JYM JAMBOREE TO BE OFFERED FRIDAY

Girls' Athletic Club Show Takes Form of "Cruise" To Ports of World

Salem high school girls will take the annual Jym Jamboree audience on a round-the-world cruise, visiting and dancing with their "sweethearts in every port" tomorrow night starting at 7:30 o'clock in the high school gymnasium. The program, called "The Cruise of the Good Ship G.L.C.," is sponsored by the Girls' Athletic Club with the cooperation of other girls who have not yet earned sufficient points in athletic activities for membership.

On the gym floor, to be arranged in likeness of a ship's deck, the G. L. C. sailors will start with the "high seas" and in four countries will dance the native steps with their "sweethearts." Music will be provided by the high school band, under direction of E. R. Derry, and by Eva Cochran, Lois Burton, Lucille Mosher and Lois Quetch, pianists. Advertisers for the "cruise" are Vivian C. Bartholomew and Grace S. Wolcott, physical education instructors.

The program will be as follows: Flag salute and sailor's reel by crew; "The March of the Marines," B. H. S. band; tumbling act by crew on high seas; Russian drill, Russian Cossack dance; bar port, Russian port, "Taran-tella," "The Gypsy Festival," overture; band; Holland, Dutch dance; single stick fencing, crew on high seas; rope and climb and stunts, crew; pyramids, crew; finale, Girls' Letter club song by sailors and sweethearts.

DR. POUND SPEAKS ON CHILD WELFARE

Rotarians listened with close attention to one of their own number, Dr. E. F. Pound, who talked at their weekly luncheon yesterday on "Why should every Rotarian be interested in child welfare work." Dr. Pound is one who devotes a great deal of his time to work with children and for the schools. He is chairman of the Marion county committee which is helping to plan the state conference on child health and protection which meets in Salem May 2 and 3.

Dr. Pound emphasized the importance of education for children, and stressed the modern school which adapts the system to the child rather than the child to the system. Health work must be kept up to keep our children well, that they may grow to be strong men and women. He told of the work of health clinics at the state fair in the next 15 or 20 years we would do away with a lot of dental decay through discoveries we appear to be on the eve of completing. Children need wholesome recreation, and there is the problem of the handicapped and delinquent children were additional points the speaker developed.

Referring to the episode in the high school, he urged organization of parents to help the schools. In closing he said: "Teaching of Christ has brought more peace to realize the value of motherhood and childhood than any other influence."

Constant Check On Auto Lights Sought by Pray

Periodic campaigns of enforcing the laws relating to headlights is not desirable, whereas constant checking of motor vehicles headlights should effect correction, Charles Pray, superintendent of state police, declared this week.

"Willful violators invite arrest," he said. "The so-called 'one-eyed' car offers a traffic menace that must be combated."

Pray said he had instructed his commanding officers to halt all cars operating with defective lights. Attention of officers also was called to that provision of the law requiring motor drivers to display the certificate of registration within the driver's compartment of the vehicle.

Soloist Selected—Bob Reed will represent Salem high school as piano soloist in the music tournament to be held at Forest Grove April 29 and 30, as a result of winning the contest last week. Lois Burton won second place. Both are students of Frances Virginia Melton, Willamette university instructor in piano.

The Hamilton Furniture Co. is open evenings during its fire sale.

Fairman Visits Parents—Mr. and Mrs. Wells Tallman the week were visited by their son, Ernest, who is business manager of the U. S. veterans' hospital at Livermore, Calif. He stopped here after visiting the Walla Walla, Wash. hospital where for a number of years he was manager. He accompanied by his wife and son, Robert.

SUING FOR UNUSUAL PRIZE

Hoping that her effort towards raising the census figure will bring its reward, Mrs. Florence Brown, 42, of Toronto, Canada, is shown with some of the twenty-seven children she has borne, fourteen of whom are still living. Under the terms of the will of Charles Vance Miller, a wealthy Toronto man, Mrs. Brown would receive the award of $500,000 bequeathed to the Toronto woman who, 10 years after his death, had given birth to the most children. The Provincial Government, however, is undertaking to annul the strange will and convert the money to the University of Toronto. Mrs. Brown has brought suit to claim the award.

Under the Dome...

KIDNAPING appears to be a popular sport or game or crime, which ever way it may be taken. While the world is still aghast at the perpetration of the Lindbergh kidnaping, high school students try the game, and just last night we heard children at play calling "first kidnap, second kidnap or third kidnap."

Two former highway commissioners appeared in print yesterday. H. B. Van Duser was back at Washington making a plea for the lumber interests, while Charles K. Spaulding was at the capitol explaining how he was wrongly placed on record as favoring the Portland Fourth street project when he vigorously opposed it at commission meetings. So there you are.

