By EDSON

The Oregon States man

"No Favor Sways Us; No Fear Shall Awe" From First Statesman, March 28, 1851

THE STATESMAN PUBLISHING CO. CHARLES A. SPRAGUE, SHELDON F. SACKETT, Publishers CHARLES A. SPRAGUE Editor-Manager SHELDON F. SACKETT - - - Managing Editor

Member of the Associated Press The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publica-tion of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper.

Pacific Coast Advertising Representatives: Arthur W. Stypes, Inc., Portland, Security Bidg. San Francisco, Sharon Bidg.: Los Angeles, W. Pac. Bilg. Eastern Advertising Representatives: Ford-Parsons-Stecher, Inc., New York, Salmon Tower Bldg., 11 W. 42nd St.; Chicago, 360 N. Michigan Ave.

Entered at the Postoffice at Salem, Oregon, as Second-Class Matter. Published every morning except Monday. Business office, 215 S. Commercial Street.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

Mail Subscription Rates, in Advance. Within Oregon: Daily and Sunday, 1 Mo. 50 cents; 3 Mo. $1.25; 6 Mo. $2.25; 1 year $4.00. Elsewhere 50 cents per Mo. or $5.00 for 1 year in advance. By City Carrier: 45 cents a month; $5.00 a year in advance. Per Copy 2 cents. On trains and News Stands 5 cents

Philippine Independence
THE senate committee on territories and insular possessessions has approved a measure designed to give independence to the Philippine islands if approved by the Filipinos 15 years after adoption of a constitution for the islands. The estimated shortest time before the islands would become independent is 19 years.

The provisions of the plan agreed on call for admission of Philippine products into this country in the present volume for the first 10 years of the 15 year period. Then for five years the tariff would be graduated; and upon com- ion County grange on the state plete independence full tariffs would apply. The purpose of program on road building, long these provisions is to give the islands time for an economic adjustment from free trade relationship to this country to will be endorsed by all granges in tariff relationship. Now the islands ship great quantities of the state. sugar, copra, cocoanut oil, hemp, etc. to this country, free of all duty. American producers competing with Philippine products have lately become the most noisy advocates of Philippine independence. Dairy interests object to free importation of cocoanut oil which is a large ingredient of butter substitutes. Beet sugar interests oppose free Philippine sugar, though this is not so large as the quantities from Ha- ple and the good ear to the powwaii and Porto Rico which come in duty free. Cuba has a ers that be. It is a wonder that 20% differential, that is her sugar comes in on the basis of 80% of the standard tariff.

Perhaps in 19 years the islanders may be able to govern themselves. The United States has generally held to the plan of giving them independence when there was prospect of a stable government there. It is hard to tell how soon the period of tutelage should end. Countries free and white and nordic are having so much difficulty maintaining self-government in these times it may not be wise to be too skeptical of the governing capacity of the little brown brothers.

It does not seem however that the question of Philippine independence should be set on a higher basis than the commercial side. On the one hand commercial interests with in- meeting of women was against. He was the son of the late Mr. that, he made a good career for vestments in the islands are eager for the United States to not for prohibition. The real retain control indefinitely. Such a course would not be honorable dealing with the Filipinos who have been our wards across the street at the W. C. T. for over 30 years. Nor is it fair and just to set them adrift U. hall, (in big letters too, look because now they are in small degree competitors of resi- and see for yourself). Now those dents of the mainland. In our judgment there are only two so-called "Prohibition Reform" factors involved: first, the capacity of the islanders them- working to bring back intoxicatselves for self-government; and second, considerations of ing liquors. God forbid that the Paul R. Kelty, an able nephew strategy from the standpoint of American interests in the youth of our land shall ever orient. On the last point pros and cons nearly cancel out, again be tempted on all sides—in saloons, on street corners, in the advantages of an outpost in the far east being offset by business buildings, to use intoxthe dangers of such an exposed position. It would seem that icating liquor, listen to obscene the United States should retain some naval base there, which stories from the mouths of half the Filipinos would doubtless be entirely willing to have us drunken men and hear their hold, for their protection as well as ours. So that the only and brawls, and the drunks beissue of importance is: are the Filipinos ready for self-gov- side the road.

