JUDGE ILL, DOCKET SATURDAY CHANGED

Hill to Preside for Motion Day; Grand Jury Will Wind up Affairs

Illness on the part of Circuit Judge McMahan forces a change of plans in circuit court to the effect that Judge Hill will take the other's place on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when motion day is scheduled. This time is a change from the formerly announced time of 10 o'clock in the morning.

Grand jury is expected to report on several routine matters Saturday afternoon. The January circuit court jury term which was to have started Monday, January 4, has been postponed till Monday, January 11, at 1:30 o'clock when the cases of Greene, et al. vs. Earl L. Fisher, et al. and Security Trust and Savings company vs. Earl L. Fisher, et al. regarding the excise and intangibles tax laws passed anew by the last legislature will be contested. The one enacted three years ago was contested and found invalid by the courts.

The full title of the excise tax which comes in the January term is Maude B. Green and Mary A. Caswell, vs. Earl L. Fisher, Charles V. Galloway, tax commissioners of the State of Oregon, Julius L. Meier, governor of the State of Oregon, and I. H. Van Winkle, attorney general of the State of Oregon. The other case's plaintiff is now the Security Savings and Trust company as executor under the last will and testament of Isabella M. A. Barnes, deceased; the defendant is the same as in the excise tax case.

Mrs. Barnes started the case and it is now being carried on by her estate following her death. For their cause of argument in the excise tax case, the plaintiffs state, in part, that the "tax imposed by said intangibles act is arbitrary, unreasonable and discriminatory..." and further that the "intangibles income tax act of 1931 is unconstitutional and void..." citing three clauses of the state of Oregon constitution and a part of the 14th amendment of the constitution of the United States.

The plaintiffs ask "for the issuance of a temporary restraining order restraining and enjoining the defendants from enforcing or attempting to enforce... intangibles act..."

Under the Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

HAPPY NEW YEAR! The "Under the Dome" column thus takes opportunity of wishing its readers all the best there is in life for the coming 12 months. And for bachelors and old maids a particularly happy year is hoped, and that they take the greatest advantage during this "leap year."

In this issue of The Statesman many are telling of what has been accomplished in 1931. They sound very good, but all of them are overshadowed by this what will be revealed at this time—that 1931 saw the birth of the "Under the Dome" column. The column was started in April, and what more important event could have taken place, please?

Further than that modesty prevents laudation of achievements. The only thought of the writer is that events occur during this new year of such nature that the column can be improved by publication of glad tidings. Suggestions of readers likewise are asked to better this department.

As the old year closed the governor of Oregon again talked to the governor of Oregon over long distance telephone. Willard L. Marks congratulated Julius L. Meier on his improved health and Meier on the other hand lauded the administration of Marks during the past month. They seemed to get along real well in the conversation.

Governor Meier ended the old year by celebrating his 57th birthday. He was born on the last day of the year, 1874. The executive department sent him a message of congratulations. December is a big month for the governor, as his wedding day also occurs during the month, and on Christmas day at that.

The other governor, Mr. Marks, will still be governor today, but he ended his office schedule yesterday by clearing the decks for the return of the elective official. Monday the

SUPREME JUSTICES' RULINGS TOTAL 311

Court now in Three Months Behind on Work; 72 new Lawyers Admitted

A total of 311 written opinions were handed down by the Oregon supreme court in 1931, in which 250 cases were disposed of on their merits. The remaining 61 opinions had to do with petitions and other kindred documents. There were 247 appeals during the year.

Twenty-nine appeals were dismissed by agreement of the persons interested. In all, 270 cases were disposed of, as against 247 new cases filed during the year. Equity suits numbered 103, criminal cases 15; personal injury, auto accident suits, 31; workmen's compensation litigation, 2; law actions, miscellaneous, 69; divorce suits, 5, and miscellaneous 25.

Sixty-three per cent of the decisions of the circuit courts were affirmed, 28 per cent were reversed and 8 per cent were modified. The records of the past 20 years show that the peak of litigation was reached in 1914, when 448 appeals were filed. More than 400 appeals also were filed during each of the years 1913 and 1915. For the past five years the total number of cases filed was 1321 or an average of 164 a year. Appeals decided during the same period numbered 1359, with 187 more dismissed upon stipulation of the parties. Approximately 225 more cases were disposed of than were filed during the corresponding period. The records show that the court is now only three months behind in its work. Sixty-one attorneys were admitted to the bar upon examination and 11 were admitted on certificates from other states during the current year.

THOMAS SILENT ON RULING BY COSHOW

Charles M. Thomas, public utilities commissioner, Thursday refused to make any comment upon the findings of Judge Coshow in the seven-cent streetcar fare case. He said the proceeding had not been closed and was still before the federal court.

"In view of the fact that Judge Coshow, sitting as master of chancery, will file his recommendations with the federal court and the further fact that his findings are not final, I do not deem it proper at this time to discuss the matter. The case has not yet come up for final decision in the federal court."

Thomas said that before the court hands down its final decision he would be given an opportunity to be heard before the court. The public utilities commissioner said it was not mandatory upon the federal court to uphold the findings of Judge Coshow.

The order reducing the streetcar fare from 10 to seven cents was issued by Thomas several months ago. The streetcar company later appealed to the courts in opposing the order.

LAND DEPARTMENT TURNOVER IS MADE

The state land department turned over to the state treasury in December a total of $58,437.77, according to a report prepared Thursday by George G. Brown, clerk of the state land board. Items included in the transfers follow:
Common school fund principal, payments on loans, $17,311.92; common school fund principal, income sources, $2154.05; common school fund interest, $30,211.02; common school fund interest, abstract deposits, $169.09; agricultural college fund principal, payments on loans, $3,804.91; agricultural college fund interest, $1194.87; university fund principal, payments on loans, $1,600. University fund interest $363.77; rural credits fund principal $359.84; rural credits reserve fund, interest, $592.69; A. R. Burbank trust fund interest $30. J. T. Apperson fund principal, payments on loans, $280; J. T. Apperson fund principal, income sources, $123.70; J. T. Apperson fund interest, $240.

IMPLEMENT FIRM WILL BE STARTED

Three Salem men, Walter H. Smith, L. C. Matthes and George Bernhardt, with the first of the year assume ownership and management of the Salem Seed and Implement Co., Inc., at 210 State street, and will handle a full line of dairy supplies and seeding supplies. The company has purchased the machinery and office equipment of the old Archerd concern from the receiver and will continue to operate in the F. N. Derby building. The new company has no connection with the old one, and financing is being handled entirely by the three men, according to Mr. Smith, who is president and manager. Smith has had 10 years of experience in this line of business, and Matthes, who is vice president, has had 15 years experience. Mr. Bernhardt, the secretary-treasurer, is a native of Salem, and has for the past four years been with the Paulus Brothers cannery.