MRS. W. H. WOOD CALLED BY DEATH

At her home, 1115 1/2 Jefferson street, Salem, Wednesday morning, April 20, in her 70th year, Mrs. W. H. Wood passed away. July 28, 1861, at Madison, Wis., she was born into the family of L. O. Smith, printer and editor, who long afterwards followed his trade and profession at Pomeroy and Middleport, Ohio. The Smith family came to Oregon City in 1834, and the father and mother died there. Ella B. Wood was married to W. H. Wood Feb. 25, 1894, and some years later they went to their farm near Broadacres, Marion county, where Mr. Wood died a few years ago. Mrs. J. W. Gray, of Goldendale, Wash., a sister, was with Mrs. Wood in her last sickness. Mr. Gray, long a principal in the public schools of Oregon City, is now treasurer of Killekat county, Wash. There survives an adopted daughter, Verna Wood, of Salem. The funeral will be at the home of the deceased, Oregon City, at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, and interment in the family plot there. Mrs. Wood was a lifelong member of the Congregational church, and she will be remembered in the communities where she was a kind neighbor.

Justice Harry Belt, accompanied by Mrs. Belt and their daughter, left this week for Washington, D. C., to attend the annual meeting of the American Law Institute there the first week in May. Last year Justice George Rossmann attended the event. Some of the greatest legal minds in the nation speak at this convention.

It looks like our attendance at the ball game Tuesday was a good influence for Portland. The team won its second straight game yesterday. Readers of our yesterday's column have asked us if we really had the game even if we were at the park. Well, at least Al Lindbeck says he did, and naturally we will support his statement.

Twelve Bid on Hatchery Work

Twelve bids, ranging from $1794 to $2458, for the construction of a cottage at the Roaring river fish hatchery, were opened by the bid purchasing department Wednesday. The bids were referred to the state game commission for recommendation. W. S. McClain of Jefferson submitted the low bid.

COUNTY FINES DUE STATE, IS CLAIMED

Hoss has Report; Amount is Around $6000; Carson Asked for Opinion

Whether Marion county owes the state of Oregon between $5,000 and $6,000 in fees collected for traffic violations is the question that probably will be referred to the courts for a legal decision.

It was said that Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state, had prepared a report showing the exact amount of fees which were said to be due the state from the county. This report has not been made public. John Carson, district attorney, has been asked for an opinion as to whether the money should be paid over by the county.

The fees in controversy were said to have been collected in the justice court here back as far as 1922. None of these fees were collected during the administration of Miller Hayden, present justice of the peace.

The state alleges that fines collected in justice courts for violation of traffic laws when the arrest is made on a state highway by a state traffic officer should go to the state. This contention was said to be supported by the statutes.

In the past however, some of these fines were paid over to the county treasurer instead of to the state treasury. A recent audit of these fines were not turned over to the state by the county.

Marion county officials have taken the position that if the state due the state they should be paid.

Contract Given For County Job Of Rock Hauling

Tweedie and Chase yesterday won a contract for the hauling of 2000 yards of crushed rock for the Marion county court on the Silverton-Silver Creek falls road. They were low in a field of six bidders. The rock is to be hauled from Mire's Pit and the winning bid was 19 cents a yard for the first mile hauled up to 1.05 a yard when hauled for 11 miles. Other bidders and their offer on a one to 11-yard haul were: Alan Bellinger 12c to 11.10; Stewart and Keppinger, 15 cents to $1.10; D. A. King, 15c to $1.00; William Davidson, 15c to $1.12; Roy Dickinson, 13c to $1.42.

SPAULDING DENIES VOTE FOR PROJECT

Senator Charles A. Spaulding denied Wednesday that he had, while a member of the state highway commission recently, signed or had anything to do with drafting the resolution authorizing an agreement between the state highway department, the city of Portland and Multnomah county, involving the so-called Fourth street extension.

Spaulding declared that he opposed such action on the part of the highway commission at a private meeting held in the offices of J. C. Almsworth, in Portland, and subsequently reiterated his stand on the proposed extension project in public addresses. Almsworth was chairman of the state highway commission at the time the alleged meeting was held in his Portland office, Spaulding continued.

Spaulding said the records of the commission would show that he always had been opposed to spending state highway funds for the improvement of roads within incorporated towns and cities.

"I was not opposed to spending state highway funds on the proposed extension outside of the city of Portland," Spaulding said. "Such an expenditure would have been legitimate, and within the scope of the commission's legitimate activities."

Spaulding did not deny that he had signed a number of vouchers having to do with the proposed project.
