SICILIAN DRAMA TO POINT PRIDE THEME

"Pride" will be the theme of the second dramatic worship service to be held at the First Congregational church Sunday at 7:30 p.m. This service will consist of special musical numbers and the dramatization of the Sicilian's Tale in Longfellow's "Tales of the Wayside Inn" called "Robert of Sicily."

The action takes place in the eleventh century and is presented in three scenes: The King's Chapel, the Banquet Hall of the Palace, and the Throne Room of the Palace three years later. The story shows how the proud and haughty King of Sicily becomes humble and penitent. The service was originally planned for Dr. Fosdick's church in New York City and is used by special permission from there.

New lighting effects will be used to make the service more impressive. The costume committee have been making several new costumes. Members of the choir will assist the service Sunday and it is expected that at least 200 guests will be back for the occasion.

Rev. Albyn Esson of Albany, who has been the speaker at every homecoming will be here again this time. A basket dinner will be featured at noon. Burton Murphy, baritone of Portland, will sing at the morning services.

During the afternoon songs and readings will be given by Mrs. Albyn Esson, Albany; Miss Elizabeth Earles, Silvertown; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Emmons, Portland; Mrs. Arthur Williams, Portland. Mrs. W. O. Livingstone will speak during the afternoon, and a play will be given by members of Mrs. Dan Geiser's class.

The Salem Ministerial association in its regular meeting this week passed a resolution expressing its appreciation for the fine spirit of cooperation shown by Rev. Comer during the three years of his pastorate here.

Rev. Comer was a member of the social welfare committee of the Ministerial association and sang in the ministerial quartet.
