CASES DELAYED BY ILLNESS OF JUDGE

Poor health of Judge Gale S. Hill has necessitated the setting over of several cases in department two of circuit court here and the indefinite delay of others. Judge Hill advised Walter Lampkin, clerk of the court, yesterday that he was soon to enter a clinic for an extended examination of his physical condition which has not been good for several weeks.

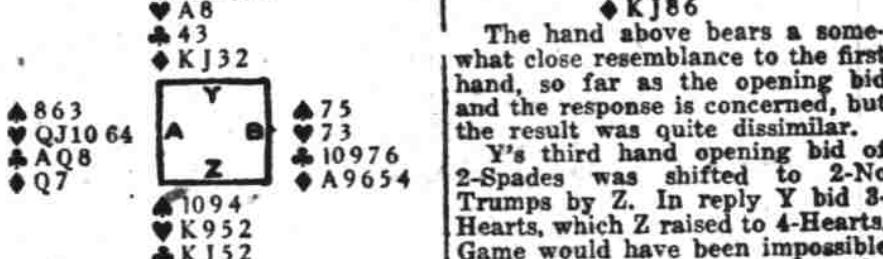

The case of Maude B. Green against the state tax commission regarding the intangibles tax has been continued indefinitely. The case of Carl Johnson and C. A. DeGrace against James W. Mott, corporation commissioner, has been postponed from March 14 to March 28.

Judge L. H. McMahan will take Judge Hill's place next Saturday, March 12, to hear arguments for a temporary injunction to be granted to prevent collection of high school tuition taxes in this county this year. Judge McMahan also will sit for Judge Hill at the regular motion day in department two next Tuesday.

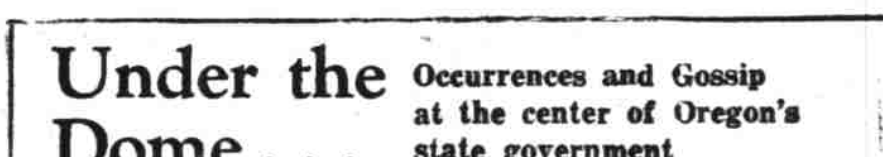

CONTRACT BRIDGE "The Official System" as Adopted by Leading Authorities By E. V. SHEPARD

Minimum Responses to Opening Two Bids.

Anything better than a bare two probable tricks ordinarily is sufficient for a voluntary response to partner's semi-forcing opening bid of two. Get over fearing that you will make partner to go down if you make a minimum response. Going down part of the time is less serious than losing games through failures to respond. The two hands given show responses upon nearly equally weak holdings. The first declaring hand is the stronger, but in both instances intelligent contracting, with some good luck in the second instance, yields games.

Y made a third hand opening bid of 2-Spades, on the hand above. Z had a very skimpy assist upon three probable tricks, including his possible chance to trump a third round diamond. But he answered with 2-No Trumps. When Y rebid spades, going 3-Spades, Z bid 4-Spades. They made just four-odd, losing two club tricks and one diamond trick; Z trumped two diamond leads before spades were touched. Only two-odd could have been made at no-trumps (five spades, two hearts and one diamond trick) against reasonable defense. The two ruffs by dummy at the spade declaration made the difference needed to go game.

The hand above bears a somewhat close resemblance to the first hand, so far as the opening bid and the response is concerned, but the result was quite dissimilar. Y's third hand opening bid of 2-Spades was shifted to 2-No Trumps by Z. In reply Y bid 3-Hearts, which Z raised to 4-Hearts. Game would have been impossible at spades, as two trump tricks must have been lost. As the cards lay, it was a simple matter to go game at hearts.

B made an opening lead of his fourth best club, killing A's K. When Y won the trick he gave B a club trick, thereby establishing a good club in his own hand, upon which he later on discarded one of dummy's spades, permitting Z to trump two spades, and giving his side four-odd.

And while on the subject of the Lindbergh kidnaping case has held the spotlight, and every day new angles are reported which are most thoroughly discussed wherever one goes.

And Oregon is not without its angles on the Lindbergh case. State Police Superintendent Charles Pray received a phone call from a Salem resident who suggested that Johnson should be released and police follow him to find the child. The resident insisted Pray wire that to the New Jersey officials. The idea is as sound as thousands of others being made. Pretty soon reports of finding the baby in Oregon will be coming in.

And while on the subject of kidnaping, professionals should do the public a service and kidnap some of the soprano singers on the radio, as well as some of the children who sing over the radio. A child's voice is pleasurable around a home, but when the public has to listen to a child never heard of before—that is little too much.

And the Irish elected an American for president. Somehow you just can't keep these Americans down. At least Eamon DeValera, elected yesterday, was an American. Reports say he was born in New York of a Spanish father and an Irish mother. But of course some still argue New York is not in the United States.

