been indulged in since the election on the man to be chosen by William H. Trindle for deputy district attorney. Lyle Page, who has served a number of years under John H. Carlson, can hardly be expected to continue in his present job under a new administration although Page has made a very creditable record as deputy prosecutor.

John Heitzel is said to be favored for the post. He took an active part in Trindle's campaign as did his father, James Heitzel. At one time the latter was considering filing for the office of district attorney but he did not complete his filing when he learned that Allan Carson had decided to run. George Rhoden has been mentioned for the post. Rhoden now occupies joint offices with Trindle. City Attorneyship To Be Vacant Also

The nominee said yesterday he would not make any announcement of his deputy until after the November election has been held. While Trindle is the republican nominee and must later be elected, there is no nominee on the democratic ticket and no independent candidate has been talked.

Rumor before Friday's election placed Brainer Small or Raymond Bassett as potential city attorneys. In case Douglas McKay was elected mayor, both worked ardently for his election. While the appointment rests with the council, a number of its members are pledged to McKay men and whatever candidate for the city attorneyship received the mayor's endorsement would have a decided advantage with a number of councilmen. Clifford Moynihnan is also being talked for the job. The post will be vacant January 1, 1933, next November, when forty have been tried. Must leave the office to become district attorney.

He stated he told prospects that no salaries would be paid until the company could afford to do so as this was his understanding. Mrs. Geneva McDonald of Forest Grove told of taking 10 shares of the Empire stock and paying for this with a check for $1000. She said her mother, Mrs. Veda Armstrong, had purchased 20 shares and had given a check for $2000. She never talked with Stockman and never received any letters from him about the corporation.

Mrs. Matilda John, proprietor of the Roseburg hotel, told of buying 16 shares of stock and paying $1600 cash. Her husband and two sons each took two shares and each paid $50 down. Mrs. John stated that she was influenced more by the names of the men who had subscribed for 240 shares than by the salesman's talks.

Mrs. Temperance Campbell, 72, of Roseburg, stated she had taken 40 shares of Empire stock and had paid $4000 in bonds and mortgages.

Mrs. Mary C. Meyers, daughter of Mrs. Campbell, stated she had subscribed for 50 shares of the stock and had paid $2500 in cash, bonds, and mortgages as a down payment and had given a note for $2500. She talked about the matter with Dave Shambrook and relied more on what he said than on the statements of the salesmen.

C. T. Briley, Gervais farmer, told of the talks made to him by S. E. Howard and how he bought five shares and paid $25 down, giving a note for $450. Briley said he never met the defendant Stockman and had never called at the office of the Empire concern to examine the records. He stated he had offered to give the corporation the $25 if it would return his note but that Dr. Clancy told him that this could not be done.

E. R. Metzger, Roseburg, said he and his wife took a total of 200 shares and paid $3175. He originally took 50 shares and paid $1250 down, giving a note for the balance of $3750. He was not permitted to tell about purchasing the other 150 shares as this was a deal involving the Westerner and that testimony is barred from this trial.

F. D. Gardner, postmaster at Forest Grove, told of paying $12.50 down on a subscription for five shares of Empire stock and later paying enough to bring his total investment to $75. He stated the salesman was M. E. Horn and he understood that 80 per cent of the money would be deposited with the state and could not be lost.

warehouse laws; weights and measure regulations; increasing market for home products; and the commission dealers law. Urges Development Of Quality Products

Mr. Gehlar declared that the only way the farmer can sell more of his goods against California and other markets is to push quality products through a uniform branding or marking which the consumer public will come to recognize and demand, just as it is now demanding nationally advertised oranges, canned goods, butter or other products.

Gehlar stated there is greater confidence abroad in grain inspection and other inspections given on Oregon goods than there is right at home, and warned that the time is at hand when there must be real fighting to save the home market for home goods.

Mayor P. M. Gregory welcomed the Farmers Union members to Salem, and response was made by A. R. Shumway of Milton, who urged further cooperative marketing, declaring "it is just as important to market produce as to raise it." Jesse Vetter, president of the Washington Farmers Union, brought greetings from that body.

CREDITILLS LAID TO SALES POLICY

but with all this progress, he still extends credit on the outworn characteristics of his grandfather.

The field representative, who is in the west from his home in Miami, Florida, believes that if all retailers would adopt a community credit policy, there would be a quick reversal of the present credit situation, but he is not so optimistic as to hold that all retailers will get together to do this.

However, he does believe the time must come when every retailer and professional man who grants credit will become affiliated with a credit association or bureau, or both, and will not grant credit until he knows something of the actual paying habits of the man or woman to whom credit is granted. In other words, he believes credit giving will be limited throughout every town, as a result of a cooperative spirit—the only one which he holds can remedy the situation in the retail credit world.

Customers will continue on in the present misuse of credit so long as the retailer lets them, Caldwell declared, adding that it rests entirely on the ability of the retailer to correct the credit evil. "It is not a case of let down of moral responsibility of the customer in a per cent of the instances, for that customer is fundamentally honest."

Mr. Caldwell based his statements on a survey which he and others of the national retail credit body are making of the 1300 credit bureau files in the country, and declared that he made no pretension to joining the long list of false prophets who have predicted and are predicting the future economic course.

In addition to Caldwell's address, entertainment features included songs by Nellie Roberts Ramp, accompanied by Carolyn Parker, and a Norwegian reading by Mrs. Alleta Weisser.

Agreement Upon British Debt to Be Signed, Word

LONDON, May 25.—(AP)—Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, told the house of commons a formal agreement to repay in ten equal annuities the British war debts of $160,000,000 which were suspended by the Hoover moratorium would be signed soon at Washington.

He described it as a "purely formal step" to give legal effect to the moratorium, involving no decision on any question of principle. Thus the British recognition of America's contention that war debts and reparations are separate problems remained unaffected.
