Off on the Winter Trek

By HARDIN BURNLEY

MONEY prizes are leaner, but the Winter golf caravan moves on. The discontinuance of the La Gorce Open, at Miami Beach, which carried the richest golfing purse in the United States, has sent the pro golf stars scurrying to the smaller tournaments in the hope of a smaller Winter awards. Heretofore the big names of the golfing world pointed only to the bigger tournaments, like La Gorce, Agua Caliente, etc., looking upon the smaller tournaments as "get-rea" affairs. Of course, should a bit of the prize money fall their way, it was accepted and added to the budget, but the stars like Sarazen, Deigel, Armour, Cox, Hagen, and the Smiths—Horton and MacDonald—were "shooting" at the big dog.

With the La Gorce tourney out and some of the other rich events waning, the boys started out in full force, intent on following the

Cherrian Hoopsters Fast Rounding Into Form With Much Hard Work on Menu

With hard work being prescribed constantly, basketball practice at Salem high has run smoothly the first week and about 30 men are still on the A and B squads.

Coach "Holly" Huntington has limited the A squad to 12, though he has not made final selection of the players to be used. Vernon Gilmore, coach of the B team, is permitting about 16 to remain on his squad for the present, including Dan McCarthy, general utility player.

John Bone is going strong in practice at forward and is also reported to be improving his scholastic standing. Glen Sanford is playing a good game at guard and also works in well on offense. Sachter is the other left forward and is covering his guard position well.

Huntington states that Vie DeJardin and several others on the B squad look pretty good and may replace some of the first string crew.

Utes Arrive For Charity Grid Tussle

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 4 — (AP) A hale and hearty, rangy but powerful University of Utah football team rested here tonight, ready for a charity tilt with Oregon State college on Multnomah stadium tomorrow.

The Utah traveling squad of 34 players reached the city about 12 hours ahead of the stagers, had a light workout on the field and then lounged around the hotel until bedtime.

Proceeds of the game, above actual expenses, will go to unemployment relief funds in Portland and Salt Lake City. Late in the afternoon about 2500 tickets had been sold. Upwards of 10,000 spectators were expected at the game. Expenses were estimated at $7000.

Senior, Junior Teams Winners In Class Games

WOODBURN, Dec. 4—Two more basketball contests in the interclass series, being played at Woodburn high school, were run off Thursday, with the senior and junior class teams emerging the victors. In the game played Thursday morning the seniors beat the team representing the sophomores by a score of 14 to 6.

The juniors won from the sophomores by a score of 7 to 4. The junior-sophomore fray was staged in the evening. The big game of the series, between the seniors and juniors, will be played Friday.

A device to kill dandelions has been perfected by Dr. I. E. Melhus, head of the botany department at Iowa State college.

EX-FOOTBALLER BEATS RUSSIAN

Cantonwine Uses Headlocks To Wear Count Down in Match at Armory

Howard Cantonwine proved that he had something other than football tactics to offer in the wrestling game. In Friday night's main event at the armory when he subdued Count Harkovsky with a series of headlocks. The ex-grinder won the first fall in that manner after 33 1/2 minutes of action that was lively considering the men's bulk, and the Russian in such weakened condition at the end of the round that he fell easy prey after the five minutes' rest.

Cantonwine went after his grogy opponent in such business like fashion when they resumed the fray, that his headlocks settled the match in just 46 seconds more.

The big boys, weighing 232 and 227 pounds respectively with Cantonwine holding the edge, showed surprising speed for their weight and were not a bit averse to using plenty of rough stuff. After a bit of that they would call a halt, shake hands and beg each other's pardon, promise not to do it again and then repeat the performance.

Frank Lockhart and Dale Jory, local boys just breaking into the professional game, wrestled to a draw, Lockhart winning the first fall in 5 1/2 minutes with a sonenberg and body press, and Jory taking the second with a shoulder butt in nine minutes.

Parrish Has Prospect of Poor Season

Coach Frank Brown of Parrish junior high states that there is little hope of duplicating the winning spells his teams have enjoyed in the past as he is working in an altogether new situation. The men and women experienced performers are small.

However Brown is working his gang constantly and is endeavoring to convert some of the football men to the maple court.

No tall men are on hand with sufficient experience to give Parrish a team, who was a substitute on last year's team, is being used as center now.

Salstrom and Steinke are the forwards being tried at present and though both are small, they gained considerable basketball experience last season on the Trojan team. Both are good shots, though not exceptionally speedy.

