Following a few days illness with a cold, Edward W. Durkee, resident of the Grand Island, died at his home here Friday, Oct. 15, 1931, at the age of 93.

He was born of Scotch-English parents in Hardin county, Ohio, June 14, 1838. He moved with his parents to Fond Du Lac, Wis., in 1854 at the age of 16. Here he was a pioneer until the beginning of the war in 1861, when he went to Grand Rapids in Wood county, Wisconsin, where he enlisted in Company G, 18th Wisconsin Infantry.

In the battle of Shilo, April 8, 1862 at Pittsburg Landing, Tennessee he received a wound in the right knee. Due to the lapse of time before his wound was dressed, it was found necessary to amputate his leg. After leaving the hospital he served as a guard until he received his honorable discharge at the end of the war in 1865.

He took up a soldier's homestead near Russell, Kan. in 1871. In 1879 he and his wife moved to Salem, Ore., where they lived until they moved to Newport, Ore. in 1908. While living in Newport his wife died.

Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

MAYBE it's the weather, or perhaps it's just the season for colds, indigestion and the like, but there seems to be very little demonstration of vim, vigor and vitality at the state capitol the past few days. This by the way includes the news bounds with the writer by no means an exception. Laziness or touch of ill-health, but surely something.

Perhaps the pep was taken out of state officials by the sudden spurt of activity by the majority members of the board of control Tuesday when two institution heads were added to the list of unemployed. Since that time Holman has been trying to borrow a million dollars for tax refund, and the rest of the staffs trying to get enough to pay the grocery bill.

And speaking of money Max Gehlhar, fair director, talked yesterday of borrowing about $12,000 on his own note to pay the state fair premium list deficit. This talk of borrowing a million and thousands makes one wonder where one can borrow a dollar for a day or so. Oh, well, business is business and most of us will continue looking for the dollar.

Press reports tell us Governor Julius L. Meier has taken a fancy to the whale up in Portland and has taken steps to insure its safety. Gosh, Governor, better hurry back to Salem as Tusko, the giant elephant is still here, but no body has taken a shot at him yet. Maybe the governor could do something about him.

bonded indebtedness. The 1931 legislature authorized an appropriation of $16,408 to cover the premium list deficit from the year before.

Large Damages Sought in Auto Accident Case

Damages of $5000 are being sought by Pearl Matting, administratrix of the estate of Phillip Carpenter, deceased, in an automobile accident case now being tried before Judge Gale S. Hill here. Carpenter, 80 years of age, died following the accident which took place on the Pacific highway one mile north of Brooks, May 11, 1930. Emma P. Bremer and E. B. Church are defendants.

A judgment for $6434 and costs was awarded C. A. Rydman against the National Bond and Discount company when the defendant failed to appear yesterday morning. The company is now in the hands of a receiver. Rydman said he was misled by the salesman of the company in the purchase of securities in the years 1927 and 1928.

Health Clinics Being Held at County Schools

Examination of grade school children in the Aurora district for physical defects was completed by Dr. C. C. Dauer, deputy county health officer yesterday. Of the 35 children examined, 25 were given toxoid treatments for diphtheria immunization.

The school clinics for the season at Hubbard and Silverton have been completed and at Mill City nearly so. As soon as the clinics are held in all the outside towns, Salem grade school children will be given the physical examinations.

No Application Is Necessary to Get Tax Refund

Taxpayers entitled to refunds under the unconstitutional 1929 intangibles tax law, are not required to file claims, nor take any action to secure their money, the state tax commission announced yesterday.

A list of the taxpayers, together with their addresses and the amounts paid by each has been turned over to the secretary of state who will prepare the warrants.

VIOLATORS OF GAME LAWS OUT OF LUCK

Justice of the Peace Hayden's docket last night looked as follows: Paul E. Singer, Aurora, hunting without a license, pleaded guilty, fine $25 and cost; failed to pay fine and was committed to jail.