About the only way to tell whether they are ready for Marion hotel meeting are related self-government is to let them try; and 19 years ought to be to the state of California, which a long enough period of probation on top of the 34 years they have had. They could hardly make a worse mess of things than the Cubans.

Holding Japanese at Bay

IN spite of the eventual loss of Shanghai, which will probably occur, the Chinese have won a great moral victory in holding off for weeks the Japanese forces. It was about a month ago the Japanese swooped down on Shanghai, their marines expecting to seize it as easily as the infantry had captured the cities in Manchuria. But they were badly foiled. A new commander was sent over and 25,000 troops, with fleets of ships and aircraft. On a stated date the combined attack was launched. But instead of moving right ahead to swift victory the Japanese were held at bay for days. Their immediate objectives are still (at this writing) outside their grasp,-Woosung forts and the town of Kiangwan.

The Chinese have shown they can fight. The Japanese have learned they can conquer only after heavy losses. The Shanghai adventure has been costly in men and materials, but even more costly in military prestige. The trained forces of Japan have proven not greatly better than the disorganized armies of China. Were it not for the need for face-saving, Japan might withdraw; but the military will not permit that now. They will have to see the adventure through.

The Shanghai sortie was either just a screen for the consolidation of position in Manchuria, or else a quick threat which it was hoped would end the troublesome boycott; perhaps it was both. The diversion has permitted the mopping up of Manchuria, though that would have proceeded anyway. But the Chinese should take heart from their sturdy defense of Shanghai; and the tonic of near-victory may give new life to the boycott campaign.

And Japan has brought down upon herself the opprobrium of world opinion.

Klein a Sacrifice

N politics as in religion the scapegoat idea has long prevailed; and in the current instance Roy Klein is retired as state highway engineer largely on the theory that some one had to be thrown to the wolves. As head of the department Klein was naturally the man to be picked off. We regret that the exigencies of politics have forced the retirement of a man who proved himself strictly honest in the handling of many millions of dollars of public funds. Perhaps Klein made a political mistake in not sensing the changing temper of the public in a desire for reduction in highway expenditures. But he can leave his office with a feeling of duty ably performed.

For our part we did not think the faults were in the Klein administration so much as in the functioning of the commission itself; and felt that Klein would willingly cooperate with the commission if it definitely established and laid out a program. But since the new highway commission has seen fit to order a change doubtless with the idea of starting with a "clean slate" we shall not criticize it for its action.

The work of building and keeping up highways must go on; and the state will do well to forget past contention and seek unity in standing behind the new commission.

Seattle is taking the day off to decide which nit-wit to make mayor of the overgrown village.

The Safety

Letters from

Statesman Readers

"Oregon Statesman."

To the Editor: No doubt many of the fond parents of Salem who are advocating an ordinance forbidding the midnight matinee will be horrified when they learn that their request for police interference is a first step to a communistic government. If such keeps up, the ultimate result is a system whereby children will be reared by the state taking them from their parents at a tender age. The writer is not entirely against this idea but it does seem that parents should be able to control their offspring to the extent of being sure they are home and retired at a sensible hour without "police protection."

Perhaps some people do not favor the use of shingle, lath, or peach tree shoot when the children are young. Physical punishment, psychological treatment, and loving kindness is the remedy for the present situation-if the "subjects" are operated upon early enough-not police control.

Sincerely, ERNEST DENNING. Willamette University

To the Editor: Oregon Statesman

The writer of this article wishes to laud the stand of the Marding. It is to be hoped the same

It is encouraging to see a man in public office making an honest effort to represent the people's interest, which, after all, is his correct function. Too many of our politicians, wish to follow the path of least resistance, which is reading: to turn the deaf ear to the peofering. Let's support our Spauld-

ONE OF THOSE TAXPAYERS.

AN ERROR The Wed. morning social columns of The Statesman contained an announcement of the meeting of the "Women's organization for National Prohibition". We, of the "Drys", think that the social editor or the dear ladies themselves, must have made an "For Prohibition" meeting was day residents of Eugene."

