Case Dropped—Charges of false advertising placed here against the Safeway stores were dropped in justice court this weekend when Judge Miller Hayden sustained a demurrer against them. The store was accused by J. F. Jones, representative of the state weights and measures department, of advertising crates of oranges and not selling the size crate ordinarily designated by this term. Counsel for the defendant showed to the court's satisfaction that the word "crate" had no legal determination as regards size.

Estate Probated—The estate of Merton S. Bissell deceased, was admitted to probate here Saturday and Milton L. Meyers was named administrator. The estimated real property is worth $500, and the personal property $1445. Appraisers of the estate are Alvin E. Schirman, Roby Ratcliffe and Chris Kowitz. The only heir to the property is a half-brother whose exact whereabouts are not known.

Magazine Issued—The current issue of the Oregon Magazine, Murray Wade, editor, is called the Oregon Year book issue. It is replete with facts and figures on Oregon's state government and the municipal and county governments throughout the state. Most of the material is taken from the Oregon blue book. The cover is very attractive with a fine picture of the state capitol being used between top and bottom in colors of red and black.

To Aid Program—The Salem chamber of commerce will assist in the program at the West State community club meeting next Saturday, March 5. The chamber is scheduled to take part in a similar meeting at the Marion community March 15. These meetings afford the local chamber members a chance to become better acquainted with leaders in the outlying districts.

Chamber Member—The Labish Meadows Celery Union of Brooks, which last year had one of the most successful years in its history is the newest member of the Salem chamber of commerce. Henry R. Crawford past president of the chamber was instrumental in getting the celery union to join.

MISS NINA McNARY CALLED BY DEATH

Sister of two Noted Oregon Men Helped Them Toward National Prominence

Miss Nina McNary died at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. T. Stolz, 495 North Winter street, at 4:20 Saturday morning, after a lingering illness. She was born August 8, 1857, on the donation land claim farm of her grandfather, Charles Claggett, about four miles north of Salem, on a part of which land is the present home of Senator Charles L. McNary, her brother. Her parents were Hugh Linzy McNary and Mary Margaret Claggett McNary. Her childhood and early school years were spent there.

The father, who came with the covered wagon immigration of 1845, died in 1878, and the mother passed away five years later. Two children had died in infancy, and the mother's death left six orphaned children. Nina McNary became the good angel of the family; took the place of both a strong and supporting father and a loving and devoted mother. Their material as well as moral support depended much upon her. How well she performed her willingly though at times hard borne tasks, while the boys were younger children of the orphaned family, is attested by the fact that one of them, John H. McNary, United States judge in Portland, and the other, Charles L. McNary, is the senior member of the United States senate from Oregon, and high in the nation's councils. Both of them have persistently acknowledged their debt and gratitude, throughout the years, adding to her pride and satisfaction. There is a younger sister, Martha, who was long a teacher in the Salem public schools. The other sisters are Ella (Mrs. Walter T. Stolz) of Salem, and Mary Elizabeth Bruce, wife of Thomas Bruce of Portland.

Nina McNary did not weary in well doing after her responsibilities were ended as they took their own places in professional and business and home life. She was one of the strong supports of the Baptist church, of which she early became a member, and an outstanding teacher in its Sunday school. She worked with the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. Her help with the auxiliary of the former in its beginning days went a long way in keeping its frail craft afloat and rendering it able to get a home of its own. In all good works, Nina McNary was tireless, never sparing herself, never vain-glorious; quiet, and unassuming.

Make Inspection Tour—James Burgess, deputy in charge of secondary education in the state superintendent of school's office, with Mrs. Mary L. Fulkerson, county superintendent, made an inspection tour of several high schools in the county, February 26. Schools visited included those at Gervais, Scotts Mills, Woodburn and Silverton. Mrs. Fulkerson made special comment upon her return on the home economics department of Silverton high school. This is extremely well managed and equipped, in her opinion.

Visit Office—Among the numerous visitors Saturday at the office of the county superintendent of schools were James Brecht, principal of the Taft high school in Lincoln county. Formerly the Ayres were teachers at Marion.

Wanted—5 men. Phone 3580 for appointment.

Mrs. Dungan III—Mrs. Melvin Dungan, telephone operator at the Marion hotel here, underwent a serious operation at a local hospital Friday. She was reported to be resting easily yesterday.

Falls to Stop—J. O. Jordan, 583 South Winter street, yesterday was arrested by city police on a charge of falling to stop at a through traffic street. He was cited to appear in municipal court tomorrow afternoon.

Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

If it weren't for leap year, today would be the last day of the shortest month of the year, but as it is, Monday has been added on extra, thus delaying payday another day—so saying state employees. Oh well, time goes plenty fast anyhow, and hardly has the year 1932 started when we find ourselves approaching March.

The statehouse press gallery seems to be great on wedding anniversaries, celebrating them

There are scores who will ever remember her helplessness in church and other circles. She was a member of the D. A. R., by right of Revolutionary ancestry. Hugh McNary of Virginia, with his brother, served in Washington's army, and a gun carried in that conflict by one of them was brought in a covered wagon to Oregon.

TEACHERS CHOSEN EARLY THIS YEAR

School boards throughout the county are electing teachers much earlier than is customary, in order to obviate the work of meeting an unusual number of applicants for jobs. Mrs. Mary Fulkerson, county school superintendent, announced yesterday. Many people have opined that boards would be tardy in making elections in order to take the pick of applicants, but the contrary is proving true, the superintendent stated.

Many of the districts have reduced salaries but in three instances reported to her office, Mrs. Fulkerson says salaries have been increased in order to hold exceptionally capable teachers.

More teachers than ever are applying to the county school office here for jobs, and the applicants for work are coming in much earlier than is usual.

HOFFNELL ON SHIP NEAR BATTLE ZONE

Word received here by Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hoffnell from their son Edwin, who is a cadet on the Dollar steamship line, says the ship has been unable to tie up at its docks in China, which are in the fighting zone, but aside from the battle has made no hardship for the crew.

The ship on which he is serving left late Friday afternoon from San Francisco after being in port there since last Monday. Shanghai is one of the several ports the vessel makes on its tours.

NEW CONCENTRATED SYRUP BEING MADE

Green Brothers Developing Honey and Malted Milk Concoction Locally

A new concentrated syrup which uses a blend of malted milk and strained honey for its unique flavor, is being introduced upon the local market by its originators and manufacturers, J. M. Green and C. W. Green, brothers.

Beginning the first of the week, salesmen will go out all over the state to introduce the syrup, for use through soda fountains as either cold or hot milk shake. The product will also be carried into California and Washington as quickly as possible, and once it is introduced on the coast the company hopes to find a wide market for it throughout the country.

The syrup is manufactured under the trade name of Ju-Sweet, and is a splendid health beverage, as well as confection, according to J. M. Green, who says the company hopes to find a large market in hospitals. It has two separate flavors, depending upon whether served hot or cold. Application for patent has been made on the process.

The Greens are doing the manufacturing at their home here now, but have already selected a factory site near a railroad spur in West Salem, and if the product is accepted as they expect it will be, will construct a factory. The factory will be so planned that units can be added as the business increases.

Each unit will have a capacity of 600 gallons a day. The company is known as Green and Green, manufacturers. The originators are the sons of Rev. J. S. Green of Salem.

Trial drinks served to 200 Salem people this week have resulted in exactly 199 approvals of the beverage, J. M. Green says.

Japanese casualties are not alone confined to the Sino-Jap conflict in China. They even get injured in Salem. Four members of a Japanese family in West Salem, and if the product is accepted as they expect it will be, will construct a factory. The factory will be so planned that units can be added as the business increases.

Charles Pray, superintendent of state police, left yesterday for Roseburg to look after state police interests. Before he returns to Salem he expects to go down into Curry county, the wildest county in the state. However, it is understood he will not go down there in uniform, so he perhaps will have a safe trip.

Seeks Order to Prevent Father Seeing Children

A restraining order keeping Leona E. Fisher away from his wife and children was sought yesterday from the circuit court here.

His wife, Fresta M. Fisher, who has a divorce suit pending against him, declared that Fisher had frightened the children by telling them he was going "to send their mother to the penitentiary."

The plaintiff asks the court to order the defendant to pay her funds for the support of the children. Not since July 4, 1930, has he paid out anything for the children's aid, the plaintiff contends. On that day he gave the children one dollar to spend for fireworks.

Fong to Speak On Orient War, Here on Monday

Another discussion of the Sino-Japanese war will be featured on the Monday noon chamber of commerce luncheon meeting program, when George H. Fong of Portland, will be the speaker.

Mr. Fong is rated one of the most brilliant Chinese orators in the northwest, and it is anticipated his appearance here will add considerably more about the Japanese aggression in Manchuria and Shanghai. Mr. Fong is a graduate of the University of Michigan, and has just been appointed interpreter for the immigration service at Chicago.
