of the hands took a purse containing about $8. The men then drove away.
Kubin and Schlag were the men who carried the guns, and the car, driven by Brundridge, belonged to Kubin. All three confessed. Stopping en route to burn the purse, the men said they drove to Portland and next day returned to Oregon City where they abandoned the car because it broke down. They came back to Salem by train.
Quarred on Star Exchange Holdup
Involved in the investigation of the trio's activities was the recent holdup of Abram Volchok at the Star Exchange here. Volchok told the two officers that Schlag and Kubin had been in his store several times and that he suspected them of stealing two revolvers. He was able yesterday to identify the two men as having been in his store but not as the suspicious characters who "visited the place look at revolvers."
Both Kubin and Schlag had revolvers when arrested but they denied that they had stolen the guns.
Admissions were gained from the three men that they recently were caught stealing gasoline in West Salem. They also admitted having stolen gas from several cars in Salem to use in their own machine.

per contacts. In these contacts the teacher's personality plays a large part. With this idea of the development of the individual in the "child center" schools are being evolved, said Dean Sheldon. This type of school switches the interest from the mechanical side of education to the human element.
Dean Sheldon's address proved both highly instructive and brilliantly witty to the delight of the 95 teachers present. Additional ones to appear on the program were Miss Mary Eyre, president of the Teachers association, who acted as toastmistress; Miss Gretchen Kraemer, Miss Bernice Ekens, R. W. Thompson, Miss Ann Boentje and Supt. Hug.

Japanese Shock Troops Sent to Oppose Chinese

HARBIN, Manchuria, March 24 (Thursday) — (AP) — The entire strength of Gen. Jiro Tamom's Japanese shock troops soon will be hurled against the insurgent Chinese forces of Gen. Ting Chay in an effort to clear the rich basin of the lower Sungari valley of elements menacing the new Manchurian regime in Kirin Province.
Despite recent peace overtures by the Chao, he has failed to come to Harbin to surrender formally and has continued hostile operations against the Japanese. Hence the Japanese command decided today to eradicate his army, which has concentrated in the district of Pishanet, Fangcheng and Sashan.

STUDENTS TO VIEW COAL STRIKE AREA

they "would be lucky if they stayed out of jail." Joseph Lawson, Kentucky miner, accused mine operators of starving miners to death and killing their children.
PINEVILLE, Ky., Mar. 23 — (AP) — A warning that no communitistic activities and no incitement to violence will be tolerated during the visit of students to the southeastern Kentucky coal fields was issued by city and county officials here today.
The visiting students will be "accorded the freedom of the county," Walter B. Smith, county attorney, said today, "but the moment they identify themselves with the 'Red' movement, they will be filed with other exhibits we have in jail here. We will not tolerate any communitistic activities in Bell county."

RESIDENCE CHANGE REPORTS FAVORED

n. s. f. check ordinance passed recently, the city attorney collection on such checks passed in Salem by residents of other sections of the county could be handled in accord with the ordinance. In such instances, the city recorder may issue warrant for arrest, and deliver it to any constable in the county.
The amendment to the federal bankruptcy law before congress was reported upon to some extent by Otto Paulus, local attorney. The "teeth" of the amendment provides that accounts contracted for family necessities cannot be liquidated through the bankruptcy act, and that credit members need will eliminate to large extent abuse of the law.

