

FEED FOR TOWN SET WEDNESDAY

All Local Items Planned for Big Dinner at For-ester's Hall

STAYTON, Dec. 5—Wednesday night, Dec. 9, the Women's Community club will give an Oregon Products dinner at the For-ester hall. The meal will consist of home products in particular, and everything will be an Oregon product. The dinner is in connection with the observance of Oregon Home Products week, from Dec. 7 to 12.

There will be an entertaining program and several out of town speakers, among them A. G. Clarke who was appointed by Gov. Meier to have charge of this work throughout the state; L. M. Lepper, Portland attorney and J. L. Peacock a director of the East Side Commercial club, of Portland.

Prizes will be given for the best essays by grade school pupils on the subject "Why Trade at Home." Also prizes for the best Oregon Products posters made by school children.

Every dollar spent for an Oregon product means the goods must be replaced, thus it keeps some at work, and the money stays here. When spent for goods made elsewhere the money goes out of the state, to build up pay rolls there—hence leaders here as elsewhere are boosting Oregon products.

All are urged to attend the dinner, where they may learn more about what Oregon produces, in the way of manufacture. Many are buying goods produced elsewhere, that may be found manufactured in Oregon. There is a nominal charge for the dinner.

The evangelistic meetings at the Baptist church are being well attended. Special outside groups of musicians and singers are assisting each night, among them being the Priesen chorus and orchestra. Next Wednesday night the Salvation army singers of Salem will assist. The afternoon bible studies and prayer meeting are led by Orin Buckbee. Evangelist H. M. Mead, who has been conducting meetings throughout the valley has charge of the evening service. The public is invited to attend all meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Beauchamp entertained a small group of friends on Wednesday evening in honor of C. A.'s birthday. Bridge was played and Dr. and Mrs. G. F. Korinek received prizes for high score. Unusually tempting refreshments were served, at a late hour.

O. M. Baker, local Chevrolet dealer is now located in his new quarters on Third street. His new location gives him much better facilities than the old one. He had the new car, on display today.

TRAVEL ACCESSORY GIFTS ARE USEFUL

If your man travels much, selecting a gift that will be appreciated is simple. A few minutes' window shopping will reveal an array of those little accessories which do much to take the inconveniences out of living on trains and in hotels.

Combination kits for shaving equipment, military hair brushes, tooth brushes and soap are innumerable — and so handsome. The leather kits, waterproofed inside, bear that simplicity and serviceability that please the male.

Pajamas now come with packing bags to match. No longer need the traveler search for the coat in one end of his bag and for the trousers in the other.

Leather bags with compartments keep personal effects separate. A neat grip, like clothes, makes the traveler feel gay.

Little things, but, multiplied, they take exasperating disorder out of the traveler's life.
