CARE IN OUTLINING PROJECTS FAVORED

4-H Groups Will not Decide On Work Until Leaders Look Over Plans

Members of the Marion county 4-H Local Leaders club, in session here yesterday afternoon , went on record favoring only tentative or-ganization of 4-H clubs until the leader is chosen and has oppor-tunity to meet with the members. Under this, final club papers will not be submitted to the office at Corvallis until the leader has conducted at least one meeting.

This ruling was adopted to protect leaders from censure when their clubs do not finish work a hundred per cent. In cases where children enroll and papers are sent to the state officers before the leader is actually in charge, there is no chance for the leader to weed out children who are not n earnest about the work.

STATE CONFERENCE

Report Opposing Right of Withdrawal From Union Districts Adopted

Addresses by Hal E. Hoss, sec-retary of state, and Norman Throne of Portland. and reports by John Jandrall of Seaside and K. H. Blakeslee of The Dalles, featured the closing session e the third annual conference of Ore-gon high school principals Sat-urday.

Mr. Jandrall's report having to do with union high schools was approved. Delegates agreed that legislative action should not be taken to allow factors dissatisfied with the conduct of union high school districts to withdraw. Jandrall declared that the greatest trouble lies in the maintenance of adequate transportation facilitles. A six page standardized transportation report to be used in recording districts' transportation obligations was presented and approved.

The principals also adopted resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to report on an organization plan combine all honor societies of the state in a single unit. The increasing importance of extra curricular honor society activities was discussed by Mr. Blakeslee. Teacher supervision was discussed by Mr. Throne. The conference was attended by more than 150 of the 240 high school principals in the states Officers will be elected at the December meeting of the organiza-

NON-SUITED HERE

Action brought by D. D. Socolofsky and son to collect commission on sale of real property owned by Millie B. Kenyon was taken out of court on involuntary non-suit, when the case came before Circuit Judge Gale S. Hill Saturday morning.

Socolofsky contended that there was due $1150 on the real estate sale, and Mrs. Kenyon, the defendant, admitted she had entered into contract for him to sell, but that the contract had later been rescinded and did not pply. A business block at 1320 State street was involved. Judge Hill will be held Tuesday for the regular motion day in his court, and may at that time hand down a decision in the George Moore will case, which has occupied considerable time and attention in both Clackamas and Marion county circuit courts. METHODS ADOPTED

A prominent law school on the acific coast has accepted several of the methods which have been in use at the Willamette law school for a number of years. Having hypothetical cases instead of studying past recorded cases is one of the Willamette methods which has been accepted by the law school changing its style of instruction. In this method, an imaginary charge is made and the case if followed out to its conclusion with all details being studied. The other feature accepted was to have a moot court which meets in a special courtroom modeled in every detail after a regular court room. Attorney Inman presides over the most court here and keeps track of any errors in pro-known in Bethel. She is employed cedure. Attorneys, juries and all at the Western Union Telegraph the principals of a regular trial are reproduced.
