ball game between Willamette university and Linfield college of McMinnville on Sweetland field at 7 o'clock will be the afternoon attraction of the celebration. Legion tickets will be accepted for admission.

The evening's entertainment will include dancing on both floors of Crystal Garden and the moving pictures at the theatre. Cliff Thomas, who operates the Mellow Moon dance hall, is co-operating with the Legion by closing down the hall for the evening. His two orchestras will play for the Crystal Garden dances.

All of the Salem theatre managers have agreed to accept the Legion tickets for their shows. Theron Hoover, owner of a war-time moving picture of old Company M, Third Oregon, has arranged for the picture to be shown at the Grand theatre.

Many celebrants are expected to come to Salem for night festivities because the American Legion posts at Woodburn, Dallas, Silverton, Stayton and Monmouth-Independence will for the most part conclude their programs in the afternoon. The Woodburn post is staging a benefit carnival to raise funds for relief work during the winter.

started at about 9 o'clock last night when gangs of between 50 and 100 Chinese gunmen began shooting within the 300 meter limit around the Japanese concession.

Larger groups appeared near Nankai university at 1:45 this morning and began attacking the police.

French troops were called out of the French concession.

Firing, in which it was believed that artillery was being used, continued at three o'clock and the armored car rolled out of the Japanese concession 20 minutes later to exchange shots with the Chinese police.

FINGERPRINT USES TOLD BY SPEAKER

Methods of Tracing Crime Discussed by Murray At Chamber Meet

Nature never repeats herself in her inescapable trade-mark on the tips of the fingers of each individual. Of the many million fingerprints taken, no two sets of fingers are alike, J. S. Murray of the state penitentiary told an attentive audience at the Salem chamber of commerce Monday noon.

Murray discussed and illustrated the taking of fingerprints, showed how they were classified and explained the great value of fingerprints in detection of crime. There are now on file in Washington, D. C., 2,500,000 fingerprint records and in not to exceed two minutes, the bureau can ascertain if a certain fingerprint, indicated by the inquirer by code number, is available.

Murray also illustrated the Bertillon system of criminal measurement, saying it had been antedated by the more rapid and exact system of fingerprinting, a device which amateurs can employ. Murray said fingerprinting of documents had been used in ancient civilizations.

Murray delighted his listeners by telling anecdotes of penitentiary experiences he has gained over a 15-year period of work here. Most prisoners have nicknames, he said, and the hardened criminals pride themselves upon their peculiar branch or "trade." A safe-rover or burglar or forger many times goes back to that phase of criminal work when he is released.

The speaker urged improvement in the methods employed by the state when a man is pardoned or when a prisoner finishes his term. Unless he is paroled or pardoned, the state insisting he have a job in either instance, the prisoner simply turned loose on society with a suit of clothes and five dollars in his pocket. Readjustment to society by the former convict becomes very difficult, Murray said, with the result that the ex-prisoner frequently resorts again to crime.

FATHER-SON RALLY DRAWS BIG CROWD

The annual Father and Son rally was held last night at the Jason Lee church. Seventy-five men and boys were present at the gathering.

Two musical numbers made up the first part of the program. The first of these was an accordion solo played by Robert Brown and the second a vocal duet by Keith Clark and Harold Stout. Both numbers were very well received.

The big feature of the program came as a surprise when a policeman entered the room and immediately seized and arrested one of the men present on a charge of neglecting his son. A mock trial was put into effect with the whole group acting as jurors.

Judge Emmons presided as judge, Dwight Lear, Willamette university law student, took the part of the attorney for prosecution, and Rev. H. B. Fouke of the Jason Lee church acted as attorney for the defense. After arguments were heard from both sides, the group, as jurors, returned a verdict of "not guilty" and the meeting broke up at this point.

Louise Fazenda has proved the truth of David Warfield's remark that "it's only a hair that divides comedy from tragedy."

In Paramount's "The Mad Parade" the transition from light comedy to stark tragedy is portrayed by Miss Fazenda, proving that artists who have the quality of farce possess also the ability to depict tragic characteristics.

Miss Fazenda is cast as an over-fed volunteer from the mid-west. She rises to dramatic heights when a hand grenade accidentally kills one of the girls in her unit.

Others in this photoplay directed by William Beaudine are Evelyn Brent, Irene Rich, Lilyan Tashman, Marceline Day, Fritz Ridgeway, June Clyde and the Keating twins.

Warner Bros. Capitol theatre will headline this amazing account of feminine experience on the western fighting front today.

