Today—Clara Kimball Young in "Women Go on Forever."
Friday—Ken Maynard in "Sunset Trail."

Because of the dramatic power of the story of "The Woman from Monte Carlo," now at the Capitol, Lil Dagovar has returned to the screen.

It was Max Reinhardt, famous German stage producer, who enticed the lovely Dagovar from the screen of Germany while her fame was at its height and consigned her to still greater successes on the stage.

The moment the script of "The Woman from Monte Carlo" was offered to her, first American screen role, the temptation to portray its title role was too much for her to resist, and so you are able to see a German favorite today at the Capitol.

Maurice Murphy, who plays the role of the blind son in the film "Women Go on Forever," presented by Tiffany Productions, Inc., now at the Hollywood theatre, admitted that it was fairly easy to keep his eyes fixed in a blind stare until the lovely Dagovar began. Then, he had to concentrate not to look in the direction of the shot.

Modern entertainment—"Husband's Holiday!"
The world is dizzy from lightning and lightning-bug marriage, too-tight repentance—and here's a new kind of story about a new kind of woman—the girl of today who will be the wife of tomorrow, and the mother of children of men in years to come!

Does another wife let her husband stray?
Aware of another woman in the life of the man who is father of her children, does the wise wife give her husband a matrimonial vacation?

Can a temporary separation result in a fading romance?
"Husband's Holiday," at the Elsinore, answers these questions in its own way.

SPAULDING HITS AT BOARD ACTS

Cutting Expense Only aim In His Attacks Avers Minority Member

The senator said he was definitely opposed to a 20-foot road between Salem and Portland. "If any road in the state needs widening, straightening and paving it is this highway," he declared.

Spaulding then attacked the construction of a Fourth street state highway in Portland. "It is a dangerous precedent," he emphasized. "What is there to prevent Baker, or Salem or any other city from getting large grants for road work within the incorporation?"

Spaulding said he had favored construction of a new road into Portland as far as Fourth street and the city limits but he felt that construction of roads within cities should be handled by the cities. He criticized the board as a super-highway, saying the commission would be forced to spend $200,000 a mile to construct this seven and one-half miles of road.

FIRE DEPARTMENT SPEED IS PRAISED

SILVERTON, Feb. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lathers were very complimentary about the Silverton fire department Tuesday afternoon when referring to the fire in their home Tuesday morning shortly before 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Lathers, in speaking of the work of the department, said she was hanging up the receiver, after telephoning about the fire, when she heard the siren blow, and she had barely left the telephone when the department was on hand. The men put out the fire with chemicals and no actual damage was done.

Mrs. Lathers further said that had the fire fighters not arrived as quickly as they did the house would have been in flames, owing to the manner in which the chimney was built and to the strong wind blowing. The Lathers have one of the lovely farm homes a mile and a half out on the Marquam road.

ADVERTISING PLANS TO FACE SCRUTINY

Business League to Extend Investigation of all Outside Solicitors

Out of city persons attempting to sell advertising schemes to Salem business and professional men hereafter will meet with rough sledding as the result of action taken last night at a meeting of the Salem Business Men's league attended by 75 business and professional men at the chamber of commerce. It was predicted.

The group voted to put on a campaign urging every business and professional man in the city to use the league's system of checking up on the reliability of solicitors. The plan, which was successful here on a small scale, would require that all solicitors obtain from the league a letter of endorsement before the business men will listen to their selling scheme. The solicitors will be referred to C. E. Wilson, league secretary, who in turn will confer with B. E. Sisson, president.

This action was taken last night because of the flood of advertising schemes which solicitors lately have attempted to foist on Salem business and professional men. In many cases, large representations have been made and in some cases, it is said, the salesmen have absconded with the money, leaving their victims holding the sack.

In an attempt to make the city fakes proof, the league will seek to enroll every business and professional man for its plan. Membership in the chamber of commerce entitles them to membership in the league without additional dues.

President Sisson announced that E. L. Wieder had been appointed director to fill the vacancy created when Allan Kafoury moved to Portland recently.

VAZAKAS SPEAKER FOR BROTHERHOOD

Sixty men attended the dinner of the Jason Lee Brotherhood at the Jason Lee church last night, at which the members of the International house of Willamette university were special guests.

W. Hall gave a talk telling the story of the International house; how it originated and its purposes. Music was furnished by two Filipino men with guitar and violin.

The main speaker of the evening was Prof. Vazakas of Willamette university. He spoke of the condition of the Balkan states where he once lived. The main point that he brought out was that the old combative spirit between nations would give way to friendliness and cooperation as soon as they could bring about a better understanding of each other. The time will come when all the nations will work in harmony and cooperation, all based on better understanding.

In regard to the present trouble between the Chinese and Japanese, the professor says the present disagreement is only a passing phase and will soon give way to peace and friendliness.
