

FLOWER SHOW TO OPEN ON SATURDAY

Commercial Showing to be Most Extensive Ever Conducted Here

The first commercial flower show of any size for Salem is being sponsored as a fall display Saturday and Sunday in the Chambers building on North High street. All commercial growers of Marion county are working together for the success of the display.

Awards will be given by commercial growers of bulbs to the winners in each class. The entries are to be made before 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning. Judging is planned to be completed by noon, and just as soon as the judging is over the building will be thrown open to the public. No admittance charge will be made.

It is planned to keep the show open until 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Among the commercial growers who are assisting with the show are Bartomeo's Goldfish Farm, Albany; Beacon Bulb farm; J. W. Maruny; L. E. Weeks, Capital farm; Adams florist; Capital florist; Brethaupt florist; Olson florist; Franklin Tulip farm; D. A. White; Jay Morris Peonies garden; Ernest Inzer Rock Gardens; Peary Brothers Nursery; an exhibit is also expected from the Penitentiary annex and from the asylum grounds.

Silverton Man One of Oregon K. of P. Heads

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Ira W. Carl, Portland, was elected grand chancellor of the grand lodge of Oregon Knights of Pythias. A three-day convocation of the grand lodge and grand temple opened here yesterday.

Carl succeeds H. C. Dickson, La Grande.

Under the Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

The state highway commission today will perhaps go other ways than as scheduled. With the change on the commission and the familiar face of Van Duzer missing, the session will be hard to do. The resignation of Van and the appointment of J. C. Ainsworth was of course the big story of yesterday, even though the Cards won another baseball game.

Van Duzer will certainly be missed as congenial chairman of the commission. Van has presided for more than five years, and people all over the state have become acquainted with him and have had a lot of confidence in Van's decisions. Hanley is virtually a stranger on the commission and Spaulding is not a veteran there.

The office of chairman today is expected to go to Spaulding, although priority on the commission is not a requisite for the position. Since the governor assumed office last January, the entire highway commission has been changed. Ainsworth is believed a good appointment, but followers hated to see Van leave the group.

Ainsworth is reported as one of the wealthiest men in Oregon, along with Governor Julius L. Meier. Both are in the banking business, though it is a secondary consideration of the governor. It has not been known that Ainsworth and the governor were close friends, and still isn't. History of the recent changes on the commission would make interesting reading.

Well, it's a good thing for the highway commission that there is no word as to whether today, or it is feared there would be few newspaper men there to record happenings. A little thing like a state road meeting certainly should not take precedence over a world series game, particularly with the Cardinals in the lead.

The dome was virtually shaken from its perch on the old capitol yesterday when "Pepper" Martin made his home run. Everybody in the building wondered what had occurred. But that didn't bother the fans in the press room listening intently to the radio play-by-play report. What a man that Martin has turned out to be.

All "Pepper" has to do is to make another hit to set a new record for world series hits. He has an even 12 hits now, tying previous records for seven-game series. And Marin has one or possibly two more games in which to do this. That boy has done about everything in a world series game but umpire, someone has said.

The state board of control

Other officers elected were: Warren S. Barnes, Portland, grand vice-chancellor; H. C. Dickson, La Grande, grand trustee for three years; Ed Ballough, St. Helens, grand trustee for two years; Walter Gleason, Portland, grand keeper of records and seal; F. C. Knight, Silverton, grand master at arms; J. C. Householder, Roseburg, grand inner guard; C. C. Jacobs, McMinnville, grand prelate; W. T. Robinson, Yamhill, grand outer guard; Stanton Rowell, Grants Pass, trustee; James W. Maloney, supreme representative.

and superintendents at the meeting yesterday passed resolutions regretting the governor's absence and wishing him a speedy recovery. Latest reports from the governor are that he is improving, and that he is expected back at his office early in November. This is encouraging news from the official.

Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state, celebrated his birthday in grand style yesterday. He was presented with candy and flowers by state superintendents and by his office. Hal says this will be the last year he can say he is still in the thirties. Guessers of his age have been disappointing. Hal says, adding about 15 years to the actual 39.

The new blue books are scheduled to be out beginning the first of next week. The secretary's office has been doing a lot of additional work on the official publication, and many improvements will be noted by readers. The book is in the hands of the state printer and he says some of them will be ready Monday.

If Hal Hoss and John D. Mickle don't get together pretty soon on their "get-acquainted" party, so many new faces will be added to the official family that it will become a necessity to conduct a receiving line at this proposed informal event. All parties interviewed about such an event for departmental and institutional heads favor it and say "When?"

FUNERAL IS TODAY FOR CORA ELLIOTT

Mrs. Cora H. Elliott, wife of N. D. Elliott, local printer, died at the family residence, 222 West Miller street, early Wednesday morning. This was the second death in the Elliott family within the past several weeks, Mr. Elliott's father having died last month.

Mrs. Elliott was born in Hendricks county, Indiana, February 15, 1874. She had made her home in Salem for the past 33 years and was a member of the Salem Woman's club and of the Friends church. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Elliott is survived by two daughters, Mrs. R. J. Tracy of Solida, Colorado, and Mrs. R. J. Dickson of Albany; and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Bundy of Portland, Mrs. Erna Glunz of Brownsville, and Mrs. Laura Brown of Prineville.

The funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the South Salem Friends church, Rev. Haworth officiating. Interment will be in the Cityview cemetery.

Mrs. Burch Leaves To Remain in City Throughout Winter

RICKREALL, Oct. 7.—Mrs. T. S. Burch is leaving this week to spend the greater part of the coming fall and winter in Portland, having rented her home here to Mr. and Mrs. Dew of Corvallis. Mrs. Dew is critic teacher in the upper grades in the Rickreall school.

John and Gilbert Oliver, sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Oliver, who are attending Laurelwood Academy near Gaston, spent the weekend at their home here.
