Considerable weakness is felt generally in the market for choose throughout the country. As during previous weeks, the chief source of the depression appeared in Wisconsin territory, where stforts had been made by speculative interests to boost values in face of an undertone that was not hopeful. While there was no recent change in the price of cheese reported by Tillamook, eastern and Idaho offerings are reported generally as at shaded values. Last week's receipts of cheese at Portland were fractionally less than during the previous week. There was again a fairly steady tone generally in the market for butter although top scores here
