

MILK HELD AID TO ECONOMY IN FOOD

Dairy Products Praised by Visitor, President of National Council

"A typical American family of five persons, two adults and three children, can live well on a weekly food budget of $7.51 and enjoy better health and have more energy for their daily tasks," declared M. D. Munn, president of the National Dairy Council, who passed through Salem on his way to California.

Mr. Munn said that in a number of eastern cities where food costs run generally higher than on the Pacific coast, that the Dairy Council had recommended a weekly budget in which dairy products played a much larger part of the usual weekly allowance and had thus greatly reduced the cost as well as added appetite appeal to the weekly menu.

"This economy budget calls for 28 quarts of milk, 2 pounds of butter and one pound of cheese a week for a normal family of five. Fresh fruits, cereals, and fish are also a part of this money-saving budget which contains a balanced ratio of the essential vitamins and food calories for all members of the family. The plan has been adopted by a number of welfare bureaus for industrial concerns in the east," said Munn.

He stated that increased production in all lines of dairy products was indicated for the coming year and that the consumption of dairy products had kept even with production in most localities where the educational work of the dairy council has been in operation.

Mr. Munn spent yesterday and Wednesday in conference with leaders of the Oregon dairy industry. Munn has been president of the national council for eleven years and was president of the American Jersey Cattle club for ten years.

HULTENBERG TAKES LEASE ON BUILDING

A five-year lease on the store property on North High and Center streets formerly owned by Mader's was completed this week with Carl Hultenberg as the new lessee and the Capitol Securities company as the lessor. The deal was handled by the Leo N. Childs real estate firm.

The building is now being remodeled extensively to make the quarters suitable for Hultenberg to move his tire business from Front and Center streets to the new location. Hultenberg has handled the Sieberling tire line here for three years and will continue business in the new location. In the building will be a barber shop, a meat market and a grocery when rooms now being refurnished are tenanted.

Hultenberg has made Salem his home for 17 years. For six years he was local agent for the C-T-C tires. Prior to his business career here Hultenberg was overseas in the world war and had an extended record of service.

He plans to occupy the house on North High and Center street which is part of the property acquired by the Capitol Securities company.

Welcome, Oregon Dentists!

We pull 'em and we fill 'em,
As we deftly grasp the pliers,
We treat 'em, and we clean 'em,
And we clear up every ridge.

We clamp on your spotless bib,
And smile at your distraction,
Then quickly give the anesthetic,
And proceed with the extraction.

We calmly say "this will not hurt",
While our patient grasps his seat,
And mutters "you're a liar."

And if you have a decayed tooth,
That's been hurting quite a lot,
We have a panacea,
Which will surely hit the spot.

It has a very tiny needle,
And it gives a buzzing sound,
And we'll promise you will know it,
When it starts going round and round.

We dentists have a lot of things,
In our offices complete,
Including pretty, sweet-faced girls,
In their uniforms so neat.

I fear we now must leave you,
But with a message full of cheer:
"Wash your teeth twice a day,
And see your dentist twice a year."

Feminine fans will gasp in admiration over the stunning gowns worn by Jean Harlow, Mae Clarke and Natalie Moorhead in "Three Wise Girls," Columbia attraction now at the Warner Bros. Capitol.

Sophistication and comedy are the highlights of the theme of the play which has to do with the rise of three country girls to that stage of sophistication where they are a handful for any wise man about town. There is sufficient disaster in the development of the plot to give character to the sophistication.

There's only one finish for racketeers . . . a quick one. They may go on in their sensational careers for a while, but they always come up against other gangsters or the law. That is illustrated forcefully in the Columbia picture "The Last Parade," which begins today at the Grand, Jack Holt, Tom Moore, Constance Cummings and Gaylord Pendleton play leading roles in this offering.

The festive and hilarious activities of J. Rufus Wallingford, gratter de luxe, are depicted in "New Adventures of Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," which will open today at the Hollywood.

William Haines portrays the master cook, "Schmoozle," comedian of the New York stage, has a prominent role as the chauffeur who in an unheroic episode impersonates a senator, and Ernest Torrence completes the trio as Wallingford's partner in easy pickings. Blackie Daw, Lella Hyams has the feminine lead.