Possibly our sisters of the likes to claim all the good things of Oregon, so we are told.

Yes, sisters, "Prohibition" good name, we are proud of it. proud to work for it. We camouflage nothing, we have nothing ton and Idaho, and all of Monto cover up. If you copy our tana and Wyoming west of the name, copy our deeds.

emotional. The hundred per cent

Dr. Copeland

child must have a proper development in each of these fields.

Every age has

its rules, while

all ages must

conform to certain general re-

These are the physicial requi-sites. The height and weight must conform to the regulation scale

for those of a given age, the muscular development must normal, the skin of good color and free from eruptions, and there must be no deformities which often follow rickets in babyhood.

and free. The nose and throat must be healthy, without adenoids, diseased tonsils or catarrhal troubles which interfere with normal breathing. The teeth must be in perfect repair and the gums healthy. Hearing, eyesight and speech must be trums and other manifestations of dren

A .- You must reduce the weight

will work wenders in most cases.

peat your question.

posture must be good, the chest developed and breathing full quirements.

Daily Health Talks

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

BITS for BREAKFAST

By R. J. HENDRICKS

Recalls high history: * * *

HERE'S HOW

voted to that sort of news, under the heading, "Samual R. Thurston," there was in the Portland

EUGENE, Ore., February 16-(Special)-Samuel R. Thurston, summit of the Cascade mountains. | such ventures, Mr. Thurston was a member of company C. 2d Oregon volunteers during the Spanish war and Filippino insurrection.

Mr. Thurston is survived by his widow. Mrs. Helen Kelly Thurs- his life was despaired of, and he ton; a son, George H. Thurston, was left a physical wreck. Howand Mrs. George Thurston, early- himself, in the line of chemistry

Time was when such a news item would have called for more than a casual, passing notice in the Oregonian; when history ladies as we understand, are minded Harvey W. Scott was the editor of that newspaper, though of Scott, is now the editor. * * *

Samuel R. Thurston was name to conjure with in Oregon during the early territorial period. Thurston county, in which Washington's capital, Olympia, is located, was named for the Samuel R. Thurston of those days. All the boy babies of hundreds of named Thurston, for him, He was Oregon's first territorial delegate in congress, from January 6, 1849. to April 9, 1851, the date of his death, and the Oregon of that day contained all the land that is new in the states of Oregon, Washing-Rockies.

They often result in the developmen of inferiority and other complexes

Parents cannot be urged too strongly

48 inches in height and weigh about

54% pounds. Girls should be 48 inches in height and weigh 53

counds. The requirements of freedom from defects that I have al-ready mentioned should be passed dren of this age are as follows:

Some of the mental tests for chil-

1—Compare two known objects, for instance, a fly and a butterfly, and tell how they are unlike.

2-Count backward from twenty to zero. Of course for this test the child must know how to count from 3-Two pictures are shown, one a figure without the ness, and another without arms, etc. The child should be able to tell what is missing.

4—They should be able to give the day and date, month and year.

5—There should be an ability to Many children may be unable to

A .- This depends upon the local

with their children.

uccessfully.

repeat five digits.

pass successfully the mental test for the given age; but if they approxidevelopment. I do this because, even need not worry. Il health or un-should the test of physical seven avoidable absences from school may ment be successfully passed, if there is lack of health in the emotional field the child is by no means a hundred per cent normal.

Lack of self-centrol, as well as what we call "negativism," also tan what we call "negativism," also tan the goal of hundred per cent children as the goal of hundred per cent children the goal of hundred per cent children

Answers to Health Queries

M. M. A. Q.—What causes the ears to feel closed, making talking and breathing unpleasant?

A.—This is probably due to nasal or heart condition. It should be wise

F. M. E. Q. Q.-What will reduce Mrs. R. B. O. Q.-Is there any in general. Eat very sparingly of starches, sugars and fats. Get regular systematic exercise. A gradual reduction in the amount of food consumed, with the regular exercise, case.

