TELEPHONE CHARGE REDUCTION SOUGHT

Rural Firm Representatives Meet With Collins; he Claims Loss Taken

Fifty representatives of rural telephone companies operating out of Salem gathered here Thursday and demanded a reduction of the switchboard charges from nine to six dollars. Harry Collins, superintendent of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company here, attended the meeting.

Collins indicated that he was opposed to the proposed reduction because of the installation of dial phones. Collins said it also was necessary for the company to employ approximately 50 girls here.

Figures submitted by Collins showed that during the first six months of last year the telephone company lost $21,048 in Salem in revenue received below the operating costs.

"I don't see how the rates can be reduced," Collins said. "I presume you think that because there has been a reduction in commodities there should be in telephone rates. There is no part of commodities identified with telephone operations. We have not reduced salaries and feel they should be increased instead of reduced to a lower basis. As the efficiency of our employees increases we feel their salaries should increase. The telephone company can have none other than trained employees.

"When compared to companies other than our own where rural subscribers pay $10 to $12 a year and are served by only 200 or 300 'phones your rate is very low. The farmers on these rural lines have access to 7000 phones."

Representatives of the rural telephone companies argued that business during the past two years, and that many persons who formerly had telephones had taken them out or had them disconnected.

The charge also was made that the existing charges for switchboard services are too high, and should be reduced along with the service offered by industries in other fields.

It was indicated during the meeting that the question of reduced switchboard rates may later be referred to the public utility commissioner.

Collins said there were 1965 rural telephones operating out of Salem on between 100 and 125 different lines.

A complete sellout of seats for the Willamette university faculty play tonight is assured as only 50 seats were still available late yesterday. "The Thirteenth Chair" will be given at the high school auditorium at 8:30 tonight.

Mrs. Herbert E. Rahe appears as Madame LaGrange and is the medium in charge of a scene at which one of the thirteen participants is murdered. Prof. Lawrence Zillman takes the part of a starchy nosed detective, "Tom Donohue," whose duty it is to attempt to find the murderer.

It also marks a new venture for Willamette women who are staging a "leap night," asking the men for dates and furnishing a feed and get-together after the play. They will hold full away at the "Spa."

Wesley Roeder will have a 10 piece jazz orchestra at the play tonight to furnish music between acts.

Professor Jones states that the play will start promptly at 8:20 and no one will be permitted to enter during the first act. The girl's pep staff of Willamette will act as ushers.

The entire cast includes: Mrs. Lawrence Zillman, "Helena O'Neill"; D. H. Schulze, "Willie Crosby"; Olive M. Dahl, "Alice Crosby"; Roy R. Hewitt, "Roscoe Crosby"; Herbert E. ## 2 RIDING SCHOOLS BEING CONDUCTED

Both at Fairgrounds; Much Interest in Equestrian Art is Displayed

Interest in a permanent riding academy for Salem has resulted in the establishment of two riding schools, both located at the state fair grounds.

The Salem Riding Academy owned and operated by Paul A. Scroggin has been a place of interest to equestrians since November when Mr. Scroggin brought in a string of horses following a business arrangement with Max Gehlar which provided for stabling quarters in the horse show stadium and use of the tan bark ring.

Mr. Scroggin established an academy in Seaside seven years ago which he still maintains and will operate both the academy there and the Salem academy. He has with him John W. Newman, instructor, who has been with him during the seven years in Seaside and who has had a large experience in addition to this.

An excellent trap room with well-kept looking equipment has been added to the stable room. Classes are held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Fridays. Horses may be taken out at any time for pleasure by interested riders.

There is a string of 11 horses in matching mount to the ability of the rider, for Mr. Newman says he has had very few accidents in his professional career and is particular that such a record be maintained.

The second school is "Scotty's Riding Academy." Horses of this school are kept in the stadium stables and riding is done in a ring that has been built in the large barn formerly occupied by the celebrity, "Tusko."

Classes are conducted by "Scotty" who has been connected with many equestrian affairs up and down the coast. Classes are held every evening. This academy has a string of about a dozen horses.
