SWART BACK HOME

AFTER PASS JAUNT

Hedda Swart, Marion county engineer, was home last night after sight strenuous days spent on a party which viewed the territory to be covered by the North San tiam road between Marion county line at Whitewater creek and tre junction with the South Santiam just west of Hogg pass. "Viewed" was used advisedly by Swart since much of the territory traversed was covered with from two to 12 feet of snow and the trek by the party of six men was made on snowshoes.

Swart said experienced foresters said the snow in the mountains was the heaviest since 1913. Usually by this time of year much of the snow is gone, but this year ground until late in June.

Swart said his party checked up on right-of-way values on private lands through which the North Santiam road will pass. For several miles in the Big Meadows country the road will run through Hill timber owned by the Northern Pacific and Linn county, acting in behalf of Marion county and the forest road authorities, will be required to compensate the railroad for the stumpage cut. Swart said at times his party could not make more than a mile an hour. Heavy snow fell several days and the inclement weather made establishment of camp diffigult. The men came home by way of Seven-Mile mountain on the South Santiam route and it was not until they reached the 19-mile mark above Cascadia that they year, but about 17 per cent were were out of the snow.
