

BUTTER PRODUCTION GREATLY INCREASED

Fails to Create Weakness But Instead is Finding Heavy General Call

PORTLAND, March 18.—(AP)—Very heavy increase in production of butter in Portland and in the northwest territory is being moved out rapidly and at recent betterment in the price list.

The increase during the last week or so has been remarkable and instead of creating weakness as during normal periods, has found a call at higher figures at least for everything except the extreme top grade.

San Francisco has been the chief market for Oregon butter recently. Market for eggs is showing further weakness with cash buyers offering a reduction of 1 cent for the day owing to the added competition of direct selling to retailers by the country.

General conditions in the cheese trade appear fully steady through the country with an increasing consumptive call and decreasing storage stocks at leading points.

First of the season's outdoor grown rhubarb to be received by a wholesaler was reported in from Clackamas. The initial shipment consisted of 11 lugs which sold 7c pound.

Farm Board's Plan to Campaign for Sale Abroad Factor

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP)—Swept downward by a flood of selling, wheat today suffered a fall of more than 2 cents a bushel and corn more than a cent. The flurry plunged the wheat market to the lowest level reached since the middle of January and to within 3 cents of the season's lowest figure.

Additional impetus to selling was given by a bullish construction placed on word that President Hoover was seeking further financial assistance for the farm board so that it could make sales of wheat abroad on credit.

Today's closing quotations: Wheat: March, 53 1/4; May, 55 1/2-56; July old, 57 1/2-58, new 57 1/2; September old, 58 1/2-59, new 58 1/2.

STOCKS SLIP DOWN IN INACTIVE MART

NEW YORK, Mar. 18.—(AP)—Stocks slipped easily in a rather inactive market today. Utilities gave the poorest group exhibition, but neither industrials nor rails could do a great deal better and net losses ranged from about 1 to 3 points in issues which normally provide the leadership. Final quotations were somewhat above the lowest thanks to a late recovery.

Although officials of electric bond and share companies made no formal comment, it was indicated that unfounded bear rumors regarding bank loans were partly responsible for weakness in American & Foreign power, American Power & Light and Electric Power & Light, as well as the same group's representatives on the curb exchange. Two of the companies have bank loans maturing considerably later this year, the total involving $71,280,000. To meet this indebtedness, it was said, the group has more than $100,000,000 in cash or equivalent and interest in the loans is being covered many times over.

American Telephone was 5 points lower at the close. It was off 3 1/2 at the close. Shorts saw no further reason for covering rail commitments and the group suffered a relapse, but recessions were smaller than nearly this week.

CONTRACT BRIDGE "The Official System" as Adopted by Leading Authorities by E. V. SHEPARD

Probable Tricks.
For those who dislike employing fractions of tricks, the most simple short-cut method of valuing the hands of both declarer and dummy is that given below, which is more precise than nearly all other methods.

Quick trick values are employed only for defensive purposes. Both declarer and dummy employ "playing values," which exceed defensive values. The declarer possesses an enormous advantage over the defender, provided the declarer side reaches the particular declaration best fitting the joint twenty-six cards held. Then the declarer has control of trumps; he plays the two hands as a unit; he knows from the start his resources and best policy.

As an illustration of the declarer's advantage, compare the average playing value of 1 1/2 tricks for an ace, with its average defensive value of one trick. When held by either declarer or dummy, an ace of a suit not bid by opponents not only wins one trick, but also it averages to produce an added trick one-half the time, which trick would not be won unless the ace were held. This one-half trick promotional value of an ace is to a lesser degree found in lower honors. The sum of the normal defensive value of an honor, plus its promotional value, is the "playing value" of that honor, provided neither opponent bids the suit to which the honor belongs.

In the point count given here each point is as follows: A, 3; K, 2; either Q, J, or 10, 1 point each. (Really the Q is 1 1/2 points, and the 10 is worth only 1/2 point. For simplicity take their average value, which is that of J, and assume that equal numbers of Q's and 10's will be held.)

A solid suit like A-K-Q-J value at 2 points (1 trick) per card. The K-Q-J-10-X evidently is worth 8 points (4 probable tricks), admitting that one trick must be sacrificed to the missing ace. Count 1 point for declarer's fourth trump, and value each trump beyond four at 2 points. The value of the following hand with spades as trumps is: spades 8 points; hearts 0; clubs, 3 points; diamonds, 2 points; total 13 points, or 6 1/2 probable tricks.

For convenience in valuing the following hand at hearts, the values appear in points beneath each card that counts. The value is 12 points, or 6 playing tricks.

Provided you hold enough high honors to establish a side suit, count its value as you would were it trumps. Value the hand below at spades.

The probable value of the hand is 17 points, or 8 1/2 playing tricks. Value the next hand at no-trumps.

The total probable trick value of the above hand is 12 points, or 6 tricks. No method of valuation is quite so simple.

Deduct a point for unprotection, as follows: A alone, 2 points; K alone 1 point. Either the J-X or Q-X should be accorded no value.

AURORA, March 18.—Clubs of women who were delightedly entertained by Mrs. Chester Gilbreath and Mrs. Frank McAllister at the home of William Able in Canby Wednesday afternoon, showed great interest in the description by Mrs. Lyle McCroskey of Portland, of her impressions of the Huntington Memorial museum at San Marino, Los Angeles where only 400 a day can be admitted and only by passes. Mrs. McCroskey had secured reprints of the collection of 18th century artists, including a copy of the original "Blue Boy" by Gainsborough. The most valuable picture in the world costing about one and a half million dollars. A collection of etchings and water colors from a Portland artist were also exhibited.

Other guest speakers were Mrs. E. L. Pope of Park Place and Mrs. Roscoe Carroll of Portland. Foreign Trade by Mrs. Walter Grim and a poem "Smiles" by
