Commenting on the communistic system, Powers said it showed many weaknesses and he urged Americans to exploit the merits and to correct the deficiencies of the system we have used. "Our system gives an inducement to excel," Powers said. "We noticed in Holland, for example, where things are as clean as a new dime that each worker was interested in fixing up his own place. In Russia, when the peasant's work was done, we noticed the peasant would spend his time singing."

Scientific Spirit

The speaker lauded the scientific spirit as the means of world wide peace. "Science knows no national boundaries," he said. "Its aim should be to discover the laws of life and to utilize them to better humanity's condition."

ROMANCE AND REALITY

SOMETIMES, when you turn the pages of a book, your mind is seeking romance. You long to leave a too-familiar world . . . to travel with the speed of thought to far-off purple lands . . . to bathe in tepid, lotus-scented surf.

But your daily paper finds you in a more practical mood. Interested in real people, in facts of the day. Looking for news of things that you may buy and enjoy — here and now.

You may find in the advertisement just what you want in the way of a better breakfast food, or a new radio, or an improved face powder. If the thing fits into your living, is practical and possible and promising — you are vitally interested. Because you are reading about yourself!

Today, a great many things that were romantic dreams only 10 years ago are common realities. Life has more color, more charm, more adventure. And the things that give it all these may be found in the advertising columns.

Advertising discusses realities — romantic ones often enough — but actual articles you can have for your own, new joys for your family, stepping stones to your happiness.

The advertisements in this paper are written for you. They are real. They are reliable. Take their advice.
