Creative Theatre Group to Start Production

Active rehearsal of "Panurge's Sheep" and "The Third Man." two one-act plays selected for the initial work of the creative theatre section of the Salem Arts league, will start next Thursday evening in the auditorium of the Salem public library. These plans were materialized as a result of the meeting held in the library Thursday evening, at which time the new section came into being. Perry Reigelman is director of the

Practically all of those responding to the invitation have had previous experience as players, and, with the keen interest evidenced, it is believed that this section will be quite active. John Clifford, president of the Arts league, gave a short talk to those present, statoutlining the section work. It is planned to have the music section | room of the church, where they under Saul Polinofsky work along with the new section when the plays are ready for presentation. It is also planned, when these three plays have been presented, to start work on original, unproducd one-act plays that may be found suitable.

The cast for "Panurge's Sheep," by Meilhac and Halevy, includes Helen Tyson, Thomas Heaphy, Alice C. Brown and Vernon Stoll. For "The Third Man," a domestic farce by Roderich Benedix, German playwright, the cast is: E. J. Peterson, Mrs. E. J. Peterson, Greta Schofield and Lillian Potter.

· For "Indian Summer," the cast is Marclay Eisaman, Glendine Eisaman, Bob Mather and Vernon

Clifford Gleason is affiliated with this section. He is interested in designing stage sets.
