

Willamette Baseball Squad Will Start Practice Today

FIRST GAME IS 2 WEEKS AWAY

"Frisco" Edwards in Charge Of Squad for Present; Outlook is Fair

With the first game only two weeks distant, Coach "Spec" Keene called his baseball candidates together for a meeting Friday afternoon at which time the men were signed up and practices outlined.

Leo "Frisco" Edwards, veteran catcher-manager of the Salem Senators and also coach of the American Legion Junior team, will conduct the practices at present while Coach Keene is working in Springfield.

The first session will be held this afternoon at 2:30 and next week practice will be held each day after 3 o'clock. About 25 will probably turn out for practice Monday.

The first game will be a week from next Friday at Corvallis against Oregon State college. Last year, Willamette took one of a three game series from the "Sooner" team. The "Sooner" team has taken over varsity baseball there this year.

Battery Men Are Already in Shape

The battery men have been warming up gradually for the past couple of weeks and most of the other men have been getting their arms and hands toughened in for the season.

Friday Andy Peterson opened up and smoked over a few fast ones just to see how his arm would react to hard throwing. Other members of the pitching crew are George Erickson from Clatskanie and Russel Doehner from Commerce high, Portland.

The position of catcher is open this season and there will be one of the largest groups of men who stop trying for the post in several seasons.

Bob Houck, who has been an understudy of both Ed Cardinal and Don Messenger, played some good ball last summer and may be able to qualify for the position.

McCaughy of Dallas is a good looking mask wearer and has been holding Peterson's offerings in the early warms.

Gus Lorenz of Kent, Wash., is another catcher and Sherwood of Portland is still another. Eggleston of Stayton caught for that town's Cascade league entry last season and Commons of Clatskanie is another catcher. Should all of these men fail, Coach Keene could shift Gribble from third base to guard the home platter, a job which Gribble has handled before. However it is doubtful if this will be necessary for some of the men reported are good players.

Gribble and Gibson are veteran infielders.

Two infield positions will be open, probably first and second base unless further shifting of players is done. Gribble covered third base in a highly successful manner last year and Lawrence "Hoot" Gibson is a veteran ball player at Willamette who is going out for shortstop unless placed elsewhere.

Some excellent infielders are reported to be on hand to fill the vacancies and a number of speedy outfielders are on hand to give Gus Moore, Walt Erickson and Charley Gill a run for their money at fly chasing.

Last year when Peterson was not on the mound he was invariably in one of the fields, chasing flies with the best fielders in the conference and leading the whole field of hitters. His assistance there will probably be used again this season.

Much time will be devoted to hitting in early practice in an effort to build a heavy hitting club such as the one last year. Last year's team was the heaviest hitting club Willamette has ever had and some of the best hitters are back. If the new men are able to pound the apple in good style, a strong scoring combination will probably result. Coach Keene and Frisco Edwards can teach the men to hit if anyone can in the opinion of Salem's baseball sages.

Round Robin is First Event of Volley Tourney

First rounds of the Y. M. C. A. northwest volleyball tournament, class A, which will be held here on April 16, will consist of a round robin, the local committee has decided. In the round robin, each team will play one game with the others. This round will be played in the Willamette university gymnasium.

For the semi-finals, which will be played at night in the Y. gym, the four highest of the six teams entered will be selected.

Leon Clark of Tacoma, considered best volleyball referee in the northwest, and O. P. West of Salem will be the officials. Both men are trained for the work.

Kid Berg Holds Sam Fuller to 10 Round Draw

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, April 1—(AP)—Jackie (Kid) Berg, British lightweight, held young Sammy Fuller of Boston, to a ten round draw tonight in a duel of lightweights before a crowd of 12,000.

Berg was floored twice, once by a low right in the fifth for a count of five, and again in the eighth for a one count by a left hook to the body. Berg weighed 125½ pounds, Fuller 126½.

Leslie Diamond Squad to Be Green But Promise is Shown by Some of Youths

After three days of baseball practice at Leslie junior high, Coach Gurnee Fleisher was not overly excited about his season's prospects, but neither was he gloomy, and indicated that his team this year will be about as strong as last season's and possibly stronger if the new men develop rapidly.