Consumed, with the regular exercise, case.

Constitute of the condition—your doctor should be able to advise you definitely since the is familiar with the facts in the case.

cure for chr

the knife?

catarrh. Send self addressed stamped to have a careful examination and a envelope for full particulars and re-

The Samuel R. Thurston who died in Oakland, Cal., on the 7th In the part of the paper de- was a grandson of our first delegate. His father was, as stated, George H. Thurston-and his mother was Marietta Henderson, Oregonian of the 17th, a dispatch | daughter of "Uncle Pinckey" Henderson, a historic character of Lane county. George H. Thurston was a brilliant young man, like his father; studied law and a native of Lane county, Spanish | practiced in Portland; moved to war veteran and graduate of the Eugene; his fortune was wiped University of Oregon, died in Mer- out in the severe winter of 1884 ritt hospital in Oakland, Cal., Feb- or '85 when his band of sheep in ruary 7. His ashes will be brought eastern Oregon was lost-as was to Oregon later and cast upon the the case with many Willamette waters of Crescent lake at the valley residents who had made

> * * * Young Samuel R. Thurston suffered a dangerous period of illness from pneumonia on his return from the Philippines, when at Berkeley, Cal. His son, George * * *

Samuel R. Thurston came to Oregon in 1847. In 1848 he was elected to the provisional government legislature, having established his home in Linn City, across the river from Oregon City. elected from Tualatin county. But so many men had joined the California gold rush that year that there was no regular session. Governor Abernethy called a special session to fiff the places of the members who had gone to the mines, and the last session of the provisional government legislature met Feb. 5, 1849, Thurston Oregon pioneer families were being an outstanding member-Though there were some other able men in it, like Jesse Applegate and Medorum Crawford. 5 5 S

Samuel R. Thurston was born in Monmouth, Maine, studied at Wesleyan seminary; entered Bowdoin and graduated with the class of 1843. Studied law and was admitted to practice at Brunswick. Having married Elizabeth F. Mc-Clench there, they removed to Iowa in 1845, and he edited the Burlington Gazette until he started to Oregon.

Many newspaper pages could be N fixing standards of perfection in children we find three a case of failure to make good in the war in Campaign of 1849 for delegate to congress, when Thurselements, p'ysicial, mental and later life can be traced to lack of ton was elected by a big majority. J. W. Nesmith was one of the opdiscipline in childhood. Disputes between the parents and constant nagposing candidates, and it was ging of the children discourage the though that Thurston had no normal ambitions of the little ones. chance against that forceful and pugnacious pioneer. But Thurston out-Nesmithed Nesmith, and beat him. The rate for Thursto use tact and nationes in dealing ton was 470, for Nesmith 106. Here is a brief resume of what the average perfect child should be at For the other candidates, 413. . . . eight years of age. Boys should be Thurston made a brilliant record in congress; attracted national attention. He made a high mark in his speech in favor of the admission of California as a state; was the outstanding figure when that state "broke into the union," as it were.

Thurston was on his way home o enter into the campaign for his reelection. He died on board the steamer California, at sea off Acapulco, at eight days less than 36 years of age. But he was not screen again today and this evealone or unattended. Z. F. Moody | ning at the Elsinore, along with and Stephen F. Chadwick, each to become a governor or Oregon, were on the vessel. So were the five young women, under his in America. charge, sent out by Governor Slade of Vermont, who was then chairman of the national education board, under contract to become teachers here, or forfeit heir passage money. These teachers were Thurston's tended nurses during his last sickness. Said Mrs. Victor, Bancroft's Oregon writer: "They were all soon marled, as a matter of course-Miss Wands to Governor Gaines; Miss Smith to Mr. Beers, Miss Gray to but they haven't anything to de-Mr. McClench, Miss Lincoln to clare war with." Judge Skinner, and Miss Millar to Judge Wilson.