FIRE DESTROYS TWO BUILDINGS

Breyman, White Structures Total Loss by Blaze in Early Morning

able to hold the flames within the former structure. Lines of hose on each of the three stories of the Hamilton building were used to fight back the flames which threatened to lick into the latter structure and consume it.
W. H. Dancy, chairman of the fire department, committee of the council who assisted Fire Chief Hutton in directing the fighting, said early this morning that Mr. Boise would immediately rebuild both structures. The walls are thought to be in good shape and little injured by the fire although the interior of both the Breyman and White buildings is practically all demolished.
Mr. Director said at 2:30 a. m. that he would be back in business at North Commercial and State streets as soon as the building which houses his store can be reconstructed.
The fire proved a stubborn one. Fighters were still at work at 2:45 a. m. as occasional blazes sprang up in various sections of the two buildings.
Advances from insurance companies holding policies on the buildings are expected in Salem today to start settlement of the claims.
The fire this morning was the most disastrous downtown blaze in many years in Salem. It far exceeded in total loss and business affected, the fire which destroyed the Derby building on State and Front streets and the stock of the Archer Implement company housed therein. The loss will be less than that of the Larmer Warehouse company fire which like the Derby building fire occurred in the winter of 1930.
The cause of the fire was uncertain early this morning although it was probably caused by some defect in the heating system in the basement of the MacMarr store. A wood-fired heating system was used.
Stores on North Commercial street whose stocks were totally destroyed by the fire are:
MacMarr's grocery, 174 North Commercial street.
Byrne's drug store, 184 North Commercial street.
Director's department store, 166 North Commercial street.
Business and professional offices upstairs in the Breyman and White buildings whose equipment and goods were virtually all consumed by the flames are:
Clayton M. Inman, lawyer.
Walter McLaren, real estate.
Ernest E. Tripp, real estate.
William A. Persey, insurance agent.
Herbert P. Grant, real estate.
P. J. Rennings, commercial artist.
Salem Engraving company.
Rubeen P. Boles, insurance and loans.
Alice M. Bancroft, neurologist.
Cham Lam Chinese Medicine company P. Boles, principal owner of the Breyman and White building declared early this morning that the buildings were 90 per cent covered by insurance. How well the stocks and equipment of the businesses were covered was not ascertainable this morning although it is thought most of the firms were covered by adequate insurance. Mr. Inman said his valuable law library estimated at $10,000 and records, were only partially insured.
The Breyman building was constructed 25 years ago in 1907 while the White building was constructed in the '80's. In that day it was one of the largest structures in the city. For many years it was known as the White Corner, a term being used by the store housed there. Operators of stores there included the Meyer interests, Stockton and Solof's. Simon Director has had his department store in the corner location since 1924.
Rain Beats Down But Hoses Fight
A driving March rain beat down on the city throughout the period of the fire and undoubtedly helped to check the spread of the flames to other structures. So biting was the rain and so strong was the wind that the flames were kept low and the blaze did not reflect that the sky as large a fire usually does. As a consequence comparatively few citizens

HIBBARD IS NAMED UPON GAME BOARD

bard was appointed from the state at large.
Dr. L. E. Hibbard, who was selected Wednesday for a place on the state game commission, was born on the Hibbard farm ten miles east of Salem. His father was a pioneer of 1847 and the Hibbard farm was the first in the Willamette valley to be named in a federal patent according to Judge L. H. McMahon who knew Dr. Hibbard here years ago.
Dr. Hibbard attended Willamette university for several years. In 1866-'67 he worked in logging camps at Clatskanie and in the fall of the latter year began the study of dentistry in Portland. He had a successful practice there until 1897 when lung trouble caused him to move to Burns, where he has since resided.
W. E. Finley, the naturalist, has declared that Dr. Hibbard is by all odds the most competent man in Oregon for the position, as he has given more time than any other to personal study of fish and game problems, and of the habits of game and fish in all sections of the state.

LOWERING LICENSE MEETS OPPOSITION

Grant Phegley, Multnomah county commissioner, has written James E. Smith of the Marion county court, that it may be all right to lower the motor vehicle license fees and add another cent to the gasoline tax but it should be figured out on a basis that would increase road revenue rather than reduce it.
J. H. Wellington, county judge of Columbia county, is opposed to any reduction in the motor vehicle license fees.
"Such a reduction would result in putting more old wrecks on the already overcrowded highways and would serve no good purpose," he wrote.
Smith is a member of Governor Meier's committee appointed to study the proposal to reduce the motor vehicle fees and increase the gasoline tax.

LOAD LIMITS UPON ROADS ARE LIFTED

Load limits established by the state highway department recently on several stretches of road in eastern Oregon, have been lifted, H. R. Baldock, state highway engineer, announced Tuesday. The new order applies to the Sherman Junction-Bend section of The Dalles-California highway and the Sherman highway.
The 10,000 pound load restrictions still remain in effect on The Dalles-California highway from the Columbia river to the Sherman Junction, on the Old Oregon Trail between Pendleton and Kamela and on the Ochoco highway between Mitchell and the John Day highway.
The department announced all load limits are off on the John Day highway permitting a direct free route for heavy loads to and from Idaho. Baldock announced that all highways recently closed by floods and slides were open with the exception of a short stretch in Black canyon on the Willamette valley highway.
