

Local News Briefs

Both Drivers Arrested — Two motorists, whose cars collided at the intersection of 17th and D streets yesterday afternoon, were subsequently arrested by George Edwards, city traffic officer, cited to appear in municipal court to answer charges of reckless driving. Ray Morris, 1545 Franklin street, West Salem, stated in his report of the accident that both cars entered the intersection at the same time, that a walnut tree obstructed the view, and that he did all he could to avoid the collision. Clinton E. Field, 530 Market street, the other driver, reported that Morris did not have the right of way and was speeding. Neither driver mentioned any damage being done to their machines.

OCTOBER JURY LIST IS DRAWN

Eighteen of Those Called Live in Salem, Eleven Women, Announced

Eighteen of 31 persons drawn for circuit court jury duty in October are residents of Salem and of the 31 names drawn, 11 are names of women. Sheriff Oscar Bowen announced yesterday after the selection of jurors had been made by the sheriff and County Clerk Boyer. Circuit Judge McMahon, busy in Albany, has not yet set the docket for October's term of court.

The judge indicated the early part of this week that he would not summon the fall grand jury for some time. There is some controversy existing over the question of the grand jury. Judge Skipworth to Eugene having held that the old grand jury is as dead as a doornail, while McMahon has indicated he wished to continue the grand jury which was convened last spring.

Jurors drawn yesterday, their addresses and their occupations, follow:

Wm. F. Prime, Salem No. 3 taximan; Harriet C. Miller, Chehaw, housekeeper; E. G. Clark, Pringle, farmer; Rilda Priem, Salem 20, housewife; Nathan E. Cole, Aurora, sawmill worker; Dewey R. Allen, West Silvertown, farmer; Berna N. Curl, Jefferson, housekeeper; Alfred F. Knorr, Aurora, farmer; John Dozier, Stayton, farmer; Ella M. Stauffer, East Hubbard, housekeeper; Henry Kirach, West Mt. Angel, farmer; Dorothy M. McDaniel, Salem 9, beauty specialist; Caroline A. Black, Salem 8, housewife; John Christopher, Marion, farmer; Fred Bentel, Butteville, farmer; Ella M. Hallik, Salem 13, housewife; A. F. Moore, Salem 16, merchant; James E. Allison, Salem 6, insurance; Willard M. Myers, Salem 8, millworker; Edgar Hartley, Salem 11, hop grower; Henry A. Gilie, Salem 29, salesman; Nellie L. Harris, Salem 24, housewife; Mabel L. Under the Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

THE subject of married women consumed a good share of the time at the state labor session yesterday morning, and at times the heated debate became personal. Discrimination against married women in industry, however, was finally voted down on the grounds that all should have an equal opportunity to work.

If anyone thinks for a moment that the labor session is uninteresting, attendance would cure that. There is more discussion and more fiery subjects debated there than at any similar convention. Today the subject of prohibition is expected to come up, and a packed house is foreseen. The meetings are open to the public.

But today's interests in the state capital will be divided between the labor convention and the hearing on charges against J. S. Landers, president of the Monmouth Normal school. The labor meeting starts at nine o'clock and the hearing in the senate chamber at the state house starts at ten.

Miss Alice Folk, certification clerk in the state superintendent of school's office, was at St. Helens yesterday where she acted as the Columbia of the Columbia school fair. She will return today, it was reported, unless attractions at St. Helens prove too strong for the comely educational worker.

The supreme court yesterday received a large bundle of bills. Each side of the package showed a hundred dollar bill. Under each bill were four one dollar ones. The remainder of the package was "bunco" money. The package is to be used as evidence in an appeal from Lane county in the case of the state vs. John Berg and F. J. McSwenney.

One hears a lot about "Old Scouts," particularly about the 1905 car which was in Salem last night. And there will be some Old Scouts on hand to greet it at Portland. Hal E. Hoss will act as toastmaster tonight at the Portland banquet, and Rufus Holman will welcome the wagon for Governor Meier.

Church School Officers Meet

Officers and teachers of the Jackson Lee church Sunday school met Tuesday night for a dinner and meeting to plan the coming year's program. There were 25 persons present. Homecoming for this Sunday school will be observed next Sunday.

PROHIBITION SPEAKERS TO APPEAR HERE SOON

Salem Ministers Planning Welcome and Support For Allied Forces

Speakers representing the Allied Forces of Prohibition will be welcomed locally by the Salem Ministerial association that organization agreed this week in a resolution it adopted. The speakers will be in Salem September 24, 25 and 26. While the speakers are independent of the Anti-Saloon league they are not in opposition to it as has been reported.

Heading the team is Dr. Daniel A. Poling, former Oregon man and now a well-known pastor in New York City.

Regarding the team, the Ministerial association made the following statement: "The leader of this movement, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, is a honored son of Oregon and holds the confidence and esteem of every good citizen. Those associated with him are informed, able speakers bringing messages of strategic and timely importance for our day and generation. Colonel Raymond Robins is an international statesman and sociologist of wide fame, and is known to Salem from a former visit here. Congressman Grant Hudson is a public servant of broad, sane vision and intelligent concern for the maintenance and safeguarding of America's great trilogy of basic institutions—the home, the church and the state. Oliver Steward, Ira Landrith and Miss Norma Brown, are seasoned veterans in the prohibition movement and know its history and present status. R. C. Ropp brings to the youth of Salem a daring challenge in terms of today's training and tomorrow's responsible world citizenship."

Robert Anthony Becomes Cadet On Ocean Liner

Robert Anthony, graduate of Salem high school with the class of 1931, was in Salem Wednesday on his way to Seattle where he will take a position as cadet on the S. S. President Madison bound for the orient.

Anthony has been spending the summer with his mother, Mrs. persons present. Homecoming for this Sunday school will be observed next Sunday.

CELL FRONTS SAID NOT SATISFACTORY

The state of Oregon, through William Einzig, purchasing agent, yesterday was negotiating with King Brothers, prison equipment dealers, to make good on a contract involving the steel fronts for the new cell block now under construction at the Oregon penitentiary.

START PLANS FOR RESERVE PROGRAM

Two meetings preliminary to opening up Girl Reserve work for the fall and winter will be held today, with the high school G. R. cabinet to hold a supper meet at the Y. W. C. A. at 6:30 tonight, and a meeting to be held in Silvertown.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gallaher, Y. W. secretary, and Mrs. B. E. Carrier of the official board will be in Silvertown this afternoon to help organize the Girl Reserve triangles there.

Miss Irene Brethaupt, advisor, and Mrs. Gallaher will meet with the local high school cabinet tonight to aid in working out the year's program for this group. Others present will be Theresa Ulrich, president; Geom Gallaher, vice-president; Leslie Rellow, secretary; Dorothy Tucker, treasurer; and committee heads: Virginia Wassam, Grace Skinner, Freda Morley, Rachel Gardner and Shirley Knighten.

Osborne Guilty, Court's Verdict

Everett Osborne, before Judge Miller Hayden yesterday afternoon for preliminary hearing in connection with a charge of delinquency, was found guilty and bound over to the grand jury. His bail remains at $750. Osborne is still in the county jail, where he was lodged following his arrest at a hop yard near Liberty about a week ago.
