

TROOP TWELVE IS THIRD TIME RALLY WINNER

Takes 13 Places in Rally Events; 3000 Attend Annual Spectacle

Silverton, Albany Troops Come Next; Colorful Pageant Offered

Winning 13 places in the 17 events of the fourth annual field rally of Cascade Area Council, Boy Scouts, Troop 12 sponsored by Jason Lee church here, last night earned 65 points and the 1932 championship on Sweetland field last night. This troop took five first places, three seconds and five thirds.

By virtue of this victory, Troop 12 Scouts come into permanent possession of the rally cup. They were victors in 1931 and 1930.

Next in points was Troop 20 of Silverton with a total of 35. Troop 21 of Albany won third place with 34 points.

From the parade and grand march to the Indian pageant and presentation of awards, the rally was applauded by thousands of onlookers. The crowd in the grandstand, bleachers and sidelines was conservatively estimated at 3000 persons. A majority of the spectators remained through the three and one-half hour program. Great Preparations Made for Event

Across the field from the grandstand the boys had set up the usual bridges, towers, campfires and shelters in orderly array. From these posts, the Scouts and Indians marched to the field to participate in the various events.

J. T. Delaney, president of Cascade Area Council, addressing the audience over public address system, contrasted the annual cost of keeping a boy in the Oregon state training school—$496—with the amount spent in the organization of Boy Scout activities in the area—$7. He praised the scout movement as one that builds character into the boy.

The competition interlude of the pageant, "The Passing Redmen", presented by Chemawa Indian school students, evoked rounds of applause from the audience. A tepes was set up by the girls and native dances given by both the boys and the girls with tom-tom accompaniment. Queen Anita Farrow of the 1931 Pendleton round-up took part. Chief George Bent, Chemawa disciplinarian, directed the pageant.

Nation Watches Probe of Walker And Its Political Significance

From a purely municipal affair, the long-awaited clash between Mayor James J. Walker (left), of New York, and Judge Samuel Seabury (right), counsel for the Hofstadter Investigating Committee, has grown to proportions of national importance. Seabury seeks to prove that the mayor has been guilty of irregularities in office. Should he succeed in proving his charges, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York will be in the embarrassing position of disciplining the mayor. Coming at a time when Governor Roosevelt is seeking the democratic nomination for the presidency, any drastic action against the most popular man in the state of New York would have a marked effect on Roosevelt's presidential chances.

DEFENSE SEEKS TO BAR EMPIRE FIRM'S RECORD

Claim not Identified; Will Be Ruled Upon Today; Clancy Witness

Former Secretary Asserts He was Denied Right to Attend Meetings

DALLAS, May 27—(Special)—The seventh day of the trial of Jay H. Stockman, ex-counsel for the Empire Holding corporation, on a charge of devising a scheme to defraud ended with the defense making a strong effort to have the records of the corporation barred from the trial. Earlier today the defense was successful in preventing the introduction of the minutes of the executive committee meetings as evidence on the grounds that they were not properly identified.

Judge Walker excused the jury at 3 o'clock this afternoon in order to hear arguments on the question of admitting the records as evidence. The jury was instructed to report at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The argument about the records followed the testimony of Joseph Vollmer, secretary of the Empire company, and Charles Goodwin, auditor from the state corporation commissioner's office. Both these witnesses identified the records of the corporation to the best of their knowledge but the defense claimed that this was not enough. According to the testimony of these men the records were kept by Ed M. Adams, a brother of Dr. Adams, and were turned over to Vollmer when he became secretary. Vollmer testified that these were the books which were turned over to him in December 1931 and Goodwin stated that he had examined these books when he investigated the corporation in August 1931.

Judge Walker stated that he would make a ruling tomorrow morning.

Dr. Clancy Tells Of His Connection
Dr. R. W. Clancy of Medford, successor to Judge Coshaw as president of the corporation, was called by the state and told his story of the affairs of the corporation was explained to him and that he finally subscribed for 200 shares of the capital (Turn to page 2, col. 1)

BROWNE MAY HOP FOR TOKYO TODAY

SEATTLE, May 27—(AP)—Nat C. Browne, New York flier, got into his big monoplane on Boeing field and warmed the motor up for 15 minutes shortly after 10:30 p. m. tonight, and then had it rolled to the top of the elevated ramp from which he plans to start a Seattle-Tokyo flight.

