Elks Club Will Sponsor Dance

A second large dance of Friday night will be that which is being sponsored for the Elks club members, their families and friends, at the temple. The club orchestra augmented by a few additional pieces will play for dancing. The temple will be open for inspection for those who have not been through it.

The affair promises some surprises as it is in the nature of an-April Fool party.

in charge of the plans are A. A. Gueffroy, Percy Blundell, Van Weider, Luke Shields, Jack Johnston, James Clark, William G. Stacy, Jr., and Willard Marshall.

How Many Tricks Can B Win at Diamonds?

The opening lead was Z's A of Like many another hand where contracting has been pushed to the limit, the declarer has to proceed with great caution; the play is full of traps for nearly every variation from the one outlined here of B's actual procedure. To enable him to gain club entry to his own hand later on, A's J was ducked under Z's Ace. Rather than open up one of the other suits for B, Z led a second club, which B won with his 10.

It appeared more simple to establish dummy's spades than to further play, and A-B scored their try establishing hearts; accordingly doubled contract of a small slam.

B led his lone spade, and won the Copyright, 1931, King Features, Inc.

trick with a finesse of A's Q. A. spade was returned and

When there are outstanding against you five trumps, there are 68 in 100 chances that the five will be divided 3-2 between opponents, and B proceeded to utilize those probabilities. He led his J of diamonds, and was allowed to win the trick. He led his lowest diamond and won the trick with A's 10. Dummy's lowest spade was led, and trumped by the de-clarer, dropping Z's King. This meant that dummy's A-9 of spades could pick up the missing J, wherever it lay. Dummy also contained two good clubs and two good diamends. All the declarer had to do was to make certain that Z did

At the end of the seventh trick, of which the declaring side had lost only one, B held five untouched hearts, and a lone club. Looking at all four hands it is easy to see that it would have been per-fectly safe had B led a club, but he was not certain that Z held another card of that suit. It was possible that originally he held four hearts; if he had false-carded by playing his K of spades when he also held the missing J, Z would trump a club lead.

Golf Club to Resume Activities

Women of Salem Golf club will take their bow to spring Friday at the Salem Golf club with nine holes golf before luncheon and at noon a no-host luncheon will be served in the clubhouse, according to Mrs. H. K. Sockwell, pres-

At the luncheon hour team captains and members of the club will discuss together plans for the spring activities of the women's organization.

Neighbors of Woodcraft and Woodmen of the World joined in an Easter social Friday night after their respective sessions of lodge, in commemoration of the birthday of Helen Southwick, it being her 84th birthday. She is one of the charter members of Woodcraft and worked very diligently in getting the order started, which today consists of 600 circles in the western states.

An interesting program was arranged by the Past Guardian Neighbors club consisting of two poems dedicated to Mrs. Southwick composed and given by Addie M. Curtis; a poem in response by Helen Southwick; two solos by elma Teeson accompanied by Fern Dake; a poem by Miss Ray; one act play by the Woodmen and quartet numbers of Woodman quartet. The program was concluded with an Easter supper in the banquet room of the lodge. Lura Wood was present and was presented a Woodcraft pin by Silver Bell circle in appreciation for her work as district organizer.

Miss June Hastings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Westly Hastings of 434 South 16th street, Salem, married Lawrence A. Barry of Fortland, at a pretty Easter wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Barry will make their home in Portland.
