Newweds at Hayesville Charivaried

HAYESVILLE, Sept. 30.—Tuesday night at 8:30, cars began to stop at the "Big Chief" store. Apparently they wanted nothing, as practically no one entered the store. Yet as time passed on, more and more cars stopped, until there must have been between 35 and 40 cars.

At about 9:30, from a silent command from nobody, the cavalcade moved down the road eastward, like a procession of ghosts. After traveling about a block, the entire caravan suddenly broke into bedlam at the sight of shot-guns, and the countryside knew that friends and neighbors had gathered to charivaried and congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gregg who were married Saturday at Vancouver, Wn.

The carefully planned program was awarded by ice-cream and cookies, with cigars for the men.

Oh Well, I Suppose Everyone gets a tough break at sometime or another

This gold situation is gittin' bad — hoardin' up gold, we've found, besides bein' a very hard thing for us to do, has not always proved satisfyin'.

WE RECALL--

Several years ago we decided that we'd better start savin' our money, as we were told havin' a nice little nest-egg might come in handy, even if we were not goin' into the chicken business — and, as we remember, somethin' was said about a rainy day — so we started accumulatin' money, skimpin' and savin'. You know, of course doin' that is very hard because at that time, while there wasn't any chain stores advertisin' bargains, there was plenty of ways of spendin' your money quickly if not wisely.

We saved our money until we'd accumulated what seemed to us a considerable stock of what is sometimes referred to as long-green. Feelin' rather proud of ourself for havin' saved so much in so few years, we decided that the best thing for us to do would be to get some advice (free, of course). So we called upon a friend of ours and said, Dave (we called him Dave, of course, because Dave was his name, his other name bein' Eyre), anyway, we said Dave, what you advise us doin' with all this money we've saved up these last few years. Dunno, he says, let's count it. He counted it over very carefully and after a long deliberation says, Well, Bill, if I had that much money I'd buy a couple of five-dollar gold pieces with it. We did, and now see what's happened — England has come out flat footed (they're not really flat footed you know, that's just an expression, though we better say that so you won't think they had flat feet or somethin'). They say they're not gonna use gold any more, leavin' us sittin' high and dry holdin' all that gold. So you see there's more'n one kind of goldfish glitterin' — we won't get caught holdin' so much gold any more. We've gonna make prices lower—that'll fix it—and as one of the boys said at the meetin' the other day, he's not so sure we haven't already fixed it.

Busick's AT THE Market NOT A CHAIN STORE

Hams and Bacon

About as good a recommendation any meat could have is to be offered for sale at the Market meat department. Those boys sure do know good meat — for instance if you ask for a nice veal roast they know right off the bat that you don't want a chicken or a beef roast, notwithstanding the fact that the finest chickens and the best beef is on display right before your eyes. We kinda got off the subject a bit—what we were gonna say was that fancy sugar-cured bacon is only and a nice sugar cured, tender, sweet, smoked ham may be had (may be had nothing) it can be had, half or whole at 20c Per lb.