Gwynn and York are the present guards with White and Don Coons alternating. Wirtz is being used at center some and Carter and Baxter are other forwards who are working to learn the game. Others on the squad include Luther, Quesseth, Dyer and Glasier.

The team held a practice scrimmage with the Sacred Heart Academy Friday night and will have a few more such practice tilts in preparation for the opening game.

The first game of the season will be played against Newberg junior high December 18. Brown is predicting tough sledding in that game and probable defeat.

One of the leading events of the year at the Y. M. C. A. will be held next Tuesday night when boy members and their dads assemble for an informal program of games, swimming, music and refreshments. The evening's entertainment will begin at 7 o'clock.

Competition between dad and son will be featured in the games and stunts. These will include: sponometer, chin-up, bar, basketball, jump board, target throw, tumbling, a baseball game with the boys captained by Richard Devers and the dads by O. J. Hull, and Loyal Warner as umpire; and a tug of war.

At 8 o'clock, after the swimming exhibition, the boys and their dads will return to the gymnasium for group singing led by O. J. Hull and cider and doughnut refreshments served by members of the Y junior board of directors.

During this after-entertainment program, Victor Williams and Fred Hageman will compete for the high school boys' ping pong championship.

Only Two Coast Gridders On All-America Selection Made by Associated Press

By ALAN GOULD — (AP) — For the second successive year Notre Dame and Northwestern, the chief banner-bearers of mid-western college football, grab the lion's share of All-America laurels for the 1931 season, in the seventh annual Associated Press consensus.

Not even the stunning setback at the hands of Southern California deflected the landslide of votes for the outstanding individual stars of Notre Dame's line and backfield. As a result the great Marchmont Schwartz, acclaimed the hardest running back in America, gains all-star distinction for the second straight year, along with two teammates, Captain Tom Yarr at center and Frank (Nurdy) Hoffman at guard.

Northwestern places its ace ball carrier, Ernest (Pug) Rentner, and Dallas Marvill, 233-pound tackle, in the All-America lineup, thereby duplicating the achievement of the Wildcats in taking two positions a year ago with Frank Baker and Red Woodworth.

The Midwest collects six positions altogether on the first team as Captain Clarence Munn of Minnesota proved far and away the outstanding choice for guard.

Two of the remaining positions go to the south, two to the west and one to the east, the latter accounted for by the almost unanimous selection of Captain William Barry Wood, Jr., of Harvard for the key position of quarterback.

All told, on the All-America squad of 33 players, including second and third teams, 14 places go to the big mid-western area, eight to the east, five to the far west and one to the southwest.

The south's two crack ends, Captain Gerald Dalrymple of Tulane and Vernon (Catfish) Smith of Georgia, ran away from all rivals in the nation-wide balloting by sports editors and writers.

On the other hand, the far west's brace of honor men, Erny Pinckert of Southern California, back, and Paul Schwieger of the University of Washington, tackle, won their positions only after the keenest competition everywhere along the voting scotors.

Pinckert's duplicated Schwartz' achievement in gaining All-America honors for the second year in a row, won a close contest from Gene McEver, Tennessee's powerhouse, for the fourth backfield position by a margin of only four votes.

Oregon is conspicuous for its lack of representation on the All-America selections. In the list of honorable mention players occur the names of Hammer, Oregon State center, and Moe, Oregon State back.

CURT COMMENTS

For the last several days we've been a little bit puzzled about that snow business up at Walla Walla, but it all appears to be straightened out now. We're still convinced that the snow obliged the Bearcats out of a chance to score on what from all evidences was a weak defensive team that they should have scored on and most likely should have beaten; but the recent disclosures reveal that "Nig" Borleske had some defense against the claim that he refused to allow the snow to be removed.

Here's what puzzled us: a letter to the Oregonian by H. Sherman Mitchell of Walla Walla: "At 10 o'clock Thursday morning Borleske, Spec Keene, Leslie Sparks, Willamette graduate manager, and a Salem newspaper man visited the field, viewed the situation, talked it over from all angles and at the conclusion Borleske told Keene: "Spec, I'll do whatever you want."

"Keene replied that 'we'll leave it as it is.'"

Our original information was that Keene had been strong for having the snow removed. But after his team was beaten, Keene didn't want to alibi, and said nothing; and when that letter appeared in the Oregonian, he said it was "substantially correct."

