MORE ROAD, TRAIL SIGNS ARE PLACED

When the forest rangers complete the posting of road and trail signs in June, there will be 4,632 additional metal information and direction signs along the trails in the 22 national forests of Oregon and Washington.

These signs are put up for the guidance of the traveler in these mountainous areas. For those who use the roads within the national forests, the rangers will have put up some 8,700 additional distance and direction signs to make travel easier and safer.

Sign posting is only one of the annual duties of the forest rangers. The posting of legible signs makes available and usable the many miles of new roads and trails constructed for the use of travelers and campers, and for the administration of the national forests, says the U. S. Forest service.

EXPECT BIG ENTRY FOR FLOWER SHOW

Other Clubs in Valley Plan To Participate in Salem Exhibit, is Report

More plans for the Willamette valley flower show, were developed at the executive meeting of the Salem Garden club held Wednesday night at the chamber of commerce. Miss Edith Schryver, president, reported that following the presentation of the state Federation of Garden clubs convention in Albany the past week, of the plans for the Willamette Valley Flower show for June 4 and 5 in Willson park, a large number of valley clubs signified their intentions of entering and attending the show.

It was announced that 30 commercial growers have made reservations for space and garden clubs from all over the valley are making arrangements for display and competition.

The flower show committee points to the fact that this is the third Willamette Valley show. The first was given in the show rooms of the Valley Motor plant. The second was given in the gardens of Miss Sally Bush last year, and now the third will become a civic interest by being presented in the beautiful surroundings of Willson park.

A program consisting of illustrated flower talks, short talks by specialists on different flowers, and a band concert at night is being planned.

The state forestry department will have its exhibit, and garden accessory people will show their products. There will also be a "curiosity shop" of flowers.

All persons with flowers, all garden clubs, and commercial growers of the communities are asked to participate.

Sheets bearing the classification of entries, awards and qualifications may be had by calling at the desk of Chester Cox, Ladd and Bush bank, or by writing Mrs. W. H. Smith, chairman of the flower show committee.

WILLARD MARKS OF ALBANY, president of the state senate, is among those who will leave for Wedderburn today, to participate in the ceremonies attending the dedication of the new Rogue River bridge on Saturday. Mrs. Sheldon F. Sackett, private secretary to Governor Meier, also will be present when the bridge is dedicated. General Rilea of the state military department will represent Governor Meier.

The annual state bar examinations will be held in the hall of representatives here July 12 and 13, Arthur Benson, clerk of the state supreme court, announced yesterday. Approximately 85 applicants already have applied, and other applications probably will be received within the next few days. In previous examinations, approximately 60 per cent of those who have participated were successful.

LABORERS. Many of these claims have been filed in the state labor department during the past few weeks, and in a few instances settlements have been made. In other cases it was found that the employers had no funds, and these claims were classified as worthless.

THE ROSEBURG BAND has made a strong bid to provide music at this year's state fair. Reports indicated that the band has received the indorsement of various chambers of commerce and other commercial and civic organizations. Awarding of this contract is discretionary with Max Gehlar, director of the state department of agriculture.

IF A NUMBER of district attorneys in Oregon would consult their law books occasionally, they would be relieved. Attorney General Van Winkle of considerable work. Many requests for legal opinions involve simple questions of law, on which the attorney general has ruled repeatedly. These opinions are published in printed form and could be obtained by district attorneys without the trouble of writing to Salem.

THE "DUMB COLUMN" editor today received an inquiry as to who served as private secretary to Governor Olcott. The records show that Don Upjohn, Salem newspaper reporter and editor of "Slips," served as private secretary to Governor Olcott during his entire administration. He previously was Oregonian correspondent at the state capital.

A. H. McMahan, Albany attorney, and partner of Willard Marks, president of the state senate, spent a part of yesterday in Salem conferring with state officials. Mr. McMahan has served in the Oregon legislature and is well known in capital circles.

DR. AND MRS. R. E. LEE STEINER will leave Saturday for Neskonwin, where they will spend the week end at their beach cottage. Dr. Steiner, as everyone in Oregon knows, is superintendent of the Oregon state hospital. He has served in this capacity for 25 years. If the newspaper boys had their way, he would continue in charge of the hospital during the remainder of his career.

JAMES W. MOTT, who apparently has defeated Willis C. Hawley for the republican nomination for representative in congress from the first congressional district, is now recuperating at Gearhart, according to information received in Salem yesterday. He expected to return to the capital Sunday, and resume his duties as state corporation commissioner Monday.

JAMES YOUNG probably has more inside information regarding the salaries of state officials and employees, and the person on the state payroll, Young, by the way, is auditor for the state.