"Flying High," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of the George White musical comedy success, will open today at the Elsinore theatre, Bert Lahr, America's most imitated comedian and star of the original Broadway hit, heads the cast of the talkie version, which also features the ace comedienne, Charlotte Greenwood, last seen with Eddie Cantor in "Palmy Days," and Pat O'Brien, who

FEDERAL HIGHWAY AID AMOUNT TOLD

Oregon Will Receive About $2,500,000 if Bill is Passed, Says Wire

In case the annual agricultural appropriation bill receives favorable consideration of congress, the state of Oregon probably will receive approximately $2,500,000 of federal road money for the fiscal year 1933, commencing July 1 of this year, Senator McNary advised Governor Meier in a telegram received at the executive department late Thursday.

Of this amount $1,763,000 was classified by McNary as regular federal aid, while $737,000 is for forest roads and trails. The aggregate is a trifling less than received by Oregon last year for the same highway development.

McNary said he also would support a pending amendment to be offered to the agricultural appropriation bill calling for an appropriation of $125,000,000.

"This is not a budget estimate, however," McNary's telegram continued, "and involves a suspension of the senate rules which will require a two-thirds vote. There also are several authorization bills carrying increased federal appropriations, which will receive my support."

McNary's telegram was in reply to one sent to the senator by Governor Meier urging that he support the federal appropriation bills carrying highway appropriations.

Under the Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

APPARENTLY all the pain and misery in Oregon is concentrated in Salem this week, while inhabitants of the rest of the state are enjoying a vacation from painful episodes. The dentists of Oregon are all here, about 200 strong. And they probably are figuring out new ways to torture the rest of us.

Dr. G. C. Bollinger of the state tuberculosis hospital reported yesterday the new hospital building there was about ready for acceptance by the board of control. He reported work coming along fine. The floor covering is about to be let, and painters are now at work. Following its completion he invites inspection of the new building.

Wednesday was the first day for some time there were no political filings with the secretary of state. Dave O'Hara, who has charge of this work reported, and up to late afternoon yesterday there still were no new candidacies announced. O'Hara said they probably are all waiting until the last day, and particularly the last day, April 5.

Max Gehlhar has been a busy man recently. He reported the other day that since the first of the year he has had meetings at the rate of one a day, mostly on dairy law, and a corresponding problem. This week Max is in the southern part of the state on similar business.

License Fund is Gaining Heavily As Owners Pay

Dog owners again appeared in numbers at the county clerk's office Thursday to angle up $2 and $3 payments for 1932 dog licenses. Receipts reported by Harlan Judd, deputy county clerk, were $425 for the day. Monday, February 29, marks the last day before the penalty of $2 goes into effect.

Receipts from dog licenses are used to reimburse sheep herders for losses due to sheep being killed by dogs. Last month the county paid owners of ewes $2.50 for each sheep killed. The price varies with the market value of sheep. Each year there has been a surplus from the dog license fund and this is turned into the general fund.

Inheritance collected since the law went into effect in 1923 have totaled about $7,600,000, the inheritance department of the state treasurer's office announced yesterday. Of this sum nearly $4,000,000, or more than half has been collected during the past five years, leaving the smaller half collected over a period of 23 years.

Thomas E. Rilea is considering being a popularity candidate for president of the United States. Tom says it wouldn't be as campaign as Vic Meyers staged in Seattle, but one on a definite platform. The planks upon which he would seek election would entitle him to the support of most husbands, he believes.

And here is his plank: To make

FIRE SEVERE BLOW TO FAMILY, REPORT

A young couple who have been making a heroic effort this winter to take care of themselves and small children, and do it without aid and in the face of pressing economic conditions, came into Salem Wednesday afternoon to do some necessary shopping and upon their return home found their little home razed to the ground by fire.

Misfortune beyond words to express for they have been fighting to keep body and soul together with food all winter, and the thought of buying extra furniture and clothes is out of the question.

The adjutant at the Salvation Army is following the case and asks that any one having anything
