Park Planting to Begin—Plans are under way for work on the decorative plant beds in the state house grounds, according to Frank Kluck, city gardener. The contract for plants has been let to Hector Adams, according to the gardener and work will soon commence in preparing the beds. Some changes will be made, one of which will be to move the beds from beside the walks near the Waite memorial fountain. These beds get trampled upon during band concerts in the summer. A new bed is planned for the Court street side of the park between Cottage and Winter streets.

Hard Times Enjoyed—With "hard times" as the motif and prosperity clothes taboo, members of the high school senior class staged their semester party and dance in the gymnasium last night. Members of other classes were admitted upon payment of an entrance fee. Helen Koudell, class vice-president, was in charge.

MACK'S STORE IS IN NEW LOCATION

Modernistic Establishment On State Street Opens; Setting is Unique

Modernistic in design, ultra-smart in effect, the shop of "Mack's" opens today at 415 State street to accommodate the women of Salem with clothes, cosmetic service, millinery service and scientific corseting service. Black and silver modernistic cut-out design much like a fir tree makes a background for the show windows and black rugs and wall hangings in bright effect complete a smart show window on each side of the entrance door.

The smart little shop boasts three floors, basement which is gayly finished with striped awnings and fixtures to develop the property at its best. First floor, formal and street clothes, and third floor developed in balcony effect, where the beauty parlor and millinery department is located.

Many mirrors, waiting rooms, fronts of which look like small houses built into the wall, deep carpet, futuristically finished stairway leading up from back and center of room, racks all about the back of the main floor before which hang hats in fur, and this lighted from clever futuristic lights placed against futuristic wall paper make the first floor "chic," metropolitan.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack came to Salem seven years ago and bought the property at Center and High street where they established "Mack's" store, and remained in business there until today when they open at their new location. Many Salem people remember when the present location was the "Furnace Store."

Mrs. Alpha Bascue is in charge of the millinery department; Miss Dolly Glenn Harris, and Miss Matilda Gordon, beauty shop; Mrs. Anna L. DuBois, corsetier; and members of the state of saleswomen. The store will be open from 10 to 6 p. m. daily. Alterations.

Vocation Study Educators Hold Meet at Albany

Fifty-five instructors in high school vocational departments attended a dinner meeting of the Willamette Valley Vocational Instructors' association at Albany Wednesday night, including representatives from Amity, Dallas, Albany, Corvallis, Eugene, McMinnville.

Discussion centered around the new curricula for industrial education as outlined by the state department of education. A report on this matter was presented by L. H. Buchanan. The banquet was served by the Albany high school home economics students.

Washington Man Praises School Conditions Here

The appearance of Salem junior high school buildings and classrooms brought favorable comment from Principal William Dunn of Shumway junior high school, who with eight of his teachers, yesterday visited the two Salem schools. Parrish and Leelle, according to R. W. Tavenner, assistant high school principal.

The spirit of the schools, the attitude of the pupils, also proved pleasing to the visitors, he said. Principal Dunn, before going to Vancouver a year and a half ago, was principal of the Silverton junior high school.

Under the Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

THE state highway commission meetings aren't what they used to be, even before Spaulding was a member of the road group. Newspapermen were at least privileged to sit in on them whether there was anything to write or not, and then when Spaulding was there with his attacks there was always good copy.

But the new commission persists in star chamber sessions, and news hounds, although granted interviews with members of the commission, are successful in learning only that which the commission wishes to be published. With a majority of newspapermen on the commission one would think their methods would be anything but executive.

The three new members were in session here all day yesterday, in what they called a conference, and then Leslie M. Scott at noon announced that March 2 would be no word of changes in the department until next week at least, yet last night the work began and R. H. Baldock was named to succeed Roy Klein as chief engineer.

The first public meeting of the commission, at which it will be learned that the new members have decided upon a drastic cut in proposed projects, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Several projects however will be listed for awards, and it was expected the Salem widening project may be one of these.

Although the chairman of the highway commission announced they were only holding conferences at which conditions are being studied, three projects were nevertheless listed for bid calls late yesterday. That is regular highway business, and the need for street chamber sessions to do public business will require plenty of explanation.

Charles Thomas has taken pity upon the boys around the capital in the matter of cigars and has decided to let the political candidates will start passing them out. Thomas says he is presenting them occasionally now because he wants to run for some office ten years hence, and believes in laying a good foundation. Anyway they are good cigars.

