

Local News Briefs

Receive School Funds — The state board for vocational education Wednesday received from the federal government its second quarterly allowance of $14,331.22 for agricultural, trades and industries, home economics and teacher-training, and $2379.15 for agriculture and home economics. The larger appropriation was under the Smith-Hughes act, and the smaller appropriation under the George-Reed act.

Files Answer — Declaring that her husband made violent protest when he knew she was to have a second child, Mabel E. Wood has filed an answer and cross-complaint in circuit court here in the divorce suit brought by Glenn I. Wood, her husband. The couple was married August 3, 1928, in Multnomah county. She asks custody of their two children and $40 support money a month as well as attorney's fees and costs in the present suit.

Principals Make Plans — Salem school principals met at the superintendent's office yesterday afternoon to plan for the opening of the spring semester next month. An estimated 125 elementary pupils will enter school at that time. Several hundred new textbooks have been purchased to provide for the new pupils and for those who are promoted.

Burch Likes Hospital — Fred R. Burch, adjutant of the local organization of disabled war veterans, attended his first post meeting last night since returning from the veterans' diagnostic center at Palo Alto, Calif., where he underwent treatment. Care given to the veterans there is excellent, he reported.

Case Under Consideration — Judge Gale S. Hill yesterday heard the case in equity of the bank of Stuyton against Bessinger et al. He took the case under advisement. Claims of the bank aggregating nearly $1500 are being pressed. Bessinger is said to have given property pledged to the bank to a brother.

MORTGAGE BANK TO HELP, STIDD AVERS

Thrift Week Speaker Says Constructive Thought Will aid Business

Condemning the rumor-monger, Lee C. Stidd of Portland urged Rotarians to observe Thrift Week by thinking constructively, talking helpfully and listening intelligently. He accused the busy-bodies and malicious minds that spread false rumors at a time when conditions are disturbed; and urged business men to denounce such scandal tales in the business world.

Stidd represented building and loan organizations at Washington at the recent conference called by President Hoover on stimulating home building through setting up a mortgage bank.

"Within a few weeks after this is organized there should be felt a stimulus to our own lumber business," was Stidd's assertion. "Oregon associations can not take advantage of the act because the state law forbids them to pledge any of their mortgages, but associations in other states can. The bank would serve to level off credit, helping out in districts where funds are short."

President Hoover looked as though he had gone through all the wars, that the responsibilities of his office have worn him to a fine point, stated Stidd. He prefaced his remarks by quoting from Ben Franklin's autobiography in which Franklin derided an apostle of gloom in Philadelphia who claimed the city was going to the bow-wows; but Franklin said he had the pleasure of seeing the old fellow pay five times as much for a home as he would have if he had bought when he was declaring the city so badly overbuilt.

LIST OF FEBRUARY JURORS ANNOUNCED

Under the Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

W. W. BRIGGS, city attorney of Ashland, John D. Goss, attorney of Marshfield, and George Sandy, Portland printer, were among the visitors at the governor's office yesterday. Briggs is a former member of the state legislature. Goss visited at the state land board office and education department as well.

Ed Bailey, who two years ago was a democratic candidate for governor, was a visitor here yesterday from his home in Eugene. Bailey was formerly a member of the state senate, elected from Lane county. He was a star guard on the University of Oregon's football team while at college a number of years ago.

R. P. Newland of Helena, Mont., maintenance engineer for the highway department of Montana, was here yesterday. He spent much of his time at the board of control office, where he was comparing notes with state purchasers.

WY CLUB MEETS; VISITS NUMEROUS

SUVER, Jan. 20—Mrs. Annie Brown and Mrs. W. J. Kerr entertained the Wy club recently. Those present were: Mrs. Flickengere, Mrs. Hack of Medford, Mrs. A. F. Richter, Mrs. Harold Couey and son Merlin, Mrs. Jack Countryman, Mrs. O. M. Allen and daughter Edna, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Blair Douglas and daughter, Thelma, Mrs. Clarence Richey and son Dean, Mrs. John Harris, Mrs. Ezra Harris, Mrs. M. I. Conker, Mrs. Nellie Lamb, Mrs. Joe James and the hostesses, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Kerr. Mrs. Countryman will entertain next month.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Conger and family Friday night were guests at a waffle supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Conkey of Monmouth.

Also in the day's news was an indication that pretzels are now being classed as a delicacy. With so much publicity being given the alleged good qualities of beer, it looks as if that will have to be placed up with the pretzels, as it seems they always went together. And where is the person who doesn't like delicacies?

as to oils and road materials. He stopped here after visiting in Spokane.

This column hasn't mentioned cigars for a long time, and incidentally the writer hasn't received many either—but it was up to the state police department to change the procedure. Complaining about breaking a favorite pipe, yours truly was presented with a dandy by Captain McLean. Now if somebody will furnish the tobacco!

The action of the board of control Tuesday in settling the cell front issue by accepting the contract, didn't seem to end it after all. At a demonstration yesterday what did two cons do but get out in a short time, with the lock in "neutral" or operating position. Guess maybe the controversy will continue until someone feels the axe or something else will result.

It is rather a disappointment that the primary elections this year in Oregon are not held a week sooner. They are scheduled for Friday, May 20. Just think of the fun one could have if they were set one week earlier, then defeated candidates could blame their ill luck on Friday, the 18th.

Rufus Holman advises that he bought a big dinner for himself and wife recently which cost him only $2.25 for the two of them. He said they had fllet mignon steaks for their "bust." However, he added that this was too good a meal for a state employe with taxpayers' money. So the board protested $1.50 meals of state employes.

It seems as if there is a premium being placed on cussing, particularly for cussing a judge. An Illinois woman had her sentence of 15 days increased to six months because she protested profanity in court. If the officers hadn't led her out of the courtroom, at the rate the judge kept doubling the sentence, she might have been given life.