But now we have a letter from Borleske which, to our mind, explains the whole situation. We haven't room for all of it but will purposely leave out any part to weaken his argument: "I am very sorry, indeed, that the present athletic relations between Willamette university and the association of colleges have been marred by the various articles appearing in certain papers in the Northwest."

"One would gather from these articles that the snow was plied on the field intentionally by myself in order to handicap the Bearcats' practice. I have been at Whitman college 17 years, and this is the first time during that period that we have played in the snow. Under these conditions, it is very easy to see that both rain and snow are a tremendous handicap to us."

"This is especially true this year, because we have a rather light backfield, and our stellar man, Applegate, weighs less than 150 pounds and depends absolutely upon his change of pace, shiftable and sidestepping."

"As there was snow on the ground Wednesday afternoon, Whitman did practice in the snow that afternoon. We had to, if we were going to get any work-out, I told Mr. Folgate, my assistant, at that time that it would be better to play in the snow than to scrape it off and run the risk of injuring the players on the hard, frozen ground....

"Thursday morning I went down to the hotel and saw Mr. Keene and Mr. Sparks and asked them to go with me out to the field. I explained to them that I did not think it advisable to scrape the field and told them that we had practiced in the snow the afternoon before and had used jersey gloves, and told them where we purchased them. Keene asked me to wait until he personally could see that the purchase was made. I did so. We then went out to the field together. I explained to Keene and Sparks that in my best judgment it was not advisable to scrape the snow off the field and told them why. As the weather report shows, the ground was frozen underneath; it was still snowing; we have a turf field so at best only a part of the snow could be taken off, and it would still leave the snowy, slippery field, and in addition the snow cushion to break the fall upon the hard ground would be removed. After we had gone over everything, I turned to Keene and said, 'Spec, I will do just as you say. If you want the snow removed, I will do everything I can to see that it is done,' and Keene replied to 'let it ride.'

"As for having special cleats we used exactly the same cleats in the game last Thursday that we used at Salem last year."

30 BASKETERS IN DALLAS PRACTICES

DALLAS, Dec. 4—Coach Shreve of Dallas high has 30 games scheduled for his 1931-32 team with three open dates left. Fourteen of these are division games in the Polk county league and are the ones Dallas has to depend on to reach the county tournament which will be held on February 24, 25 and 26, 1932.

Approximately 30 prospective basketball players have reported for regular practice. Only four lettermen from last year's squad are out this year but Mr. Shreve has several men back who gained experience on the B squad last year. The lettermen are "Dutch" LeFors, Fred Lewis, Bill Cadie, and Ed McEwen.

Mr. Shreve plans to divide the men into two squads soon and will coach the A squad himself. The A squad consists of the first team and their substitutes. Phillip Flood will be in charge of the B squad. The team will play most of the preliminaries for the high school.

The first game will be Dec. 11 with the Evangelical church, Salem.

BEARCAT HOPES YET UNCERTAIN

Informal Scrimmage, First Of Season Held Friday With Coach Away

Rather an informal scrimmage wound up the week's basketball practice at Willamette university Friday, though Coach "Spec" Keene was not there.

During the first week, the turnout has been varied with each practice as some of the football men have been resting part of the time and one or two others have been temporarily ineligible.

The complete squad will probably be assembled Monday and will include about 10 or 12 men who have played here before. Keene may decide to keep a few of the freshmen on the varsity squad, depending on which positions the first team seem to need reinforcements.

Until Friday, no scrimmage had been held by the Bearcats. Mass drill in pivoting, sidestepping and passing was held. Considerable time was also spent on a warmup drill with three men working the ball into the basket. Jim Burdette and several of the new men on the squad are doing well on shots from behind the foul line. A great deal of time has been spent by the squad practicing these shots and also follow-up attempts.

Only two letter wearers reporting

Kloostra and Scales are the only lettermen who reported during the week's drill. Both appear to be in good early season condition and Kloostra is showing accuracy in close shots. With his height it is easy for him to get up over the heads of the guards.

Kaiser is another of last year's men who is going good now. He is tall and roney and displays considerable fitness. Fahrenhartley and Moore, all from last year's squad, are working hard and showing good form in their playing.

Griffith, Larnard and Frantz, all from last season's freshman class, show promise. Frantz is a good jumper and covers a lot of territory at guard.

Three men taking the ball on offense against two guards has also been practiced during the week to give drill on working in for short shots. In Friday's scrimmage several plays were made by both of the teams. However the men were not in good enough condition to form defense against a fast breaking attack.
