services of an investigator employed a number of years ago. Almost invariably her recommendations were followed, Mrs. Keene found. One recommendation she feels was wise was that there be adequate ground space around schools, not less than two acres for each building.

Camper Medals For Y. Winners Received Here

Gold, silver and bronze medals to be awarded the honor campers at the Y. M. C. A. summer outing held at Oceanside were received by Robert R. Boardman, phys-cal director, Saturday. The three badges of leadership are in the form of a medallion portraying a mountain and water scene with tent and canoe in the foreground, attached to a red, white and blue ribbon which tears the pin.

At the younger boys' camp, which was the second period, Charles Wiper Jr. was voted first honor camper, entitled to the gold medal; Donald Ewing, second honors, silver medal, and David Compton, third honors, bronze medal.

Mystery 'Miss' Causes Worries To Local Flier

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Woodrow of Salem took a short hop in a Portland airplane, Sunday, which earlier in the day had made a forced landing on the Rose City golf course at Portland. After the forced landing the plane was returned to Swan Island where it was given a thorough examination for the engine trouble.

Deciding to take a spin, the couple took to the air with Woodrow as pilot and headed for Beaverton. The ship functioned splendidly until they were over the Marquam hills and then one cylinder began missing. They turned back at once and limped back toward Swan Island. Shortly before reaching the field the motor began running smoothly again and upon being examined nothing could be found wrong.
