Census Rolls Late—Unless 13 Marion county school districts get their census rolls to the county school superintendent before December 1, they will go without state and county funds apportioned on the basis of this census, according to Mary L. Fulkerson, superintendent. Mrs. Fulkerson must have her budget before the county court the first of the month, and in case districts fail to report prior to that time, the budget goes in minus such districts' allowances. MEIER PROCLAIMS THANKSGIVING DAY

Time Specially Appropriate To Seek Guidance Says Governor's Note

Governor Meier proclaimed Thursday, November 26, as Thanksgiving day, in a proclamation issued from the executive department late Thursday.

"Our annual day of Thanksgiving endures as a national heritage from the Pilgrim fathers, who gathered together amidst hardship, adversity and peril to offer prayer and praise to the divine power whence came their strength," the proclamation read.

"The span of years has brought progress along innumerable lines to add to the richness and security of our lives. Ingenious science and fruitful nature have bestowed manifold blessings upon the world. Infinite opportunities for happiness and well-being await wise stewardship, yet perplexed humanity falters in its search for universal prosperity and peace.

"This year, of all years, should we approach our Thanksgiving festival in the spirit of the Pilgrim fathers, humbly beseeching wisdom and understanding in the husbandry of God's good gifts so that all men everywhere may know the abundance of life."

"Now, therefore, I, Julius L. Meier, governor of the state of Oregon, in conformity to the proclamation of the president of the United States, do proclaim Thursday, November 26, 1931, as Thanksgiving day, and do hereby set it aside as a public holiday.

"Let us, on this day, give thanks to God for the fulfillment of his ancient promise that while the earth remaineth, seed time and the harvest shall not fail. Let us acknowledge the ties of family affection and renew the bond of heart and home. Let us confirm and strengthen the will to peace and brotherhood.

"Let us give cheerful and generous aid to those who are in sorrow or need, and let us reverently seek the guidance of almighty God in the service of mankind."

CAST IN FATAL LOVE FEUD

Accusing him of having "murder in his heart," Rose Allen (upper left), 15-year-old debutante, has sped her brother, Edward H. B. Allen (right), 23, toward the electric chair for the slaying of Francis A. Donaldson, 3rd (lower left), 25, her suitor. The fatal shooting occurred in a fashionable suburb of Philadelphia, and followed a quarrel between Allen, his father, Horace Allen, Donaldson and a friend of his. The Allens strenuously objected to Donaldson's suit for Rose's hand. Both families are prominent socially.

Under the Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

IT'S a good thing Governor Meier returned to the capitol yesterday, or Oregon might not have had a chance to celebrate Thanksgiving. The governor issued the proclamation last night, so now everything can be planned for next Thursday. The governor said it would be a public holiday—so that's something to be thankful for.

PRUNE MEN HOLD FOR BETTER PRICE

LIBERTY, Nov. 19—Prune growers in this vicinity are in the main, still holding their stock of dried fruit for better prices. So far practically the only prunes disposed of are packed and sent out by several local people directly to consumers and retailers. Among others R. Joup has put up and disposed of several orders from the ordinary sacked stuff to the choicest cellophane wrapped. While prunes might be selling faster, still the market is not at a stand still.

State aid Commission Sees Chance to Make Saving On Properties Held

Anticipating savings of $24,100 in the next three years, the world war veterans state aid commission has adopted a policy of carrying its own insurance upon all properties on which it has made loans and which have reverted to the state. This was announced here today by Jerrold Owen, secretary of the commission.

Owen said there would be no cancellation of the 617 policies now carried on properties held by the commission. As these expire, however, there will be no renewals.

Records of the commission show that up to June 30, 1931, there has been paid in insurance premiums $42,325. Losses, on which insurance was carried, aggregated only $5400.

On June 1, 1928, the commission had properties valued at $597,000, while three years later the properties held by the commission were valued at $1,334,000. The costs of insurance premiums for those three years was in excess of $15,000.

"There is no reason to believe that fire losses during the next three years will exceed the average losses of the past," Owen said. "Our properties are not concentrated where one disastrous conflagration would incur heavy losses."

Owen declared that a total of 382 properties have been turned back to the commission with a total valuation of $2,229,725, and that 255 of these properties had been resold on contract for $336,525, leaving the commission with 617 properties on its hands valued at $1,487,200.

Large Share of Refund Loan is Repaid by State

Rufus C. Holman, state treasurer, Thursday paid off $600,000 of the total of $800,000 of 4% per cent general fund certificates of indebtedness, representing money borrowed with which to meet refund payments under the unconstitutional 1929 intangibles tax law.

The loan was arranged through the American National bank of Portland, of which Governor Meier is chairman of the board of directors. The second lowest bid on the loan was 4 1/4 per cent. Holman said the remainder of the loan probably would be paid off not later than December 1. Money used in paying off the loan was obtained through tax payments for the last half of the current year.

No Jobs Loose In Portland is Warning Issued

Warning that no jobs are available in Portland is being sent throughout the northwest by the planning department of the Portland community chest, addressed particularly to young people who may be thinking of seeking a career in that city. They are advised to remain at home unless they have funds to tide them over or friends or relatives with whom they may live.

"Disappointment is a sad being in a young person's career," the notice says. "It will be far better to remain at school another year or help at home."

New Acroplane Design Proving Much Superior

Construction and trial of the new biplane acroplane designed by Lee Eyerly was completed yesterday. The machine is much superior to the monoplane acroplane which has been in use for some time at the airport here, according to Eyerly.

Mr. Eyerly plans to leave for California this morning to fly back a new Waco "F." He will go to San Francisco, and possibly to Los Angeles, the latter city being headquarters for the Acroplane Manufacturing corporation, in which he is interested. He will pick up the Waco at Oakland, returning in it as soon as weather permits. This will make the second Waco for the local airport.

KANTOLA TO LIVE, LATEST FORECAST

If no unforeseen complications set in, Wayne Kantola, Salem youth who shot himself through the head on November 9, will recover, the attending physician yesterday said. "I see no reason why he shouldn't live," he declared.

"He was brighter yesterday than any time yet and is entirely rational, except occasionally in the evenings."

Fear expressed several days ago that Kantola would lose the sight of one eye was ungrounded, according to the physician. The patient's eyes have been tested and found to be functioning normally.

Speaking of the wound, the physician averred he had never before seen anything like it in his life, and the patient remaining alive. The bullet, from the .25 calibre revolver entered Kantola's right temple and coursed slightly upward, emerging high on the left temple. A hole nearly half an inch in diameter was left at the point of emergence. The bullet directly pierced the brain, taking with it a tablespoon full of the brain matter, he said.

Kantola's only complaint of pain now is of his shoulder. This the physician believes, comes from the bullet wound, but from injuries Kantola sustained in an automobile accident on the night before he shot himself.
