he was to become a stockholder by taking one share and that this would be paid for by the commission he and his assistant were to receive for stock sold from his office. The assistant also took out one share and this was to be paid for in the same manner.

Ernest L. Scott, associate of H. G. Moore in selling stock in Medford, testified in regard to his connection with the corporation and statements made to him by Frank Keller relative to the officers and the manner of selling the stock. He testified that the partnership of Scott and Moore earned about $4000 in commissions from the Empire corporation but only about half of this was paid. His statements stood up under the cross-examination by Longman and strengthened those of the other salesmen and former officers who have testified in regard to the representation made to customers.

The last witness for the day was M. D. Jarman, a druggist at Medford, who testified that he had purchased 10 shares of the Empire stock. Later he bought two shares more and paid for these in full with $200 cash.

Memories of days spent at the Occident camp were vividly recalled by moving pictures taken and projected by Dr. David Bennett Hill, which the boys viewed with applause. They also acclaimed J. Burton Gray, who as camp chef has been known as "Pop," and gave two remarks.

As a committee to organize hikes and other outdoor activities for the boys before summer camp period, Charles Perry and Charles Wipser were named.

The Y camp for older boys this year will run from July 19 to 26, and for younger boys, July 26 to August 3.

FINANCIAL OUTLOOK IS MUCH IMPROVED

Gains Modest but Confident Undertone is Observed On Stock Market

NEW YORK, April 15—(AP)—Securities profited considerably today from the better feeling that pervaded financial channels.

Stocks closed higher, making modest gains on the whole, but displaying an undertone of confidence that had been entirely lacking early in the week. Bonds had one of their strongest sessions this year.

Incidental to the advance in shares for two successive days was something that had not been accomplished since early last month.

The turnover was moderate, amounting to 1,539,994 shares. Extreme gains in many pivotal issues were cut to fractions by late profit-taking. Thus U. S. Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse, Du Pont, General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Santa Fe, Consolidated Gas and some others closed fractionally up whereas maximum advances had ranged in general from 1 to 3 points.

Peoples Gas, however, maintained its buoyancy. Electric Power & Light, Public Service of New Jersey, Union Pacific, American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, Hershey, Ingersoll Rand, Allied Chemical and Brooklyn Union Gas also finished strongly.

SCOUT TROOP HAS INTERESTING TRIP

Boy Scouts of troop No. 12, sponsored by the Jason Lee church, took two interesting trips recently. Last Saturday night Don Douris, scoutmaster, took 43 boys to Portland to see the annual scout camp. The local boys took part in the opening parade, making a good showing for Salem, and greatly enjoyed the exhibition.

Thursday night Scoutmaster Douris took nine scouts in uniform to Liberty where a troop is being organized. This delegation gave a demonstration of scout games and yells. About 40 boys were present.

Troop No. 12 has just re-registered for the coming year. The roster includes 43 names in addition to the scoutmaster and troop committee, of which Gordon Black is chairman.

The troop is now working hard for the coming scout field rally to be held on Sweetland field May 27. It has won the cup for two years and a victory this year would entitle the troop to permanent possession.

Under the Dome...

THE other day Hal M. Hoss deviated from the usual custom of things relative to the care of the capitol grounds, of which he has custody, by announcing a would place "Walk on the grass" signs instead of the warning to keep off. The announcement directed attention to some of the signs in Willson park, adjoining the capitol, which likewise are unusual, but in a different way.

One who walks through the park is confronted with suggestions to "Be Humane" and "Don't Vandalize". The first one we ports understood all right but the second, an accommodating gardener informed, meant "Don't vandalize." What a variety!

The recent order of the board of control calling for bids on a state-owned power plant for 13 state institutions has created much interest and discussion. The plant, according to the legislative act would have to be constructed out of savings effected as a result, which figures reveal will be some task in itself.

For instance, the most economic figure advanced for the construction of such a plant was $150,000, which does not include annual operation and provision for stand-by service. The annual cost of the present power service is less than $30,000. So there would have to be a large cut under that to make such a plan pay.

The new chairman of the state highway commission is spending lots of time out inspecting the roads, the state highway department stated. Leslie Scott, in company with State Highway Engineer R. H. Baldock has been over most roads in the northwest part of the state the past three days studying conditions.

This item was almost forgotten, but before it is too late we wish to announce that congratulations or condolences are not needed from McNeill Island penitentiary and late tonight was still at large while a fully armed force of guards scoured the island and patrolled the surrounding waters.

Recalling the daring escape some years ago of Roy Gardner, notorious bandit, who swam more than a mile through the cold waters of Puget Sound to the mainland and temporary freedom, Warden Finch Archer ordered a special boat patrol to duty.

