COURT OVERTURNS BOSCH CONVICTION

The state supreme court Tuesday reversed Judge Bailey of the Tillamook county circuit court in the case involving H. H. Bosch, who was convicted and sentenced to serve a term of one year in the Tillamook county jail and pay a fine of $1000 for making a false financial statement for the purpose of securing credit and the extension of credit at the Tillamook National bank.

The opinion was written by Justice Campbell. The supreme court remanded the case for retrial. Testimony offered at the time of the trial indicated that Bosch included in his financial statement to the bank a parcel of real estate located near Brooks, which was in the name of his wife. Bosch was indebted to the Tillamook bank in an amount in excess of $5000 at the time the financial statement was filed.

Divorce Sought After 42 Years

After 42 years of married life, Mary Ramsden White yesterday received a divorce decree from her husband, Thomas C. White to whom she was married February 18, 1890. She is to receive monthly support of $45. She told the court that White scratched and clawed her in an attack last year and in another fracas struck her severely. There are no minor children and all property rights apart from the support settlement, were made out of court.

'ARRESTED AS "HONOR-SLAYER"

Under the Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's Dome . . . state government

ELBERT BEDE, the Cottage Grove editor and well known reading clerk of the Oregon legislature, was a visitor at the capitol yesterday. Contrary to his usual procedure, he failed to pay a visit to the press room, business matters evidently being too urgent. Bede was very much in evidence, particularly among the feminine groups, at the recent newspaper conference at Eugene, reports state.

Charles Pray, state police superintendent, has some new paperweights on his desk presented him by a friend. The weights are very tempting, not to steal particularly, but to use. They are two large dice, brightly colored.

Seattle welcomed Nancy Ann Miller home, news dispatches say. Naturally, but one wonders what kind of a welcome she would have received had she married an Indian, who did not happen to be a potentate nor had many millions of money to spend. The reception in that case would probably have turned to an excommunication.

"The depression is in retreat," says Babson. That's good news to readers. The only hope to add is that the old man isn't using some military strategy, and is retreating only to stage a comeback. But Babson says the chart is now turning upward for the first time in two years. "Better times are now definitely assured," he adds.

S. A. Harris of Brooks is the first Marion county man to file his candidacy for the state legislature. Harris' slogan will be, "An active farmer who knows their burdens. Am strong for tax reduction." Marion county is entitled to four representatives in the lower house.

Henry Hanzen left at noon yesterday for Portland to join Governor Julius L. Meier for their trip east. Mrs. Sheldon F. Sackett, the governor's secretary, also went to Portland to take some papers up for the governor to sign before he left. The governor and his party left Portland last night.

MRS. MATTHEWS IS EXTENDED SURPRISE

ORCHARD HEIGHTS, Jan. 26.—Mrs. C. S. Matthews was honor guest at her home Saturday night at a birthday surprise party, planned and carried out by her husband. The guests who arrived in a body were entertained with an evening of cards followed by refreshments.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Hastings and sons, Charles and Jimmy of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. William Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Willson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Cash Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Guy McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. William McDowell, Mrs. Marie Southwick, Miss Josephine Smith, Ervin Simmons, Charles Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Matthews.

Nightly practices are being held at the Popcorn school by the home talent troupe who plan to give a play early in February. Mrs. Guy McDowell is coaching the play.

Ellis Wyland who has been staying at the L. E. Reed home the last two months and doing pruning work in the Starr and Grant orchards has returned to his home at Oregon City.

Miss Dorothy Logan returned Sunday to Portland after a visit of several days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Edgar. Dr. A. B. Starbuck, his son Thomas and Breese Gibson, all of Dallas were Sunday visitors at the Edgar home.

ATTEND FUNERAL MONMOUTH, Jan. 26.—Many Monmouth people attended the funeral of Mrs. Ellen Ackerman at Salem yesterday. Mrs. Ackerman was the widow of one of Monmouth normal school's presidents, the late J. H. Ackerman who served as administrative in this institution for ten years preceding his sudden death in July.

Salt Lake City, Utah, according to an editorial in the Desert News. The article points out the Utah is far behind in its court work, while the Oregon court is within three months up to present day schedule.

In commenting upon the western courts, including Oregon, the editorial in the News says, "The supreme court of the United States and four of our neighboring state courts are able to keep up strictly with their work." The other states are Idaho, Colorado and Montana.

Reports at the statehouse have it that in preparing for his eastern trip, Henry Hanzen, budget director and political advisor of the governor, purchased a new winter overcoat. Latest information, however, states the coat is not "an English coat."

LYONS YOUTH PLAN TO PRODUCE PLAY

LYONS, Jan. 26.—The young people of Fox Valley and Lyons are practicing on a play to be given in the near future entitled "Light House Man." It has a cast of nine characters. Several musical numbers will intersperse between scenes. The proceeds of the play will be used for the benefit of the community church expenses.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnston were among Lyons folks who attended the funeral in Stayton for the late Mrs. Jessie Siegmund, who was killed in an auto accident near West Stayton January 20.

Mrs. M. T. Cardwell and daughter Miss Cornelia of Mehama and Mrs. Ada Wilson of Aurora were Saturday visitors at Lyons. Mrs. Wilson spent the past week visiting at the Cardwell home and with other friends here.

The John R. Trask family have leased the Shelton place in Lyons and moved from their farm in Fox Valley to Lyons today. Mr. Trask will keep some cows and a team of horses at their new location.

