Members of the state board of control will meet next Tuesday, when some action will be taken in connection with construction of the proposed state-owned power plant. The board previously advertised for bids for the construction of the plant, but no definite proposals were received.

The power plant was authorized by an act of the 1931 legislature, but no appropriation was made to cover its cost. It was argued at that time that some contractor might be found who would advance funds necessary for construction operations and accept his payments out of the annual earnings.

Reports Friday indicated that the board of control would advertise for bids.

INDIANS WILL PLAY LINFIELD TOSSERS

CHEMAWA, May 20—The Chemawa Indian school baseball team which has been revamped from necessity growing out of numerous ineffectiveness, is scheduled to meet the Linfield college team this afternoon at 2:15 on the Indian school diamond.

This recognized outfit has managed to defeat Salem and Woodburn high teams but the collegians will be harder to stop. Hatfield of basketball fame is being used at first base and Franklin shifted back to the outfield, which has been weakened by the loss of Seltice, who was also a pitcher, and S. Alexander. Andy Peterson, catcher who could make most high school teams but hasn't been able to shunt Meachem out of his job, is also being given a chance in the battery.

Archery bow, made by L. L. "Flight" Daily of Eugene, yesterday was presented to Lynn Crommiller, state forester, for exhibit purposes in the state house. The bow was made from Oregon fir grown on Alsea mountain. This was said to be the first bow to shoot over 400 yards in national competition. It won highest awards in the national, state and northwest competition in 1930.

Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Randall, who conduct a lunch canteen in the statehouse, took advantage of the holiday yesterday to visit friends in Portland. Randall is planning to shift his counter from its present location to a more roomy and convenient spot under the stairway leading from the first to the second floor of the main capitol building.

State officials and employees were among those who gathered at the newspaper offices here last night to receive the returns of the primary election. In several cases, they were candidates for office, and consequently were much interested in the returns. The usual number of "I told you so" boys were on hand.

C. V. Galloway, state tax commissioner, went to Portland yesterday afternoon, where he voted at the primary election. Mr. Galloway previously served as state tax commissioner in Oregon, but later went to Portland where he was employed in the bond department of a bank. Although now a member of the state tax commission, he retains his legal residence in Portland.

The portraits of the late Governor Patton and ex-Governor Norblad, which recently were placed in the hall of representatives in the state house have attracted much attention. During the past week several delegations of prominent citizens from Portland and other distant Oregon cities viewed the portraits. Persons viewed in art, declared that they were among the most outstanding portraits of all ex-Oregon governors.

Although yesterday was a legal holiday, the state highway department operated a 24-hour room. R. H. Baldock, state highway engineer, explained that this was necessary because of the meeting of the commission held in Portland Wednesday and Thursday. The state industrial accident commission also held the entire day, with the result that several of the employees failed to cast their votes.

James Stewart, special investigator for the state land board, has a brand new batch of Scotch stories. Stewart is one of the most proficient story tellers in the statehouse family, and has been the "life" of many parties during the past few years. Prior to coming to Salem a number of years ago, Mr. Stewart conducted a newspaper at Fossil.

Frank Davey was among those who came over from Ilwaco last night to receive the election returns. Davey is an ex-newspaper man, and has served in various public capacities. For several years prior to the Meier administration, he was employed in the state grain grading department in Portland. He also once served as speaker of the house of representatives.

C. V. Bernhard, regular contributor of this column, was expected to return here tomorrow from San Francisco, where he was called as a witness in a suit involving a Coos Bay property. Bernhard conducts the Salem bureau of the Associated Press. He formerly lived at Marshfield, where he was employed by the Coos Bay Times.

Justice James Campbell of under study, have been barred along with Raymond Ignacio, another outfielder. They are among the list ruled out by doctor's orders, disciplinary and academic shortcomings.

Woodburn Said Dickered For Beck as Hurler

WOODBURN, May 20—The Woodburn Cascade League team will play at home Sunday, when the locals tackle the Dayton team at the Legion park, the game to begin at 2:30 p. m. Woodburn will not have the support of Orville Schwab, outside hurler who worked with the team early in the season, as he has signed with another team. DeGuire and Weisenberg will probably do the hurling.

It has been reported that the local managers have been conducting negotiations with Johnny Beck, Monitor pitcher recently released Coast League; but he will probably not pitch Sunday.

Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

William Elmsig, secretary of the state board of control, spent two days at home this week because of illness. Mr. Elmsig has the distinction of being the highest paid board secretary in the state of Oregon. Prior to coming to Salem he was employed in the state of Washington for several years.

Governor Meier telephoned his secretary here yesterday that he would return to Salem Monday. The governor has spent considerable time in Portland during the past few weeks, due to the serious illness of Mrs. Meier's mother. Latest reports from Portland indicated that the aged woman was in a very serious condition, and that she has little chance for recovery.

Statehouse landscapers were happy yesterday because of the recent showers. The capitol grounds were never more attractive than at the present time, due to favorable weather conditions and plenty of moisture.

The boat for Salt Creek leaves the municipal dock here at 8 a. m. today. All elected candidates for office in yesterday's primary election will find ample accommodations.

CALIFORNIA GIRL BEING HELD HERE

Mrs. Myra L. Shank, Salem police matron, last night was detaining Mary Elizabeth Emerick, 15, pending receipt of word from authorities at Fairfield, Cal. The pretty, gentle girl was found by the police in South Salem in company with Jasper Seymour Jones, itinerant sign painter, and another man, who picked her up at a campground south of Eugene. Jones declared that the girl is respectable and that she has been treated as a lady. Talented at sign painting, she has been of marked assistance to him, he said. When the girl asked him that she be permitted to travel with him, she was surprised from blistered feet and a sore throat.

SEVENTEEN KILLED IN ROAD CRASHES

Seventeen persons were killed and 255 others injured in a total of 1853 traffic accidents in Oregon during the month of April, according to a report prepared Friday by Charles P. Pray, superintendent of state police.

There were 267 arrests for traffic violations, with fines aggregating approximately $4057. Warnings were issued in 14,557 cases. Arrests in the general law enforcement division of the state police department number 490. There were 64 acquittals, with 111 cases now pending in the courts. Fines imposed in these cases exceeded $12,400.

The report shows that 197 accidents involving motor vehicles were due to faulty signals, while in 176 cases the drivers were exceeding the speed limit. Cutting corners was responsible for 113 accidents.

Twenty-three persons arrested by the police during April were turned over to other law enforcement units of the state and government. Six of these arrests involved burglary, three larceny and two fraud.

The state police investigated 275 complaints, of which 63 were cleared.

Standard Feed Firm Organized

H. G. King announces that a firm known as Standard Feed company has been formed which will operate a feed and grain business in the Southern Pacific warehouse on Ferry street behind the Statesman plant. King will be manager. He will buy grain, hay, straw and sell feeds. King was formerly an employe of the Charles R. Archer Implement company. The warehouse has been altered and a new walk has been installed.

Garfield Pupil Has Diphtheria

A first grade boy from Garfield school is ill with diphtheria, Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, county health officer, reported yesterday. As the boy had not attended school since a week ago yesterday, there is no danger of other children's exposure, the doctor said. No one other than the parents have been in contact with the case. The boy is not seriously ill. He had not been immunized.