All of his men are totally green at the game of baseball as far as having competed with any organized team, but a number show that they have done some informal playing before.

A number of his men are small, but that is not such a handicap in baseball as in other sports. Ike Burns looks like he will develop into a good catcher as he handles the ball naturally and has a strong arm. Cafferty is another catcher who shows promise.

Art Staples is a husky lad who is being tried on the mound and who has shown plenty of steam. He is still inexperienced at pitching to batters, but will soon get used to that, in the opinion of his coach. Sherrill is another moundman and may possibly be used at other positions part of the time.

The remainder of the squad is pretty much up in the air with Gurnee still unable to judge how the other men will go. Some of the infielders who have been showing up well are Hauser, Cave, Anderson, Alport, Comstock and Grabenhorst. Niles is the only experienced outfielder but some of the others may develop or some of the infielders be shifted to the stick.

Friday afternoon Gurnee and his assistant Lloyd Girod picked two teams and a game was played, giving the players hitting practice in that manner so they would not get the habit of "hitting" at bad balls.

The boys are all working hard and are enthusiastic over their job, though they will doubtless be playing out of their class most of the season as practically all of the junior high schools except Fairview are refusing to play.

The diamond this year is in far better condition than it was last spring when it was allowed to dry hard before any work was done on it.

SALEM NET SQUAD MEETS SILVERTON

Salem and Silverton high schools will compete today in tennis, beginning at 10 o'clock this morning on the Willamette university courts where seven matches will be played.

Five singles and two doubles matches is the big assignment for the first meet of the season.

The ranking for this match of the Salem high singles players, Jim Beal, Harold Beal and Parker Gleason or Ben Thomas.

Emory Hobson and George Corey will be one of the doubles teams to play and the two Beal brothers will be the other team. Little known of the strength of the Silverton crew.

Coach Wesley Roeder states that the ranking for today is by no means final and that a ladder system will be employed by which the improving players can replace those who hit slumps or do not do so well in the future.

The Salem high tennis tournament is still in progress, but is getting over in the bracket to the place that only the better players are still in the running.

Leonard Spence Breaks Record Set by Himself

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 1—(AP)—Breaking the world's record for the second time today, the New York athletic club tonight retained its national senior A. U. championship in the 400 yard swimming relay in a brilliant performance that brought the mark down to 3 minutes 31.4 seconds.

Leonard Spence of the New York A. C. defending his national senior A. U. 220-yard breast stroke title, swam to a new world's record. His time was 2 minutes 44 seconds, three fifths of a second better than the old mark.

Jefferson Boys And Girls Win Diamond Games

LADDER EVENT OPENS SUNDAY

Salem Golf Club Members To Qualify for Places To Start Tourney

Qualifying play to establish a rating for the ladder tournament which will be engaged in by members of the Salem Golf club this season, is scheduled for Sunday, according to plans announced by Gay V. Smith, tournament committee chairman.

Weather conditions prevented the holding of this "scratch" qualifying round last Sunday. All members are being urged to turn in their scores tomorrow in order that the ladder tournament list will be complete.

After being rated according to these scores, any member will have an opportunity to improve his rating by challenging the man directly above him on the list, and will move up if he wins.

The ratings in the ladder tournament will be the basis for ranking players on the club's team for inter-club matches.

The Salem course is in first class condition, having dried out rapidly following the recent rains and the high water which for a time covered several of the greens. Warm weather started the grass growing rapidly and mowing has been under way this week.

Kitten Ball Contests Will Open Monday

First of the new "kitten-ball" games will be played on Sweetland field Monday evening between the Wranglers and the Salem Linn mills, it was decided at a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. last night. "Kitten-ball" or playground ball is being adopted in place of regulation baseball for the twilight league play this spring.

Six teams have signed up for league membership. With their managers, they are: State printers, Ed Heenan; Wranglers, J. Herberger; Linn mills, John Schaeffer; Kay Woolen mills; postoffice, Pay Collins, and Western Paper Converting company, Bob Kitchen. Several other teams have shown interest in the league but so far have not taken the effort to sign up.