Governor Meier yesterday formally announced the reappointment of F. E. Callister of Albany as a member of the state board of higher education. His term expired March 2. Since the big steps taken by the board and approved by the governor, it is believed Meier figured there was no reason to make any changes in the present personnel.

In the list of names of state employes mentioned in this column from time to time, such as Hoss, Bird and Looney, the name of a member of the state penitentiary staff was omitted. Mr. Lamb, really a meek individual in charge of the penitentiary hospital, and

G. G. GODFREY IS CHAMBER PRESIDENT

INDEPENDENCE, March 9 — G. G. Godfrey was elected president of the Independence chamber of commerce at an enthusiastic dinner-meeting in the parlors of the Presbyterian church Tuesday night. Other officers named were Dr. Maurice J. Butler, vice president, and Glen C. Smith, secretary. Members of the executive committee are J. H. Hart, A. L. Thomas and R. K. Montgomery.

An active year's work was assured in plans outlined for entertainment and public work, the details to be completed later.

Mrs. Alice Skinner was complimented at a lovely surprise luncheon in celebration of her 85th birthday anniversary at the home of her son, Claude Skinner, Tuesday. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Skinner, and her granddaughter, Mrs. Alice Skinner Payne, were the hostesses.

The table was beautifully appointed in a green and yellow St. Patrick's motif and covers were laid for the following guests: Mrs. Alice Skinner, the guest of honor, Mrs. L. J. Hiltbrand, Mrs. Flora Sporr, Mrs. Bertha Ferguson, Mrs. George McLaughlin, Mrs. N. B. Waincoat, Mrs. Ellen Seely and Mrs. Sarah Irvine.

Mrs. Skinner has spent many years in Independence. Her husband, the late Captain Skinner, ran a steamer between Salem and Independence for a long time. Her sons, Frank of Portland and Claude of Independence are well known river boatmen; both on the Willamette and the Columbia rivers.

GRANGE H. E. CLUB SPONSORING PLAY

MACLEAY, March 9 — The Home Economic club of the Grange is sponsoring a three-act comedy, "Finger Prints" to be put on by the Scotts Mills parent association Saturday night, March 12. The play will be followed by a dance with music furnished by the Scotts Mills orchestra. A small admission charge will include both the play and the dance.

The Scotts Mills people have pleased the Macleay people with their production for the past three years and some of the same characters will appear again this year.

The cast includes Raymond Kells, Delbert Edwards, Raymond Gieger, Chris Herigstad, Lillian Herigstad, Marie, Pearl Geizer, Virginia Thompson, Nellie Amundson, Constance Moberg, Zella Magee Smith.

SALEM AND PRUNES RECEIVE PUBLICITY

Salem and its advantages as a city and the Italian prune were given unusual publicity at a banquet recently held in Bloomington, Illinois, by one thousand agents of the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance company, according to W. Ludd Reed, state agent, who has just returned from a national meeting of agents.

Before the banquet was served, Mr. Reed had placed at each plate the statistical folder issued by the Salem chamber of commerce. The Dallas chamber of commerce served small packages of Italian prunes.

The presiding officer at the banquet stated that Salem was surely presenting a fine piece of advertising and as for the Italian prunes, nothing was more appreciated.

RAISING FOOD FOR JOBLESS PLANNED

Utilization of all vacant lots and fields for the production of grain, vegetables and other foodstuffs, in connection with the campaign to feed the unemployed, was urged by J. M. Devers, special investigator for Governor Meier, in a letter sent to all county courts in Oregon Wednesday.

"Every vacant lot, field or parcel of ground which is suitable for cultivation should be planted to some kind of grain, vegetables or other foodstuffs," Devers' letter read. "Necessary seed, tools and machinery can or should be made available so that all who are now idle can find employment in a line of endeavor which will provide ample food not only for the worker himself and his dependents, but for those who are unable to work because of physical limitations."

"These vacant lots should be listed, and worked as such, if the depression continues through 1933 the army of unemployed will have to be fed, clothed and housed either by private subscription or at public expense. A large part of this burden can be met if we produce now what we will need then."

ROBERTS CASE UP IN JUSTICE COURT

Case of L. D. Roberts against O. H. Ostrin and others of the Salem Sanitary Milk company will be taken up in justice court Friday morning at 9 o'clock, following a day's recess. The suit, a civil action in which Roberts and five others seek money alleged due on milk deliveries, occupied all of yesterday in Justice of the Peace Miller Eardon's court.

Plaintiff's case was completed yesterday, and non-suit granted as to plaintiff E. Folk. The non-suit was ruled when Folk failed to name or show evidence of a definite date of receipt of notices of change in milk prices.

Roberts is suing for $19.05 alleged due as difference between contract price for milk and price actually paid. Folk sought to recover $14.64 on the same score; and others seeking recovery are E. Imig, Tom Webb, Fay Webb and W. T. Riches.
