WORLD MARKET ON WHEAT—STRONGER

Both Russia and S. America Curtail Offerings and Price Here Gains

Domestic wheat markets continued firm during the week ending October 30 and prices advanced to the highest point of the season, according to the weekly grain market review of the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics. Increased export demand for North American wheat, as a result of smaller offerings from Russia and the southern hemisphere, together with unfavorable growing conditions for the new crop in parts of the domestic wheat belt, were the principal strengthening factors. Rye and feed grain were strengthened by the advance in wheat. Flax was firm, under reduced hedging pressure and light offerings of cash seed.

World wheat markets strengthened materially during the week. British markets advanced with the more settled political conditions following the recent election and futures at Liverpool reflected the advance in North American markets. Continental markets were also more active and prices advanced in most of the wheat areas. Supplies of durum wheat were light in Italy and the import quota for foreign durum wheat was increased from 5 per cent to 25 per cent, according to trade advices.

Russian collections of wheat had amounted to 52 per cent of the yearly plan at the middle of October, but trade reports indicate that the quantity scheduled for collection was very large and actual collections have been of good volume, with stocks on hand quite substantial. Interior warehouses are reported well filled, with some delay in taking delivery of grain now coming forward. The lack of adequate transportation facilities, however, is restricting the movement to seaboard and some sales for early shipment were reported cancelled during the week.

Russian shipments so far this season have totaled 64,000,000 bushels, or more than half of last season's total shipments. New crop Australian wheat has been reported sold at Liverpool at 59 1/2c per bushel. New Argentine wheat has been offered at advancing prices. Trade estimates placed the combined Australian and Argentine wheat crops this season at around 400,000,000 bushels, compared with about 450,000,000 bushels produced last year.

Pacific coast markets were relatively firmer than eastern points, prices at Portland showing an advance of 3-5 cents per bushel for the week. Light offerings by growers and efforts of exporters to obtain wheat to fill earlier sales were principally responsible for the sharp advance in prices. Producers were reported to be offering more freely at the close of the week, with the principal sales made in the Walla Walla, Pendleton and Colfax districts.
