Washington Birthdays to Honored by Club Inspire Party

WASHINGTON, his qualities formed an interesting topic for discussion as handled by P. B. Macy of Pacific college, Newberg, when he addressed the Salem Woman's club Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Macy attributed Washington's greatness to the qualities of faith, courage, magnanimity, humility, self control, industry, integrity, and mental poise.

"Washington was national in spirit and rose above the provincialism in judgment," said Mr. Macy.

In speaking to the mothers at the club Mr. Macy brought out the inspiration that Washington's life could be to growing children, if taught with sympathetic understanding on the part of the mothers.

Mrs. F. A. Elliott was in charge of the program which was dedicated to the bicentennial year, and pointed out in her introduction of Mr. Macy, that over 10 million trees will have been planted in the United States this year in compliment to the "father of his country."

Mrs. Elliott added that the national forests of Oregon, which incidentally had been named "Elliot" forests in compliment to the late F. A. Elliott, long connected with the forestry service of Oregon, seemed to take away the need of planting trees here, but in spite of that there were many being planted.

In the absence of Mrs. J. M. Deyers, president of the club, Mrs. Hannah Martin presided at the business meeting, Mrs. R. H. Baldoock, and Mrs. J. R. Scott were taken into membership of the club. It was reported that to date the club had sent $100 to the scholarship loan fund of the state.

A letter of appreciation was read from the Children's Farm home acknowledging Christmas remembrances of the club and the $200 given for hospital equipment.

Announcement was made of the interesting book review class which will meet at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon in the club rooms and which will be led by Mrs. J. C. Nelson. Women interested are invited to come. The book to be reviewed is "Realism in Roman Japan." Mention was also made of the Zonta benefit which will be held in Friday night at Nelson auditorium.

Special music was given complimenting the memory of Washington. Mrs. W. J. Minkiewicz was in charge of this part of the program and in introducing it gave a brief talk on this period music. Wendell Robinson as vocalist and Miss Carolyn Parker as pianist gave the numbers.