(Governor Gaines had lost his While I think China is getting the wife who came with him, soon accident while horseback riding. for fear other nations would be The Judge Skinner was A. A. dragged in." Skinner, circuit judge under the and died before taking his place. He was a prominent pioneer Salemite and erected some of our fine buildings of that period. Mr. ger: "Doesn't seem there is much such institutions if the provisions Beers was Alanson Beers, mis- else left for them to do."

THE LOVE TRAP" By ROBERT SHANNON that?" Mary asked him quickly. Mary Kennedy had youth and She was interested in the coldly beauty and an intense fear of poverty. Almost the last words of her have dinner together and Mary-is thrilled by the surrounding splenthat is not likely to happen."

N excited little stir of pleas- her if a rich young man's friends You're got everything-looks, sense, ure kept on tingling through Mary's veins. It was all so enough to see the implication of playing the field. That's my perleisurely, so unhurried and she luxu- Buck Landers. He was building sonal angle. There's a slant to all riated like a kitten in the repose of himself up, not subtly.

"It doesn't seem like New York at placently enjoying their surround-

SYNOPSIS

in the park making plans for a job,

an elderly man of distinguished appearance engages her in conversation. He is Buck Landers, well known sports promoter and race horse owner. He offers Mary a job

CHAPTER IV

commanding personality was pleas- hand indicated marriage. Looked forever," he told her solidly. "There's antly softened by the mellowed chiv- like s case of an old man's daralry he exerted for her enjoyment. ling. . . . She was glad now that she had dress. It was the one gown that tedly. "You want me to tell you in my life, and what I tell you you was absolutely right for her dark what you're thinking?" golden hair and the blue of her eyes; "I'm not thinking anything at all liking to me, I'm willing to play over her breast and fullness over the turned with a smile, humor in her knees. . . . Her eyes met Lander's blue eyes. and they smiled at each other. He "You're enjoying yourself and life." her feel that it was she who was the important one. liness of her small bedroom. Landers, poker-faced, noted her shining eyes. . . . She smiled at him confidently; she was elastic and strong inside; her cool pink finger tips could handle any electric currents and never even be slightly scorched.

It was this belief in her immunity that robbed Landers of any potential danger. As far as he was concerned, she had an asbestos heart. "I like him but he could never told herself. "He's too old. I feel pleasantly comfortable with him."

nicely in the world. It certainly was to a loitering melody. The girl was wasting our time." a slim, boyish creature with shingled | She smiled at him with the kindhair and tanned face and arms; est possible eyes. "Now are you mad her partner was tall and slim, sun- at me?"

you a better time in the end."

sionary blacksmith, coming with the first reinforcement. He was one of the three first governors of Oregon under the provisional government, was active in the organization of that government and of the Oregon Institute that by change of name became Willamette university, and in many other ways in the prepioneer and pioneer periods. His first wife, who came with him and their three children in 1937, had died.

Miss Gray was Mary A. Gray,

from Vermont. She was married to B. F. McClench, on his land claim a mile below where the Wallace road turns down the hill

towards the old town of Lincoln.

Mrs. Samuel R. Thurston was a sister of Mrs. McClench. After the death of Delegate Thurston, his widow came to keep house for her brother. After he married

Miss Gray, Mrs. Thurston taught in Willamette university. General

W. H. Odell was a student there.

They were married. She was then 39, he was 22. But it was a happy union, and for a generation they were among the leading

(There is something more that

"Washington, the Man, and the Capital," will be on the silver

Washington picture is authentic;

endorsed by leaders of education

The question asked yesterday

by Statesman reporters was: "Do you think China should declare

Walter Goughnour, garageman

Anna M. Moen, housekeeper:

'No. I don't. I'm against all war.

worst of the present situation, I'd

M. R. Milburn, Byrne's mana-

246 State: "I think they should,

war upon Japan?"