Sargeant made his escape from a labor crew in which he was working some distance from the penitentiary buildings. The bandit apparently slipped into some brush without a guard seeing him, penitentiary officials said, his absence being noted when the convicts were checked on a short time later to return to their cells.

Well, the baseball tickets have arrived and the press gang is all set to enjoy the opening baseball game in Portland next Tuesday with Governor Meier.

The governor secured choice seats for the neighborhood who, it is hoped by them, will be accompanied to the event by the executive's secretary. How about it, Mrs. Sackett?

Those two inmates of the criminal insane ward at the state hospital apparently were not so insane. They escaped last Sunday and to date have not been apprehended. But if Doc Steiner and the governor can get a bill through the legislature, that sort of thing hereafter occupy wards behind penitentiary walls.

The state school for the blind came in for a fine compliment the other day from the governor.

Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

Walter C. Dry, superintendent of the school, was told by Meier that he kept the institution very clean and neat. The governor recently visited the school and liked its operation. Nice work, Mr. Dry.

Sometimes long and faithful service is recognized and gets its reward in some manner. This is true at least in the case of Al Nye, capitol mail carrier, who has been a faithful and hard working employee of the state for 30 years or more.

For 25 years Nye was on the job from 5 to 10 in the morning and from 12 to 3:30 in the afternoon, without missing days, and without regard to holidays, delivering and caring for mail of the different state departments. His record came to the attention of the state secretary, who immediately cut two hours off this schedule. A small reward, but the record is a fine compliment.

Speaking of laws and state grounds, Dr. Steiner at the state hospital announced he would forbid children playing on the beautiful hospital grounds, unless accompanied by adults. Steiner says this order would be put into effect, not to deprive children of playing there, but to protect them from some inmate who might go berserk.

SARGEANT ESCAPES FROM U. S. PRISON

TACOMA, Wash., April 15—(AP)—Two months after he had started serving a 25-year sentence, James Sargeant, 25, desperate man, robber and accused killer, Thursday made a dash for freedom from McNeill Island penitentiary and late tonight was still at large while a fully armed force of guards scoured the island and patrolled the surrounding waters.

Recalling the daring escape some years ago of Roy Gardner, notorious bandit, who swam more than a mile through the cold waters of Puget Sound to the mainland and temporary freedom, Warden Finch Archer ordered a special boat patrol to duty.

Leave the Wallace road a short distance south of tulip farms, taking Glen creek road and follow the signs through the hills and Kingwood Heights, dipping back on the Dallas-Salem road and back over the bridge, down Center street in Salem to Commercial and then straight south out through the Liberty district.

On the loop from Rosedale to the Pacific highway the finest view of prune blossoms in all the panorama that will be viewed Sunday will be gained at the crest of the hill, which is about three-fourths of the way on the road.

Carney Will Be Next Foe Of Finnegan

Bud Carney, who wrestled a draw recently in Portland with Wildcat McCann, will be the opponent for "Duke of Barrington" Pat Finnegan Tuesday night at the armory on Mitchellmaker Harry Plant's wrestling card.

Finnegan proved his worth and gained popularity at the last match, putting a lot of color and an entirely new style of wrestling before the Salem fans. Matchmaker Plant states that the crowd was so well pleased with Finnegan that he is certain that almost every one who saw him go against Jones will be back to see more. This will be ladies' night and all ladies will be admitted free if accompanied by escorts.

Finnegan is part owner and a teacher in a school of physical culture back in Springfield, Ohio, and is not only a teacher, but also a student of physical culture. He has the most perfect balance of any wrestler here this year and is in as good condition as any who have been here.

Carney was not wrestling out of his class nor over his head when he held Wildcat McCann to a draw in Portland, for he also has wrestled a draw with Bond and won from King, Ernie Arthur and George Barrackman.

HUBBARD DEFEATS PARRISH TOSSERS

The Parrish junior high baseball team held Hubbard to a 3 to 1 score at Hubbard Friday, losing out by making six errors to only two on the part of the Hubbard men.

Coach Harold Hawk reports that there were no earned runs. Leonard Faust pitched for Parrish five innings and allowed only two hits during that time. He then traded places with Weese in right field and Weese allowed only two additional hits during the remainder of the game. Parrish also got four hits.

Elvis hit twice for Hubbard and Jack and Carl each gained safe singles.

Faist was the hitting star of the game with safe clouts out of four trips at bat. Miller got the other hit for Parrish. The slow curve thrown by Hersey kept the Parrish men guessing.