BERKOWITZ COMING TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Rabbi Henry J. Berkowitz of Portland will be the speaker at a city-wide rally of friends of peace to be held at the high school auditorium Sunday afternoon next at 3 o'clock.

The meeting is held on the eve of the assembly of the disarmament conference at Geneva and the rabbi will speak on "The Greatest Moment in History." Known as a brilliant and eloquent speaker, Rabbi Berkowitz is in constant demand to address gatherings such as this.

The local meeting is held under the auspices of the Salem council for the prevention of war, of which Mrs. C. A. Kells is president and Rev. H. B. Fouke, Jr., chairman of the education committee which is arranging for the rabbi's appearance.

Dairy Products Promotion Plan Made Statewide

An extended newspaper campaign to promote the use of dairy products in Oregon will be carried on this year throughout the state, Paul C. Adams, publicity director for the dairy council in Portland, stated yesterday while in Salem for a short time on business.

Adams has handled the publicity for the dairymen for the last six months, including the period in which a milk "war" raged in Portland. For two years he served locally as editor of the Pacific Homestead before that publication was merged with the Northwest Poultry Journal.

POLICE HEAD

In order to cope with the wave of crime and disorder revealed by the Massie "honor-slaying" case, Governor Lawrence M. Judd of Hawaii has created a new territorial police force. Major Gordon G. Ross (above), of the Hawaii National Guard, aide to the Governor, has been appointed deputy chief and active head of the new law-enforcement organization.

1921. Mrs. Ackerman continued to reside here for a number of years following his death, and had a wide circle of friends among the townspeople as well as the school faculty.

SHRUB GROUP MEETS

HUBBARD, Jan. 26.—The merged shrub committee met at the memorial plot Monday to make plans pertaining to the memorial plot and new shrubs for the school house grounds. Afterwards they had tea at the home of Mrs. H. C. Cleaver, a member of the committee who has been ill, and then called on Mrs. Edna Mack, another member who has been ill.

BAZAAR AND OPEN MEETING PLANNED

MACLEAY, Jan. 26.—Plans for a bazaar and open grange meeting for April 1 were made at the January meeting of the Home Economics club held at the hall.

Edith Tosler Weathered, well known for her stories of early Oregon history, has been invited to be the speaker. Mrs. W. Frink and Mrs. W. Welch were in charge of the program. Mrs. Welch gave a group of vocal numbers and Mrs. Frink conducted an interesting memory stunt. Lunch was served by Mrs. J. Amort and Mrs. Louise McGee.

Night Schools for Farm People Proving Popular; Practical Ideas Learned

Night schools for farmers are becoming an important part of the educational program in 25 Oregon high schools where vocational agriculture is taught, Earl R. Cooley, state supervisor of agricultural education, announced Saturday.

Cooley said 23 schools, with an enrollment of 1121 farmers, and average attendance of 17, were conducted last winter by the vocational agricultural instructors who were teaching under the Smith-Hughes act.

"Due to economic conditions, which has increased the farmers' problems, more persons are attending night classes this winter than ever before," Cooley said.

These classes for adult farmers are a part of the vocational agricultural program sponsored by the state board of vocational education. The classes are for the benefit of the farmers within the boundary of the high school district and are usually held in the high school building or in some community center. The course includes a series of at least 10 lessons in some particular farming enterprise in the community.

The study of the dairy enterprise was the most popular unit among the farmers' night schools last winter, it having been selected as the basic course of 15 groups, while poultry ranked second with 13 schools. There were 4577 head of dairy animals and 85,657 birds owned by the farmers who attended the dairy and poultry schools.

Small fruits, swine, sheep, potatoes and alfalfa were the other courses given the farmers. In a dairy course they study the balancing of rations, selecting the hard bull, economic milk production, providing succulent feeds, controlling dairy cow ailments and many other problems which are of special interest to the dairymen in a certain community.

A cooperative berry marketing organization with 150 members was developed through a berry school conducted in the high school district of Lebanon. The poultrymen around Silverton have attended a poultry school during the last three winters, conducted by Warren E. Crabtree, agricultural instructor. As a result of this instruction, 13 have built new poultry houses, 19 have bought and mixed their own feed, 12 have improved their ventilating systems and 12 have controlled disease by special sanitary methods. Tangible results were obtained through the turkey evening school held at Union in eastern Oregon.

NAT SHILKRET and his 35-piece orchestra

For this Chesterfield Program, Mr. Shilkret has assembled and will personally conduct an orchestra of exceptional range and color. Mr. Shilkret's musical background is impressive—with the Russian Symphony Orchestra, the New York Philharmonic, and as organizer and director of the Victor Salon Orchestra, where his arrangements and recordings of lighter music proved immensely popular.

COAST-TO-COAST OVER THE COLUMBIA NETWORK

Six nights a week; 10:30-10:45 (Eastern Standard Time.) The rich baritone of Alex Gray, romantic star of stage and screen... a large and splendidly-balanced orchestra of first rank, drawing from all that is tuneful in today's music. This is one of radio's "high spots."

ALEX GRAY, popular soloist

"How he can sing!" is the universal comment. A rising star of musical comedy stage and screen, and with rare gifts of personality and voice, Mr. Gray's stirring baritone is ideal for radio and for the romantic and colorful ballads which he sings so well. An addition to radio's first-line artists, and an important figure in "Music that Satisfies."