Marie Dressler's "Emma."

should be told, connecting that important period of Oregon history with the present. It will appear in this column tomorrow.)

people of Oregon,

handsomely shaped.

antagonistic stare that Landers leveled at the young man. In it was dying mother warned her against something of impersonal jealousy. marriage to a poor man. Mary refuses the offer of a home with her married sister, Katherine. She rents a small room. While sitting > but his own tribe would freeze you tell you?" to death. You'd always be an outsider with that gang. And that's not saying anything against you, Mary, as secretary. Mary calls on Landers relative to the position. They were snobbish? But she was clever and you're square. I'm through ings and each other. People from discovered it yet, so it's not spoiled." at another table, a paunchy man ingly. In his dinner coat she thought he with a youngish woman in cerise

"I can read your thoughts like an brought her, for the first time in feeling mighty secure behind that | Mary's blood began to run with a her life, to a palace atmosphere like stone wall you've thrown up around chill current and her hands sudthis, and, more important, had made yourself," he declared. "You're denly were icy cold. thinking that I ought to be held in check, and you're perfectly sure that me?" She was infinitely grateful toward you can do it. You have a hunch him; he had erased the nagging ug- that I like you a lot, but you've might not be a bad idea. Maybe I made up your mind that I'm not go- would be better off married. I'm ing to get to first base. How about going to think it over. . . . it-have I lined things up right?"

"Maybe yes, maybe no." Her voice told herself, "I could never love verish of a sudden.

"I know how to deal with men, give me any exciting thrills," she for you to like me a little bit-just Landers had rather upset the casual for myself."

Yes, with a level head and a heart herself to stop him before he got he expected no immediate easwer always under control, a girl with a fairly started. It would be easier and their conversation veered away bit of luck could get along very now than later.

beginning to look that way. . . . driving at, Mr. Landers. I'll tell you been said. It appeared there was a wide space frankly how I feel about you. I for dancing, too, in this flowery think you are awfully nice and awplace and Mary's eyes fell to fol- fully interesting, but let's not try owing a smart-looking young couple to be too friendly. I don't feel that who were dancing in lazy relaxation way towards you and we'd both be burned, with wiry muscles, yet al- "I've been up against tough propomost insolently languid. His fea- sitions before," he remarked, with tures were regular and his head a slow smile.

"As long as it is just plain friend-"You'd like to be dancing with ship, I think it would be a lot of dinner, and I'll try to show you a that good-looking chap instead of fun," Mary elaborated. "Of course, sitting here with me, I reckon," you haven't suggested anything Buck Landers said, divining the ob- more, but I can read minds, too, Mr. ject of her gaze. "But I can show Landers. It wouldn't be long, unless we had an understanding, before

What made you say a thing like | there'd possibly be a question ofwell, affection. That's the part I want to dodge."

He smiled at her. "Well, little lady, you certainly come out in the middle of the ring "That lad was born to the purple and start slugging at the tap of the -and the girl, too," Landers said. bell. You almost scored a knockout "They've both been in the big money in the first round. Yes, sir, you alfrom the beginning. You can tell most stopped me dead in my tracks. that by looking at them. He'd prob- I'd take you at your word and agree ably be glad to play around with a to let it stay a case of plain friendworking girl like you on the quiet, ship, except for one thing. Shall I

"Plain friendship with you isn't going to satisfy me. You've been frank and honest with me, so I'm Mary gave a careless shrug. "I going to return the compliment. I can't get excited over something think you're great. I think you're the greatest girl I've ever met in What could it possibly matter to my life and I've met a lot of 'em. this concerning you that I don't be-She began to notice other diners. lieve you've thoroughly realized. "This is so charming," she said. a middle-aged couple, both com- Do you know what I could do for you?"

"But I don't want you to do any-"I hoped you might like it here," out of town, probably. Somehow thing for me, more than you've done Landers answered. "The mob hasn't they lacked the New York look. And, already." Mary said almost implor-

"I could put you in right so strong looked dignified; yes, handsome. His chiffon. A ring on the girl's left that all your troubles would be over nothing in New York you couldn't have, because I'm able to get it for you. I'm a straight shooter. It's worn her little peach-colored dinner open book," Landers said unexpectinever been my policy to lie or stall can depend on it. If you can take a she adored the tight stretch of it -I'm just enjoying myself," she re- absolutely fair with you. All other women are out. All you have to do is say the word. You're fixed for

