SEVERAL state officials left here last night for various sections of Oregon, where they will cast their ballots at the primary election. Governor Meier and Rufus C. Holman, state treasurer, will vote in Portland, while Hal E. Ross, secretary of state, will vote in Oregon City. Charles Pray, superintendent of state police, will cast his ballot at Oswego.

Colon Eberhard, LaGrande attorney, spent part of yesterday at the statehouse calling on officials. Eberhard has served several terms in the state senate, and was chairman of a number of important legislative committees. He is a graduate of Willamette university.

Lynn Cronmiller, state forester, has returned from Marshfield, Klamath Falls and Roseburg, where he assisted in the organization of several forest fire fighting units. Fire fighters in the forest this year will receive 25 cents an hour, instead of 35 cents last season. The reduction was ordered in line with an economy program adopted by the state board of forestry.

Sam A. Kozier, ex-secretary of state and state budget director, now lives in Precinct No. 18 in Portland. Kozier is now employed in the bookkeeping department of the state board of higher education. Prior to retiring from the office of state budget director, Kozier was one of the three oldest state employees, with relation to length of service.

Thousands of additional men will be sent to work in Oregon as the result of the contracts awarded at yesterday's meeting of the state highway commission in Portland. Contracts of particular interest locally include those involving a new bridge at Jefferson and widening of the Pacific highway between Salem and Brooks.

James Lewis, warden of the Oregon state penitentiary, was expected to return here late today or Saturday from Phoenix, Arizona, and Southern California. The trip was made by automobile with Charles Bier driving the machine. Lewis had intended to inspect the California prisons at Folsom and San Quentin. The jaunt had the approval of the state board of control, which allowed him a leave of absence for three weeks.

All state offices will be closed today so that no official or employe may be deprived of casting his ballot at the primary election. In many cases employes have been granted a leave of absence until Monday. This was made possible because of Saturday being a short work day in the state departments.

Herbert Hauser, secretary of public utilities commission, spent yesterday at Lake Lytle, where he conducted a hearing. Hauser has been connected with the utilities commission for many years, first as reporter and later as secretary.

Any person wishing to find a good home for a dog should get in touch with Ferrol Owen, secretary of the state bonus commission. Owen's dog recently was run down and killed by an automobile, and he is desirous of obtaining another pet. He promises the dog a good home, plenty of food, and a comfortable place to sleep. What more could a dog desire?

Charles M. Thomas, public utilities commissioner, returned here yesterday from Portland where he attended the livestock rate hearing, now being held there under the direction of an examiner for the interstate commerce commission. Hearing of the case involving the rates, charges and practices of the Northwestern Electric company will be resumed in Portland May 24.

18th Amendment
A ticket has been issued recently reporting to list all candidates for various offices who are "reliably and dependably dry."
Candidates for County and City offices listed have without exception declared themselves as being unwilling to permit the people to vote upon the question of the Repeal of the 18th Amendment and all candidates for both State and County offices who have declared themselves as "dry" who have signified that they are willing to have the question voted on have been omitted from the list.
While personally dry and while favoring the retention of the 18th Amendment I believe that to vote upon all questions of government is an inherent political right guaranteed to the people by the Constitution and by our form of government, and if nominated and elected I shall oppose all attempts to disenfranchise the people on this or any other question.

HENDRICKS LAUDS RECORD OF BAKER

Portland Mayor Assisted in Patriotic Movements, Ex-Editor Avers

Praise of Mayor George L. Baker of Portland, who is facing a recall election there today, was contained in a letter released Thursday by R. J. Hendricks, former publisher of The Statesman.

Mr. Hendricks' letter reads: "The American War Mothers, preparing for their national convention at Kansas City in 1924, requested the state chapters to send as guests the outstanding Gold Star mother in each state. The records being searched, it was found that Laura A. Fallon, formerly of Myrtle Creek, then of Salem, was the one entitled to the honor. She had lost three sons on the fields of battle, and one son had been disabled by gas fumes.

The Oregon chapter was unable to finance the trip, requiring about $250. Mayor Baker was appealed to. In one way and another, Mrs. Fallon went to the convention—the event of her life. She died in Salem about a year later. She was three times a Gold Star mother; almost four times.

"George Baker could not endure the thought of having that mother, who had given so much to her country, deprived of the honor offered." It was characteristic of him. I attended to the matter, and can testify to the particulars. And I can verify many of the facts related about George Baker in connection with such of his activities during and after the war.

"Is there an American war mother, or any one else who loves his country, willing to stand by and witness any affront to the honorable and patriotic record of Portland's almost incomparable mayor?"

Three Licenses To Wed Issued Here Thursday
