BOHANNON MADE CLUB PRESIDENT

At the regular and final club meeting of the year at the community hall Friday night, Roy Bohannon was chosen as president of the Salem Heights community club for 1932. The meeting was called to order by President Zinsner who called for the nominating committee's report after the business session. The slate presented by the chairman was as follows: Roy Bohannon, president; Belle Gouhannon, vice president; L. B. Senter, secretary; A. N. Fulkerson, treasurer; C. N. Jones, chairman house committee; Roy Bohannon, chairman educational committee; Jay Morris, chairman civic improvement committee; Alma Bartlett, chairman publicity committee representing Capital Journal and Dr. D. D. Craig representing Statesman. The nominating committee's report was adopted without dissenting vote. F. H. Zinsner who has served faithfully three consecutive years as the club's president called the new president to the chair. Mr. Bohannon gave a brief address stating that as the club's motto is "to advance the club's full cooperation while in the chair and committed himself to a policy of rigid economy and strict business administration and pledging himself to bend every effort toward lifting the large debt the community has."

This statement was loudly applauded as the club is desirous of getting out of debt. Mr. Bohannon has been a resident of the Heights several years and has had many years experience in business administration. His experience in organization is largely being actively engaged in several large fraternal organizations. The program of the evening was one of the best the club has had this year and was attended by a large gathering. The Salem chamber of commerce presented the major part of the entertainment with C. E. Wilson announcing. Tiny MacNamara of Salem gave two humorous musical selections on the piano. Dr. Barrick's male quartette sang several numbers. Oscar Stochamer gave two trombone solos accompanied by MacNamara on the piano. Martha Fluor gave two vocal solos accompanied by Mrs. Darlow Johnson on the piano. Douglas McKay of Salem gave a talk on "Good Roads." In the short time allotted Sheldon Sackett of the Statesman gave a very interesting and constructive talk on "Current Political Events" stressing taxation, prohibition, power issue, and the presidential situation as what is considered the four major issues of the day. The sixth grade pupils of Salem Heights school presented their Indian chorus and music with home made instruments and costume. F. H. Zinsner is in charge of the program for the month. The nominating committee are: Mrs. Fred Burton, chairman; C. W. Sawyer, Myron Van Eaton, Mrs. Stella Caldwell and C. M. Robinson. Before the meeting adjourned a vote of thanks was extended to F. H. Zinsner the retiring president for faithful service.

Four Licenses To Wed Issued Here Saturday

Marriage license business which had been notably slow the past week at the county clerk's office, spurted Saturday as is usual the last day of the week, and four permits to wed were issued by Harlan Judd, deputy county clerk in charge of the marriage license department. Couples securing licenses were: Robert A. Moser, 20, 1535 Oak

Gas Goes Up—Gasoline went up one-half cent to a 16 cents a gallon price Saturday at many service stations here. Doubt was held that the price would remain up because not all dealers advanced their quotations. Some operators declared they would meet all competition.

Vagrancy Charged—State police last night were holding Iver Johnson, transient from Grand Rapids, Mich., on vagrancy charges. They were investigating his activities.

Shop Has Fire—A small fire was discovered on the roof of the Howard Corset shop on North Liberty street yesterday morning. The fire department extinguished it with chemicals.

Under the Dome...

The writer of this column is not immune from robbery. Unidentified persons last night entered our correspondence bureau, ransacked its most secluded corners, and made away with between 20 and 30 quart jars of fruit. What would be more appropriate under existing conditions than an apology from the guilty persons?

Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state, receives a variety of letters. Saturday one arrived at his office from a remote district of the state, in which the writer asked Hoss to advance him a motor vehicle license until some future pay day. "I have a job," the man wrote, "but I can't make the grade unless I have the use of my car." The license fee is $27. Hoss said he had received a number of similar missives during the past few weeks.

Otto Hartwig, who served nine years as president of the Oregon State Federation of Labor, probably is one of the best known labor leaders on the Pacific coast. He spent Saturday in Salem, following his return to Oregon from an eastern trip. Hartwig also has street, laborer, and Pearl Eva Treisch, 18, 1535 Oak street, Salem, housekeeper.

John N. Fisher, legal, Stayton, salesman to Josephine Maundling, legal, Roberts apartments, Salem, stenographer.

John L. Sweeney, 22, 555 North Winter street, surveyor, to Zelma Alice Luthy, 20, 517 South 23rd street, Salem, teacher.

Walter L. Williams, 21, 1807 Broadway, laborer, to Laura B. Fallon, 24, 1807 Broadway, Salem, housekeeper.