"Do you mean you want to marry His eyes were stone steady. "It

Mary did not answer him, but she was steady, yet her cheeks felt fe- him. If I was sure I'd never love anybody else, I'd consider it." Landers took Mary home in the but women, generally, have me up kind of limousine that represented a tree," he went on. "Men usually all her dreams of luxury; lengthy obey my wishes for what they can and lustrous, its engine purred like get out of me-in a business way. a kitten. The chauffeur was smartly That part's O. K. Maybe it's the military. After dinner she had desame way with woman, but I'm clined an invitation to dance. But wondering if it wouldn't be possible the proposal of marriage from tempo of the evening. She had not She drew a long breath and steeled replied to his offer. It was evident from the topic. Both of them knew "I know perfectly well what you're that enough, for one evening, had

> The car stopped before Mary's rooming house and Landers accompanied her to the door. She gave him her hand briefly in parting.

> "Am I going to see you any more?" he asked almost indifferent. "Why not?"

"I'll leave it to you," he returned. 'Think it over and we'll have another talk whenever you like. There's no particular hurry. If you haven't your answer ready we can go to reasonably good time."

"Thank you so much," she said, and disappeared into the house.

(To Be Continued) Copyright, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Editorial Comment

From Other Papers FINANCIAL RACKETEERING

brought news of the indictment of Bancorporation and the Union Astorian-Budget. Savings & Loan association, Our own grand jury has just returned another indictment against Mr. Keenholtz, erstwhile manager of the Astoria Building & Loan association. These men are among those whom Corporation Commissioner Mott has characterized as "financial racketeers," a name to which the men themselves take violent exception quite naturally. But though they have denounced Mott in bitter terms and sought to discredit him as a public official, it is quite significant that one by one, as he has called the roll, these men have been indicted, tried and convicted of defrauding those who have entrusted their money to them. Not all have been convicted yet, but none indicted have been acquitted.

The clean-up movement against these so-called racketeers is timely. It has been long overdue and Commissioner Mott is entitled to a full measure of credit for initiating and persistently prosecuting this campaign to rid the state of those who have been preying upon the unwary investors. They have fought back savagely but, when they came to grips with the laws they have ignored, they have had little chance. And they, who have had little sympathy for the innocent people they have been systematically robbing, are entitled to as little mercy now.

Not the least of the crimes they have committed has been the injury they have done to legitimate financial institutions. Public confidence in the stability of such institutions has been impaired and the good have suffered with the bad. Commissioner Mott has stated publicly upon several occasions that his investigations have shown after their arrival, through an be afraid to have her declars war that, out of 30 building and loan associations in the state, only three groups have been illegitimately conducted and that the Judge Wilson was Joseph G. Wil- Press: "Why should they? They guarding laws and are in sound son, elected to congress in 1878 are getting along all right without condition. Moreover, he has stated that the laws of Oregon are such that it is practically impossible for investors to lose their money in

It is a severe indictment of the previous administration of the corporation department that these laws could be so flagrantly flouted without challenge and that permits were given to other racketeers for promotion schemes which had not a germ of legitimacy about them and which took millions of dollars of money from innocent though gullible people. It might be well to continue the The press reports yesterday investigation to ascertain why the previous corporation commission-Carl A. Johnston and C. A. De- er so conducted his office. The Grace, heads of the Prudential evidence points clearly to gross Savings & Loan, the Prudential negligence, willful or otherwise .-

CALIFORNIA TO EUROPE

On the Cruise Liner Empress of Britain A GOLDEN opportunity
A to travel on a worldfamed giantess from San Francisco or Los Angeles
down the Isthmus for a daylight trip through the Panama Canal... to Havana for a dayand night...on to New York for shopping and the theatre
...then across to Paris and London. No transfers ... no hotels. Leave San Francisco
March 22; arrive Cherbourg
and Southampton April 15. and Southampton April 15.
Call now for special folder,
aformation regarding rates.
Or Coast-to-Coast-t (For Coast-to-Coast travel only, passengers sail on Empress of Britain to Havana, thence to New York on Duchess of Bedford.)

Canadian