SPECIAL ELECTION SLATED FOR DALLAS

DALLAS, April 6 — Members of the city council voted to hold a special election on June 6 to decide whether or not Dallas would build a new city hall at this time. The ordinance for the special election, authorizing a $25,000 bond issue to finance the building of the new city hall passed its second reading at the regular meeting of the council Monday night by a six to three vote. It was stated at this meeting that the election boards had volunteered to serve free of charge for the special election.
The ordinance making the office of police judge and auditor an appointive one instead of elective also passed its second reading. A new street lighting contract
