OFFSET TO PROFS' CONTRIBUTION EYED

Consideration of Amounts They Give Other Ways is Suggested Here

Whether professors at the University of Oregon, state college and state normal schools will receive an offset for money contributed to local community chest, provided they are called upon to give one day's pay each month for an additional relief fund to be sponsored by state officials, was considered Tuesday by a committee selected to work out a plan for collection and disbursing the state relief fund.

In event no offset is allowed the committee was asked whether any of the state relief fund would be returned to the communities in which the educational institutions are located.

Representatives of the university declared that the professors at that institution contribute annually an average of $150 for relief. This is in excess of the amount that would be collected under the state plan. Proportionate to be made by professors at the other educational institutions.

Members of the committee made it plain that distribution of the state relief fund would be state wide. The offsets suggested by the university will be given consideration by the committee. Prominent Eugene business men, interested in the community chest there, also appeared before the committee.

Under the proposed state plan, each department has an employee who would contribute one day's pay each month, subject to certain exemptions approved by the officials.

For Von Hindenburg alone, the oldest of them all, new and higher duties of statesmanship awaited after the signing of the armistice. Petain and Pershing met again on this anniversary, then they separate each to resume his place as honored advisor of his countrymen, but himself an onlooker at the swift march of events today.

In Germany, despite his more than 80 years, Hindenburg, the loser of the battle 13 years ago, is in the very center of clashing interests, president of the German republic. He is knowing cares and responsibilities out of keeping with his life-long training to the sword. As the soldiers sheathed their swords, the statesman came back.

APPEAL IS DENIED 2 PRISON INMATES

The state supreme court, in an opinion handed down yesterday, denied the application for appeal of John Berg and F. J. McAweeney, who are under five years penitentiary sentence for attempted larceny in Lane county. The opinion was written by Chief Justice Bean.

Berg and McAweeney were alleged to have secured the promise of $1950 from A. V. Carlson, aged Jackson county resident, in connection with a so-called confidence deal in which the defendants claimed to have won $60,000. Carlson was to have received a share of the alleged winnings in return for advancing the money involved in the criminal transaction. The men were arrested at Eugene as Carlson was about to deliver the money to Berg.

Chief Justice Bean held that no services of notices of appeal was made on the clerk of the circuit court in Lane county, therefore the supreme court had no jurisdiction of the appeals. Counsel for the defendants alleged that notice had been filed with the county clerk in compliance with the statutes.

Occurences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

HISTORY alters much in 13 years. As the allied world today celebrates Armistice day, it is recalled that but four of the great eight leaders of the conflict are alive, and only two are in active service today, not in a military way, but in statesmanship, and only one—a defeated general—is forging on to greater destiny.

Five great-men-at-arms and the "big three" at Versailles stand out in the world war and half of these have gone on amid their honors. Foch, Petain, Haig, Pershing and Von Hindenburg were the soldiers, while Wilson, Clemenceau and Lloyd George were the statesmen.

Foch, the generalissimo, and Haig, England's soldier of the hour, are dead. Of the statesmen, only Lloyd George still lives, and is still active in English politics even though now leader of but a handful of votes in parliament. Wilson and Clemenceau have been absent several observances of that memorable day in 1918.

For Von Hindenburg alone, the oldest of them all, new and higher duties of statesmanship awaited after the signing of the armistice. Petain and Pershing met again on this anniversary, then they separate each to resume his place as honored advisor of his countrymen, but himself an onlooker at the swift march of events today.

In Germany, despite his more than 80 years, Hindenburg, the loser of the battle 13 years ago, is in the very center of clashing interests, president of the German republic. He is knowing cares and responsibilities out of keeping with his life-long training to the sword. As the soldiers sheathed their swords, the statesman came back.

bers was formerly Miss Rosa Mark, a graduate of the Oregon State Normal, and Mr. Chambers is a graduate of the Oregon State college.

RED CROSS TO OPEN DRIVE ON THURSDAY

Governor Meier Urges Full Support; Organization Here is Active

Governor Meier Monday urged all citizens of Oregon to support the annual membership roll call of the American Red Cross.

"I hope that the people of Oregon will respond cheerfully and generously to the annual plea for funds necessary to carry on this worth while service," Governor Meier's message read.

The American Red cross, one of the nation's greatest helping hands in a time of need, will open its membership campaign Thursday morning as a nation-wide drive and will continue until Thanksgiving day. This year Salem has a Red Cross organization and behind it are a host of prominent people who will contribute their services toward the securing of an all-Salem membership to this organization which aids in every kind of need, whether it be food, clothing, medical attention or relief work in time of disaster.

Judge George Rossman of the state supreme court, is chairman of the local Red Cross. The roll call, which means placing the names of Salem residents on the membership list of the Salem Red Cross, will be made by a large group of public spirited women. This will start Thursday morning with committee meetings at 9 o'clock for both the residence committee headed by Mrs. Fritz Slade and of the business district committee headed by Mrs. Curtis Cross.

Scouts Will Carry Red Cross Banners
 Mrs. W. E. Feldman, publicity director, announces that Boy Scouts will take part as a unit of the Armistice day parade and that Red Cross flags will be carried by them which have been made by students in the domestic science departments of the public schools under the direction of Mrs. Eula Creech.

It is also announced that the Kiwanis club will devote its meeting this week to a Red Cross program with A. McDonald, assistant attorney general, as speaker.

That is why Salem today is observing the date which 13 years ago was the signal for universal rejoicing. And participation of citizens should not be urged, it should be spontaneous. A good program has been outlined. And if nothing more, just a few minutes thought to what Armistice has meant, would not be inappropriate.

The state house will be closed all day today, as will also most of Salem's business houses. Governor Meier called upon citizens of Oregon to make Armistice day a "day of reflection as well as a day of rejoicing." The program naturally is in charge of the American Legion, and at least this one day should be theirs.

Drivers' Licenses Are Lost by 21

Twenty-one automobile drivers' licenses were revoked during the month of October, it was reported Tuesday by Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state. All but one of these were for driving while intoxicated. The other was for failure to disclose identity at the scene of an accident. Eight of the revocations were reported from Portland. Eleven drivers had their licenses suspended on charges of reckless driving and speeding.

Are they as good as when the ruffles came down to the ankles?

GOOD? . . . You bet they are! Maybe the girls are even better. Anyhow, cigarettes are a whole lot better. No doubt about that.

- They used to be made by hand—
Now it's machines; no hand but yours ever touches them.
- They used to be packed in expensive, highfalutin' cardboard boxes—
Now the quality is in the cigarettes.
- The U. S. Revenue Tax used to be a penny a package of twenty—
Now it's six cents a package of twenty.
- Tobacco used to be dried by air—
Now Liggett & Myers alone has thirty-five drying machines of the latest type, with a daily capacity of over 2,000,000 pounds—and over four miles of warphouses for tobacco storage.

BETTER—they're miles better! Everything used in the manufacture of Chesterfield cigarettes is the best that money can buy or that Science knows about.

CHESTERFIELD TOBACCOS—both Turkish and Domestic—are mild and ripe, the best that money can buy.

AND THE WAY Chesterfield tobaccos are blended and cross-blended is like making a new and better-tasting kind of tobacco, with greater smoothness, more mildness and a more pleasing aroma—a fragrance and flavor not to be found in any other cigarette.

CHESTERFIELD gives you the benefit of all the world knows about the production of better cigarettes. Nobody smokes a better cigarette than Chesterfield.