"The Honor of the Family," one of Balzac's drollest stories—comes in ultra-modern garb to the screen of Warner Bros. Elsinore theatre today. The picture, featuring Bebe Daniels, Warren William and Alan Mowbray is a First National release and was filmed on an ambitious scale.

"The Honor of the Family" was Otis Skinner's most successful stage vehicle. The plot involves the efforts of a dashing, romantic young soldier to save his wealthy uncle from the intrigues of a charming young actress, with whom later he himself falls in love.

Answering a message extended by the Salem chamber of commerce, Senator Charles L. McNary has informed the secretary here that he has sent on to President Hoover the invitation of the chamber to visit his old home in Salem next year when en route to California to attend the Olympic games.

McNary's wife says the president "was greatly pleased at this attention and will give the whole subject of his itinerary study if he determines upon the trip."

"We made the mistake of assuming that the world was aware of China's policy to disregard the treaties, but we are finding this was incorrect," he said. "Japan will direct the council's attention to numerous treaty violations, which Yoshizawa is itemizing."

ESTATE PROBATED IN TRAGEDY CASE

A house and lot worth $500, $25 in cash and $50 worth of furniture, subject to a mortgage, constitute the worldly goods Harold Hunt, 5, will inherit from his father, Howard M. Hunt, 31, who October 18 shot the lad's mother and killed her and then ended his life.

The estate of Hunt was filed for probate yesterday in the county court, the lad's grandfather, Albert Hunt being named administrator.

The estimated rental value of the real property is $50 a year. Howard Hunt had been sued for divorce by his wife a few weeks before the murder and suicide occurred. In his answer he claimed the wife had misused the little boy, teaching him immoral habits. Hunt became extremely angry with the counsel for Mrs. Edith Ackert, Douglas county school superintendent.

Byers was accused of being too friendly with a number of his women instructors. The charges against Byers were filed by Mrs. G. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction.

POLK COUNTY WILL START ROLL CALL

DALLAS, Nov. 10 — A county-wide meeting will be held in Dallas Thursday evening when A. L. Shafer, director of the American Red Cross will talk to the various representatives on the annual roll call which takes place November 11 to 26.

Dallas which is under jurisdiction of the Willamette chapter handled its own funds last year for relief work. The annual report just made shows that some 17 families were provided with food during the year, this represented 60 persons, with some $200 spent. Clothing was secured from the Needlework guild and other sources. It was found that in only few instances was it necessary to provide supplies more than one time.

In view of the good showing from last year, Dr. A. B. Starbuck, local chairman, hopes to increase greatly the sum this year and is calling in a committee of business men Thursday morning to make plans for the roll call. Those being called are C. L. Crider, J. R. Algood, E. J. Page, N. L. Guy, Tracy Savary, W. C. Retzer, W. L. Soehren, Conrad Starlin, Jack Eakin, Earle Richardson, C. B. Sandberg, Walter S. Hissman, C. W. Henkle, Walter S. POWERS INDICTED; NEW MURDER EYED CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 10. — (AP)—The first step in the state's effort to convict Harry F. Powers of slaying five persons came today with his indictment on charges of murder by a Harrison county grand jury. His trial probably will be held this month or early in December.

This development in the sensational Qulet Dell garage killings of last July came almost simultaneously with the finding of the body of Stamatios Sfikas, 40, shoe shining parlor proprietor, and friend of Powers, who disappeared last June. The body with a bullet in the head and the skull fractured, was discovered on a hillside near Clarksburg and Coroner L. C. Goff said he believed it a case of murder.

Powers is alleged to have been recently in the company of Sfikas previous to his disappearance will be questioned later regarding his knowledge of the shoe shiner.

HOOVER KIN DENIES LIQUOR OWNERSHIP

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 10. — (AP)—Charged with possession of 19 pints of liquor, C. Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, was at liberty today under bail of $250.

Leavitt, who is 37 years old, was arrested late yesterday as he attempted to leave a grocery store owned by a friend, C. R. Dalley, 48, who also was accused and released under similar bond.

The arrests were made by two federal prohibition agents, Rob Sheets and Fern Woolman, and a local police officer, Thomas Carr, who has gained fame locally for his campaign against violators of the liquor law.

In a signed statement obtained by Carr, Leavitt was quoted as saying that the liquor did not belong to him. The statement said that Dalley saw the officers approaching and snatched the sack, placing it in Leavitt's hands and saying: "Here, fix this real quick; here comes Carr." Leavitt said he did not know what the sack contained until the officers told him.