Next week's games will be for practice only. Wednesday the Kay Woolen mills will face the postoffice men and Friday the paper converters will play the state printers.

A schedule for the league games will be drawn up at a meeting at the Y next Friday and will begin the following Monday. Bill Ross, Willamette football player, is in charge of the league. Squads will be limited to 15 and teams consist of 10 men.

Swimming Team Is Angling For Tacoma Contest

Salem high school's swimming team is negotiating with Tacoma, Wash., for a meet next Friday or Saturday as a training event for the northwest meet which will be held at Tacoma on April 23. The practice meet would be held at Vancouver, Wash., midway point between Salem and Tacoma.

Now that the northwest high school meet has been definitely arranged, the local natators are anxious to keep themselves in good condition. They have a good chance to take honors.

Brooks Tossers Continue to Win

The Brooks grade school baseball team won its third straight victory of the season Friday, defeating North Howell 15 to 4 on the Brooks diamond. Previously Liberty had been defeated 6 to 5 and Mill City 11 to 4.

CURT COMMENTS

Speaking of new model automobiles—don't interrupt and point out that we weren't—were some of the new model golf clubs the other day. Somebody had just sold us a set of 1931 style matched tools a few days before so we were not in the market. But despite our wisecracks of golf clubs for the same reasons that our models are changed each year, we admired the balance and feel of these 1932 skinnys sticks.

And while on the subject of golf, it behooves us to mention our old friend Bill Busick again. Last summer his drives were mostly traveling 300 yards—100 up 100 down and 100 to one side. But he has played golf about six days a week, rain or shine, all year. And what does he do the other day but go around the second nine at the Salem course in 27. He'd have tied Old Man Par except that one of his shots roosted behind a tree.

What do you think of the ideas brought forth at Chicago for rejuvenating basketball? Our guess is that they'll do something about stalling. One or two of the suggestions sound pretty fair. Just simply call the ball dead if the team isn't trying to score, and leave that question up to the referee—that's our solution. Limiting the time a player may hold it won't help much, because the boys playing "keep away" in the back court can pass the ball every few seconds and still be stalling.

But this idea of shooting all the free throws at the end of the half doesn't appeal. It would put too much pressure on the free throw tosser at the end of a close game. Free throws should be made under whatever pressure prevails when the foul is committed.

Bill Reinhardt has crossed us up by announcing he isn't a candidate for the football coaching job at Oregon. At that, Bill may be smart. The alumni and pseudo-alumni don't get all riled if the varsity loses a basketball or baseball game once in a while, but a football coach is always on the spot.

GRID SCHEDULE IS ATTRACTIVE

Salem High to Play six of Games at Home, Three Possibly at Night

Salem high school, which has had some difficulty in lining up a suitable football schedule in past seasons, due partly to the disinclination of many schools to oppose Salem's usually strong teams, is taking a tip from the "early bird" and already has ten games lined up for next fall, though one or two are tentative.

Though ten games are listed, one will be with the alumni, and this contest though hard fought is really a practice affair so the schedule is not overly heavy.

There is also a possibility that of the six home games, at least three may be played at night, giving local fans who work every day and have had no opportunity in the past to see the high school boys perform, may patronize them this year.

The schedule as so far prepared and announced last night by Fletcher Johnson, student athletic manager, is as follows, with the Oregon City and Astoria dates not yet certain:

Sept. 25, Alumni here.
Sept. 30, Silverton there.
Oct. 7, Albany there.
Oct. 14, Oregon City there.
Oct. 21, Astoria here.
Nov. 4, Medford here.
Nov. 11, Eugene here.
Nov. 18, Tillamook there.
Nov. 24, Chemawa here.

Salem Y. M. C. A. will enter a team of eight men in the Pacific northwest amateur wrestling tournament to be held at the Portland Multnomah club on April 27, E. R. Boardman, physical director, announced yesterday. This tournament will be the preliminary to tryouts for the Olympic games.

In the northwest matches last year, Salem won two of the eight matches, while Portland Y won but one.
