STEIWER CAMPAIGN GETS ENDORSEMENT

Lumbermen, Trainmen Give Approval to Senator Along With Labor

PORTLAND, Ore., April 30.—In addition to the generally encouraging condition of the Steiwer campaign in eastern Oregon, as discovered by George K. Alken on a hasty swing through that section, the leaders of the Steiwer for Senator clubs were elated the past week because of two important endorsements offered by large blocks of Oregon voting power—the lumbermen and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The latter comes in addition to endorsements by the American Federation of Labor and the Portland central labor council.

Mr. Alken publishes a newspaper at Ontario. He drove over here to see how Mrs. Alken was getting along as editor pro tem while her husband was playing politics, and incidentally he stopped at important cities and key towns in Gilliam, Morrow, Wheeler, Grant, Baker, Union, Umatilla and Wasco counties. He finds that the senator is running well among his old friends and neighbors in the counties of the east side. Those people, he says, exhibit a lot of pride in having furnished an able and well-fitted fighting senator for Oregon interests.

"Prospects for good crops are fine," said Mr. Alken. "Reservoirs that have been dry for years are now bank full of water. That makes for a cheerful outlook among the farmers. The latter understand that Senator Steiwer has and is doing everything in his power to help them weather the bad conditions they have had to face, and I predict a sweeping victory for him in the primaries of those counties."

Outlook for Farmer Is Most Encouraging
"Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific system, was at Ontario when I was there. He told me that the outlook for farmers in Utah, Idaho and eastern Oregon was the best and most encouraging in years. With the railroads helping to move and distribute the crops to advantage the farmers over there feel a lot better about the outlook."

The Steiwer endorsement by the lumbermen came from a group of 75 Portlanders who are leaders in that industry and who feel that the senator is a prop on whom they can rely in congress. Steiwer won an endorsement from the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and a recommendation for an endorsement by the national legislative committee of the conductors, engineers and other affiliated rail organizations. First reports that Congressman Butler, Hawley and Martin had received similar treatment were in error. It now develops that Butler has been recommended for endorsement but that action by union officials has not been received. Neutrality is recommended by the legislative committee in the cases of Hawley and Martin.

Hundreds of visitors daily appear at the Veterans Steiwer for Senator club headquarters, a noticeable number of the past week being widows of soldiers who are anxious to do their part in the campaign.

ASTORIA PASTORS SUPPORT HAWLEY

Cordial endorsement of Congressman W. C. Hawley is contained in resolutions adopted by ministers of Astoria, the former home of James W. Mott who is also a candidate for congress. Proclaiming that Hawley stands for "everything we hold dear to the American ideal" the Astoria ministers urge republican voters who favor "upholding the highest traditions of American statesmanship" to vote for W. C. Hawley.

The resolution is as follows: To whom it may concern: We, the undersigned, have no interest in party politics as such, but we do have a vital interest in our country and the well-being of our people, our great state and our nation. We consider that W. C. Hawley stands for everything we hold dear to the American ideal, and also that he is a paramount influence in Congress, one of the people, elected by the people and working for the people, a man of ability, integrity and character.

We therefore urge all republican voters to believe in a great man representing a great state, upholding the highest traditions of American statesmanship, to vote for W. C. Hawley.

JUNIORS TO OFFER EXCEPTIONAL PLAY

The junior class play, "Minich," which will be presented Saturday night, May 7, as the concluding number on the May festivities program of Willamette university, will be well mastered by the players and a smooth performance is assured.

The play is a study of the character of an old man named Minich. This part is taken by Ralph McCullough, who has had experience in numerous other plays given here and who has also been outstanding in oratory and debate.

In fact McCullough has been in so many public appearances that for a while there was talk of excluding him from taking part any giving a chance to others. However, since it is being put on by the junior class and the talent for that particular part was limited, McCullough was permitted to have the lead.

All the lines of the three acts have been mastered and for the remainder of the time all work will be put on expression, action and timing. Professor H. E. Rahe, head of the forensics department of Willamette university, is directing the play. A large number of prospective Willamette university students and alumni members will be here to see the play and a finished performance will be shown.

CARNATION DAY IS PROCLAIMED HERE

Mayor P. M. Gregory has issued a proclamation setting aside May 7 as Carnation Day when the flowers will be sold to aid disabled veterans and their families. The proclamation reads: Where as—The day preceding Mothers Day, has been set aside by the American War Mothers of the United States as "Carnation Day" and

Where as—The proceeds of the sale of the flowers will go to the assistance of "Disabled Soldiers" and their families, I, as Mayor of Salem, do hereby endorse the Carnation Day sale on Saturday, May 7th, 1932.

It is a worthy cause to which we should lend our aid and trust that all citizens will join generously and gratefully in the observance of this "Carnation Day Sale."

Signed P. M. Gregory, Mayor.

Under the Dome...

HERE it is the first of May and so far no flower baskets have come our way—but on the other hand, no old vegetables either, so that's "oil korreet." But the month has other things, which for instance include two holidays for most office employees, and about 31 for those who are not employed.

Election day comes this month, May 20, after which less than one-half of the candidates will remain in the running for the next race, finale in November. The second holiday is Memorial day, May 30. And May in Salem is usually a delightful month, so there should be a bright spot for everyone somewhere.

The lobby in the capitol building is taking on the appearance of a school room, in preparation for the White House conference in the legislative hall next week, not only the conference, but child welfare, child hygiene, kindergarten and other matters of vital interest to the young people in Oregon. The conferences will last all week.

The state highway commission at its next meeting in Portland, May 18, will award contracts for about a million dollars of work. Included in these contracts will be the widening of the Pacific highway north from Salem for a distance of from 9 to 11 miles. Work on this job is expected to be started about June 1.

The chairman of the state highway commission has other work. He is almost forgotten he was president of the Oregon Taxpayers' Equalization and Conservation league. He reports since the organization of the league last July, the tax levy of the state has been reduced more than seven and a quarter million dollars, or decrease of 14.4 per cent.

Scott credits this reduction to the elimination by the tax commission through the efforts of Governor Meier, of the state property tax, and through the work of the league and other
