FRED BYNON WEDS MISS OLIVE DOAK

Society Editor "Scoops" Her own Newspaper on Important Event

Miss Olive M. Doak, society editor of The Statesman, "scooped" her own newspaper when she was married to Frederick S. Bynon, Jr., late Thursday and managed to keep her "news hound" associates from knowing about it until the following day—although some of them "had their suspicions."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doak of McMinnville and the bridegroom a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Bynon, Sr., of Salem.

The wedding was a quiet event solemnized Thursday evening at 5 o'clock at the Dallas Presbyterian church, with Rev. J. A. Smith reading the single ring service in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Low, of Salem, sister and brother-in-law of the groom, and Mrs. J. A. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Bynon will return from a brief honeymoon trip today.

Mrs. Bynon is well known in Salem where she has made her home for the past few years. She was a student at Oregon State college, Reed college and later completed her college course at Willamette university, where she has since taken additional work in law. She then entered the newspaper world and became editor of Western Education. For the past three years she has been a member of the staff of The Oregon Statesman, serving in the capacity of society editor. During the World war Mrs. Bynon served as a nurse.

Mr. Bynon has been in Salem a number of years and is present in manager of the State Collection agency, while completing his final term at Willamette university law school. He is a brother of Allan Bynon, state representative of Multnomah county, also well known in Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bynon will be "at home" to their friends at 656 Perry street after May 1.

County G. O. P. Wet Plank Gets More Criticism

Resolutions condemning the action of the Marion county wet plank in their platform, were voted by the Temple Baptist church congregation Thursday night.

The group also went on record as refusing to support any candidate who will approve the wet plank of the platform and who is not uncompromisingly dry.

REVERSAL OF RADIO POLICY HERE ASKED

A petition signed by 285 Salem residents asking chamber of commerce directors to recall a telegram sent December, 1930, to the federal radio commission opposing establishment of a station here, is now pending before the directors.

Proponents of the petition, including Ray Stamba, A. M. Church and Robert Burch, who says he is trying to make arrangements to share KOAC's wavelength, appeared Thursday night before the chamber of commerce directors here.

Burch pointed out that KOAC may be unable to continue its operations on a full budget due to retrenchment desired by the board of higher education. In event the sending time of KOAC was cut down, Burch hopes to establish a station on the same wavelength and using a different time of the day and a different name. He told directors of the chamber he thought such a station installed would cost $20,000.

J. N. Chambers protested for merchants, saying he considered an additional burden would be placed on the stores in the form of extra advertising demands while G. A. Sprague said he felt it was the city's community duty first to support institutions it now possesses rather than to favor unwarranted and damaging competition.

The board of directors is to take a week, it was agreed, to consider the petition for reversal of their stand now on file at Washington.

CARSON DISCUSSES ADVERTISING LAWS

The Oregon code insofar as advertising is concerned, was outlined to Salem Ad club members yesterday noon by Allan G. Carson, local attorney now candidate for district attorney. Carson cited extensively from the code in his talk.

Statutes of the state permit cities to expend by tax levy or from bond resources as much as $5000 a year for advertising purposes, Carson explained. Highway signs placed on road right-of-ways owned by the state are illegal and may be treated as a nuisance and torn down. Signs placed on private property without owner's permission are also illegal. The speaker outlined other provisions of the laws regarding use of advertising material.

A "Prosperity Week" for Salem was proposed by James Carey, manager of Warner Bros. theatres here. Gardner Knapp, Ad club president, will appoint a special committee to consider the proposal which Knapp commented favorably upon at the meeting.

Red Cross Will Give Out Seeds

Two hundred and fifty-seven small cartons each containing a variety of small packets of garden seeds, were received here yesterday by Miss Thora Boesen, secretary of the Red Cross. Miss Boesen announced that she would distribute the seed cartons throughout the county through the different localities on a quota

Two of Bids on Santiam Found To be Too High

Two of the bids on seven contracts for clearing right of way on the North Santiam highway submitted to the federal roads bureau in Portland Thursday, will have to be readvertised, according to James Smith, county commissioner.

The government previously fixed a limit of $2500 on any one bid on any one section. On the sixth section J. D. Casey submitted a bid of $2598 for clearing of eight acres, while W. H. Pickett company bid $3350 on the seventh section for clearing 7.7 acres. Both of these bids exceeded the government limitation.
