IT'S COTTON CURRENCY HERE

This lanky cotton-grower of "six miles northwest of Lost Mountain" doesn't give a hang how many countries abandon the gold standard. His standard is fresh-ginned cotton. The grower's "cotton currency" in the form of three bales of cotton hauled to Atlanta, Ga., by an express, was brought to the city in answer to a department store's offer to accept the fluffy commodity in exchange for merchandise. The cotton-grower, J. L. Ellison (right), is shown negotiating with Walter Rich (left).

In case of Jane Sharp vs. Frank W. Sharp, she was restored her maiden name, Jane McClary. Each party was awarded care of one of the two minor children in action brought by Gladys Sutherland against H. C. Sutherland, he of the boy and she of the girl. Ida L. Duncan was given divorce from Charles A. Duncan, but he was given custody of their two minor children.

Ruth Barnett was given divorce from Kenneth B. Barnett, and care and custody of their two minor girls. Markrit Weisel was granted divorce from Jacob Weisel. Divorce was also allowed in suit of Levi Cogswell vs. Katie Cogswell.

LEGION, AUXILIARY INSTALL OFFICERS

Duncan Conducts Ceremonies for men, Mrs. Titus For the Women

SILVERTON, Oct. 6 — Attracting considerable attention Monday night was the installation of officers for both the American Legion and its auxiliary at Silverton. Guests and members were present from out-lying districts.

George Duncan of Stayton, district commander, installed the Legion officers. Those taking their posts were commander, Dr. A. J. McCannell; vice commander, Harry Riches; finance officer, Roy Davenport; adjutant, Harry Wilson. The new finance committee members are Ernest Starr, M. F. Conrad and L. F. Tucker.

Mrs. A. J. Titus acted as installing officer for the auxiliary and installed the following: president, Mrs. Harry Wilson; vice president, Mrs. Glenn Kirkwood of Molalla; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Eva Humphry of Stayton; secretary, Mrs. George Manolis; treasurer, Mrs. Allie Heidenstrom; sergeant at arms, Mrs. Claise Jarvis; chaplain, Miss Billie Johnson, historian, Mrs. E. E. Jackson of Molalla; executive committee, Mrs. Heidenstrom, Mrs. Del Barber and Mrs. A. J. McCannell.

Mrs. A. J. Titus presented the past president, Mrs. Heidenstrom with the past president pin. Mrs. Heidenstrom in turn presented Mrs. Titus and Mrs. Wilson each with a bouquet. Following the installations everyone retired to the dining rooms where a joint supper was enjoyed.
