Deemed Superior Road for Coast Trips, Widening To Standard Asked

MONMOUTH, Nov. 14.—The Elkins-Kings Valley market road which converges with the West side highway at an intersection about two miles south of Monmouth is an acknowledged superior route to Newport, from that port of Polk county. This road would automatically come under the secondary state highway classification were its right-of-way widened to the requirement of 60 feet.

Monmouth, Independence and Elkins citizens are interested in a movement to establish this road as a secondary state road, and to this end the local Lions club sent six representatives: R. E. Swenson, F. E. Chamber, Fred Hill, O. A. Wolverton, S. Dietrick and E. C. Cole to a meeting of the Elkins Farmers' union last night where the matter received considerable discussion.

Two members of the Farmers' union, R. O. Dodson and William Toedtmier, later appointed a committee to confer with the county court as to procedure.

Hollywood North of Fairgrounds Surveyed Before North Salem Area By Same Name Came Into Existence

Savage Land Claim Hollywood proper, located about two miles east and slightly to the north of the fairgrounds was surveyed, named and the name recorded in the county court house in April of 1910, about 15 or 20 years before the Hollywood of north Salem was established. With the exception of a very small portion of it, Hollywood lies to the south of the Salem-Silverton highway and extends east from the four-corner road about half a mile. It is covered on the south-east by the Swetie school and on the northeast by the Middle Grove school. It was formed from the estate of George O. Savage which was once a part of the Savage donation land claim taken in 1846.

Some will doubtless recall the time when George Savage owned and operated a hop ranch on part of this land, building a hop house which was almost in the center of the district when it was later established. Only recently (in about 1924 or 1925) was this hop house blown down, later being torn down and removed. A. M. McDonald and Mr. McGill, then connected with the Oregon Nursery Co., maintained a nursery business for a number of years on about 80 acres of what is now a part of Hollywood.

This land was finally sold by Mr. Savage to Hartley and Craig who turned it over to Bechtel and Byron Realty Co., for survey and division into small tracts for suburban homes. The survey was completed, map drawn, and the record together with the name recorded in the court house in April of 1910. Hartley and Craig reserved 45 acres which they planted into hops maintaining a hop ranch on it for several years.

Charles Bean purchased the first tract and built the first house in the district. The building still stands. It is now owned by J. J. Kleeman.

Bechtel and Byron experienced some difficulty in selecting a suitable name for the district until finally one of the men suggested that they name it Hollywood after Hollywood Calif., since they had such good luck while in business there.

With the exception of the one tract of 45 acres, Hollywood is composed of small tracts averaging five acres each. These are nearly all taken up and the residents are interested not so much in the profit they can make on them as they are in making a home for their families. Most of them diversify their farming activities. Some have a large flock of chickens while several of them have planted berries as a commercial crop.

With all the modern conveniences of gas, lights and telephone service, Hollywood is an ideal place for the home lover.

Let nothing stop you

THE druggist emerges from behind his prescription counter, with a small package, and hands it to the waiting messenger. "Let nothing stop you," he warns, "it is a matter of life or death!" And he gazes anxiously after his messenger as he disappears into the darkness of the storm-swept night.

Somewhere in the neighborhood a Doctor is tending a stricken patient. He had telephoned to the Druggist a prescription of vital importance, and he is waiting, counting every minute, for the medicine to arrive.

Just a glimpse behind the scenes—an incident in the professional life of the Druggist—and one which should impress us with his true place in the community. As few druggists can maintain an exclusively prescription pharmacy, he must be a merchant, too. But assuredly his professional services and the sacrifices he is often called upon to make in the public welfare entitle him to a large measure of the good-will of the community, and a place of honor among its professional men.
