Amelia Gets Recognition For Ability

LONDON, May 23-(AP)-Amelia Earhart Putnam shopped today for clothes to augment her flying togs, was toasted by British journalists and gained one of the points of her solo flight across the Atlantic-an admission by a man valuable. The slim blonde flier, whose tousled hair and frank smile have captured the fancy of the British public, said feminine resentment at all the "catty things" men say about women drivers and women pilots was the driving urge behind her ocean flight.

Fifth avenue, men always comment, 'Oh it's a woman driving'," she explained.

"I have gone up with a mechanic who doesn't know the controls from the altimeter and when 've come down I have heard people say he probably did most of the flying.

"So I determined to show them. And outside of demonstrating that a woman can fly the Atlantic alone, I don't see that I've added anything to aviation, science or anything else."

Ralph D. Blumenfeld, editor of the Daily Express, said however, when he proposed a toast to her at a luncheon of the institute of journalists:

"I hereby retract my pet theory -that a woman never did anything really valuable."