DRAWING FOR LOW AUTO PLATES SOON

The annual drawing for low motor vehicle license numbers has been set for Saturday, May 28, according to announcement made Saturday by Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state. All applications which are received by the state last week. New license plates for the ensuing year will be available June 15.

The new plate has cream colored letters on a black background, and carries an embossed border around the edge.

Stayton School Budget Will be Slashed is Plan

STAYTON, May 14 — The Stayton school district budget committee, George Keech, Harry Humphreys and Andrew Fey, met on Wednesday and Friday nights with members of the school board and teachers. As yet things are not completely threshed out. Although it is understood that the committee is endeavoring to make a $3000 cut in the budget. This would necessitate a reduction in teachers' salaries and that of the janitor and bus mechanic. Another meeting is scheduled for Tuesday night, at which time it is hoped all problems will be settled.

PRODUCTS SHOW IS PLANNED FOR FAIR

A "Land Products Show" is announced as one of the features of the Oregon state fair, September 26 to October 1. Details and premium list are contained in the bulletin of the department of agriculture just issued. The east half of the Exhibits building will be devoted to the display of the products entered in this competition. No entry fees are required unless the exhibitors want their products returned.

The plan of the Land Products Show is set forth in the announcement: "We earnestly desire to make the Oregon state fair, more than ever, a farmer's fair and we believe the best way to accomplish that purpose is to induce more farmers to become exhibitors of agricultural products, as well as to come to the fair just to see what the other fellow has to show."

"To that end there will be established at the 1932 state fair a department or division to be known as the land products show. More benefit will come to those who participate in these exhibits, as well as to those who come to view them, even though some of them may seem small or of minor importance, than can ever come from carnival or side-show attractions. With a suitable mental attitude such a classified land products display can be more interesting and entertaining than any carnival."

"Become a part of this great show yourself. The premiums offered are substantial, but even if you do not care to win a premium it is worth something to you to have your products officially compared with those of others. The primary purpose of the land products show is to promote the standardization of Oregon land products, to make them most acceptable to buyers in the markets of the world."

The people of Oregon are too busy trying to earn a living to talk politics, James W. Mott, candidate for representative in congress from the first congressional district, told your correspondent today. Mott said he ought to know as he had recently returned from a campaign trip which took him into the most remote districts of southern Oregon. "Many people don't know who is running for office," Mott declared.

Pupils of more than a half dozen rural schools have visited the statehouse during the past week. In most cases they were accompanied by teachers. One of the favorite pastimes of the pupils is to inspect the executive department.

Coming Events

May 18—Pacific college mixed glee club in concert, 8 p. m., at the South Salem Friends church; no admission charge.

Plan Complete For Dedication Of Rogue Span

Plans were completed Saturday for the dedication of the new Rogue river bridge at Wedderburn, which is scheduled for May 28. Members of the state highway commission and many other state officials will attend the dedication ceremonies.

The bridge was designed by C. B. McCullough, state bridge engineer, and is one of the largest and most attractive spans in the northwest. It is located on the route of the Oregon coast highway.

Lewelling Will Arrive Tuesday

Motion day in department two of circuit court here Tuesday will mark the first formal appearance in the city of Judge L. C. Lewelling who was appointed last week to succeed the late Judge Gale S. Hill. Judge Lewelling, who took the oath of office Friday, will be in the city for a short time Monday conferring with Walter Lamkin, clerk of the circuit court, on certain details of the work which is to come before him.

Name Frank Cox As Delegate to Communist Meet

Frank Cox, Liberty farmer, was unanimously elected a representative of Salem and vicinity at the Communist convention to be held at Chicago May 28 and 29 by a crowd of farmers and laborers who met at Yew Park hall Friday night.

Floyd Ramp, Roseburg farmer, speaking on "The World's Economic Situation," appealed for support of the party, which he declared, is fighting for the working class. Planks in the Communist platform include: Unemployment insurance, recognition of the Soviet union, defense of the Chinese masses and elimination of "imperialist war."

Masonic Dinner At Temple Here Well Attended

Eighty-five Masons and their wives attended a Royal Arch banquet at the Masonic temple Friday for a rally and get-together meeting. The program was in charge of W. A. Mills.

After Phil C. Weeks, excellent high priest, gave the address of welcome, Rev. W. C. Kantner spoke. Alfred Gilie sang a vocal solo, O. W. Emmons told a comic story and numbers were given by the orchestra.

J. O. Russell was general chairman for the meeting, assisted by O. W. Emmons and Glen C. Niles, secretary. In charge of the banquet were Mrs. B. Flack, Mrs. J. O. Russell and J. A. Bernard.