That is the first time cigars have been mentioned in this column since before Christmas, which in itself is some record and worthy of reward of some nature perhaps cigars from others of the state officials. The tobacco bill has been mounting of late, so silence was no longer bearable.

State employees will probably be starting their exodus from the capitol this noon and remain away until Tuesday morning. Monday being Washington's birthday, a double holiday awaits the tired public servants. Virtually all offices will be closed on Monday, although a few officials announced they would be on the job.

Out of a total of 2098 automobile accidents during January there were 23 fatalities and 351 injuries resulting, showing that traffic accidents are starting out well the first month of the new year. Collision of cars with pedestrians claimed a toll of eight of these, while two were killed in auto-train wrecks.

The state police report also revealed that during the month 16 persons were reported lost, two women and 14 men. Of this number only 7 men were found. Against this number of humans, the police reported two dogs were declared lost and only one head of livestock.

22 ARE KILLED IN TRAFFIC CRASHES

Twenty-two persons were killed and 351 others were injured in a total of 2098 traffic accidents in Oregon in January, Charles P. Pray, superintendent of state police, reported Friday.

A total of 455 accidents were due to automobiles being on the wrong side of the highway, while more than 300 accidents were caused by skidding. In 183 accidents the drivers failed to give the proper signal. Approximately 185 accidents resulted from drivers exceeding the speed limit.

There were 169 arrests for traffic violations by the state police. Fines aggregated $4539. Warnings were issued in 5588 cases. Delinquent fees collected totaled $11,146.

Arrests by the state police under the general enforcement classification aggregated 261. Fines imposed in these cases totaled $18,377.85, with jail terms aggregating 46 years. There were 30 acquittals, with 78 cases pending. Forty persons were arrested for other department offenses.

The report shows that there are now 31,940 crime cards on file in the state police department.

PICTURE CAMPAIGN FOR SAFETY PLAN

State police activities involve prevention and cure as well as enforcement and punishment, according to an announcement made by officers posted at the city hall, Thursday. One of the steps along the former lines will be a newspaper campaign in the near future showing autoists some of the features of traffic driving.

In preparation, 12 pictures were taken by the state police cameramen in Salem city traffic Thursday. One of these was posed, while the other 11 were actual circumstances of everyday instances.

Newspaper "cuts" and "mats" will be made of the pictures and these will be broadcast to the newspapers of the state. A short story of explanation and comment by police experts will accompany each picture for the education of the public.

Spring Opening Date March 11, Ad Club Decides

The evening of Friday, March 11, was determined upon as the night for the sixth annual spring opening in Salem, by the local advertising club Friday noon at its regular meeting at the Gray Belle. The date is 16 days in advance of Easter, which comes Sunday, March 27. Gardner Knapp, club president, will name a committee at once to take charge of arrangements.

Discussion regarding the opening centered about new ideas which could be used for the occasion. It was suggested that the opening of the spring styles be tied in with the bi-centennial of George Washington's birthday since those styles were featured in the forthcoming spring clothes. It was also suggested that the prevailing low prices of garments be featured.

MARINE RECRUITING CHIEF VISITS HERE

Captain E. B. Moore, marine recruiting officer for the northwest, was in Salem Thursday to check with the local recruiting office. He stated that the marines now numbered approximately 300 over the allotted number for which appropriations have been made, but far below the authorized number.

Recruiting now is for the purpose of normal replacement, he stated, and for the four northwest states 25 recruits a month are being accepted.

Captain Moore has been in military service for 21 years having served in the Mexican campaign, at Santo Domingo and Haiti, with the American legion at Pekin and in the Nicaraguan campaign as special aid to President General Jose M. Moncada.

He stated that he had received no official notification of any war recruiting and that present recruiting was merely for replacements.

Three Licenses To Wed Issued Here on Friday

Three licenses to wed were issued Friday at the county clerk's office.

Lawrence C. Maves, teller at the Ladd & Bush bank here, obtained permission to marry Melissa Persons, 960 Gaines street. He gave his age as 27 and hers as 24. Rev. C. C. Poling was scheduled to perform the ceremony last night.

Judge John G. Shermund married Edwin T. Sherman, 21, 939 North 5th street, Marshfield, and Effie McClintock, 2173 Mead street, North Bend. Sherman is a laborer and his wife a domestic.

Parental consent was necessary for George A. Jamer, 19, route 6, Salem, and Edwina Maxine Dalrymple, 17, Macleay student, to obtain their marriage license. Rev. Gross was scheduled to perform the ceremony.
