

BUTTER MARKET IS GENERALLY STEADY

Supplies Cleared up With No Change; Eggs are Apparently Firm

PORTLAND, Oct. 12.-(AP)—Trade in the butter market is showing little, if any, material change locally. On the open market a cleanup of supplies is reflected with the market apparently holding its own.

Further showing of strength is reflected in the market for eggs here with prices generally well held but unchanged from the high point recently established by the poultry producers.

There has been a complete reversal of tone in the domestic cheese trade recently, a condition not at all unexpected. Recently there was considerable dullness noted at leading primary points of the east and especially in Wisconsin. Offerings were not picked up with the snap of a short time ago; a condition which generally bespeaks too rapid advances previously.

Primary markets of the Pacific northwest were without price changes with the trend steady to easier.

Price on Turkeys..... Hurt by Quality

Very poor quality of some of the dressed turkeys now arriving, is hurting the price list, according to some of the leaders of the trade. Best young turkeys are now generally listed at 23-25c pound.

Generally maintained demand is reflected in the market for live chickens along the wholesale way. There was no change in the general buying price listed here for the week's opening.

Market for heavy weight country killed calves continues to reflect weakness. Sales of all calves are reported easier as a result. Some shading in hogs too. Lambs are firm.

Very liberal supplies of fresh crabs are again reaching the trade. While the north reports a scarcity of halibut, sufficient is arriving here to take care of trade requirements.

TURKEY FARM HAS 4000 YOUNG BIRDS

TURNER, Oct. 12.—The Jesse Parrish turkey farm a mile southeast of Turner on the Turner-Marion road, has been re-stocked with 4,000 young bronze birds which make quite a sight to the passerby on glancing to the east side of the road, to see a huge body of bronze turkeys slowly moving about with rods heads erect.

Al Bray, who has been on duty all fall, has an assistant to help care for the flocks.

Rosters and feeding troughs have been conveniently placed, as the handling of the daily rations requires much work and time; a water tank is used for hauling water. A tent is pitched nearby for the use of the caretaker who is near the flock day and night.

The turkeys were raised in eastern Oregon and trucked here.

It is planned to have some ready for market in a few weeks and to keep a number of them ready for market demands.

Minimum of Changes Noted at Opening Of new Week

Local markets opened the week with a minimum of changes, save in fruits and vegetables. Hogs dropped approximately a half cent, to $5.50 for tops. Lambs remain at five cents.

Local spinach is coming into the market, growers getting 65 cents for orange crates. Grapes are about done for, and lettuce has dropped 25 cents to a top of 21.

Although the tomato season is virtually over, buyer for one of the largest grocery stores says there will be tomatoes on the market for some time. One grower alone put by 800 boxes of green tomatoes to sell when those fresh from the garden were gone. Price to grower remains at 38 cents a tub.

Cabbage, of which considerable is now on the market, is down a quartet cent, to one and one-fourth cents a pound. Radishes and onions are about 20 cents, 25 cents a dozen each, a five cent drop over previous offers.

Filbert Crop is Surprisingly Big

STAYTON, Oct. 12.—A crop of 2600 pounds of filberts has been harvested and dried from the George H. Bell orchard just north of town. The yield this year was a pleasant surprise to Mr. Bell, who like many other nut growers in this section expected about a 75 per cent loss in harvest this year.

The dust storm in the early summer was thought to have blighted the nuts. Evidently this was not the case in the Bell acreage, as the crop this year equals that of last. The orchard is about seven years old.

GROWERS TO GET CREDIT ADVANCES

Credit advances to local prune growers whose crop has been dried and graded may be available to co-op members the latter part of the week, according to Fred Ewing, president of the co-op here.

The advances on graded prunes on the federal loan will be: 3 1/2 cents on 25-35c; cents on 30-40c; 2 1/2 cents on 35-45c; 2 cents on 40-50c; 1 1/2 cents on 50-60c; 1 cent on 60-70s. Loans will be on this basis as long as the market holds as at present.

Association officials look for no decline, but an increase on 35-45s and larger sizes due to California shortage on these.

NUT PRICES HERE ABOVE QUOTATION

The local branch of the nut co-op association reports opening prices higher by around a cent and a half than those announced last week by telegram from Portland. Franquettes, quoted by telegram at 2 1/2 cents, are 2 3/4 cents, the association has been informed from the main office.

The price as in effect at the co-op are: franquettes, soft shelled and Mayettes, 23 cents on large; fancy franquettes, 21 cents; fancy softs, 20 cents; standard franquettes, 15 cents, and standard softs, 14 cents; Mammoth Fords, large, 25 cents, for meats the top is 50 cents.

The local association plant shipped its first nuts to Portland Saturday, and today or tomorrow expects to route out the first eastern shipment.

GLYDE EBBERT NEW PRESIDENT OF CLUB

Officers elected were: Glyde Ebbert as president to succeed Donnell Crawford; Ben McKinlay as vice-president, succeeding Frank Windsor; and Irene Windsor as secretary-treasurer, succeeding Mrs. V. A. Stratton.

Mr. Crawford gave a speech of appreciation to club members for their cooperation during his term. The committee will meet Tuesday evening to select committees for the coming winter.