A long awaited favorable wind, to aid in lifting the heavily laden craft off the ground, was springing up out of the south. It was blowing from the south and southwest, at a velocity of about six miles an hour.

Browne said he would attempt to get away at between 2 a. m. and 3 a. m. preferably at the latter hour in order to have a bit of daylight on the long run, some 4,200 feet, down the field.

De Lisle returned the fire of the bandits with a .22 caliber revolver.

Mott won the republican nomination over Congressman Hawley by 1221 votes. The official count on which the victory was based was completed today, a week after the voters cast their ballots. Starkweather, with a lead of only 31 votes, was given the democratic nomination over William A. DeLoach of Salem, one of the most bitterly contested elections Oregon has witnessed in a dozen years.

The tabulation based on official figures from every county in the first congressional district gave:

Mott 30,852; Hawley 30,714; Starkweather 12,143; DeLoach 12,112.

NUT ASSOCIATION HAS GOOD RECORD

Annual Meeting of Salem's Group Held Here and Reports Reviewed

Some surprisingly good results in the local walnut and filbert market for 1931, as well as a substantial increase in membership over any previous year, were shown at the annual meeting of the Salem Nut Growers' association held at the Capitol Business college here Friday afternoon.

The Salem organization is a branch of the North Pacific Nut Growers' Cooperative, and is the sales agency for the valley packing units.

A. L. Page of Jefferson, president of the local unit, presided at the meeting, while talks were given by Clarence Noble of Salem, who spoke on "Early Demand for Nuts and Necessity of Early Shipments," E. B. Edes, general president, who talked on methods of packing and marketing filberts, and W. H. Bentley, who enumerated the reasons by which the value of the association could be raised.

In the financial discussion it was shown that in 1931, 637,513 pounds of walnuts, 33,888 pounds of walnut meats and 143,328 pounds of filberts had been marketed. The total amount of business amounted to $550,000 for the past year. The Salem unit alone handled more than $125,000 worth of business, and it was shown that only $7000 was owed by this organization. $2500 of this is expected to be taken up this year.

The final distribution on the 1931 walnut crop here was made at the meeting, checks totaling $15,000 being given out to the growers. The Salem group is believed to be the first organization to pay out the walnut pool in full, and the final distribution on the filbert crop is expected to be made by June.

Gregory Vetoes Bail Ordinance; Fears Hardship

Mayor P. M. Gregory yesterday vetoed the bail ordinance passed by the city council a week ago Monday. He declared his belief that the measure, requiring the municipal judge to set bail no lower than the minimum fine, would work a hardship on persons guilty of parking overtime. The traffic code sets $5 as the minimum fine for all offenses.

NEW BUSINESS SCHOOL SET UP IS ANNOUNCED

Work to be Concentrated at Eugene With Exception Of Lower Division

Secretarial Training Will Be Confined to State College, Planned

The state board of higher education Friday announced the organization, personnel and curricula of the newly organized school of business administration in the Oregon State system of higher education.

Under the new unified plan, lower division courses in business administration are offered on both campuses, so that the essential same freshman and sophomore work may be taken at either place. Upper division and graduate work leading to Bachelor's and Master's degrees in business administration and commerce are continuing at Eugene, with the exception of service courses retained at Corvallis for majors in other schools. Necessary advanced courses will also be offered at Corvallis this coming year to permit present juniors to obtain their degrees without transferring to Eugene.

Secretarial Work Is at Corvallis
Work in secretarial training, leading to a certificate at the end of two years, is confined to the Corvallis campus. Teacher training in business administration is located at Eugene, except that teacher training involving work in secretarial training will be accomplished by combining the two-year course in secretarial training at Corvallis with the usual teacher training subjects.

Major lines of work which a student can pursue at Eugene are general business, foreign trade, accounting, advertising, merchandising, finance and industrial and personnel management. Commercial curricula at Eugene are also provided, while at Corvallis minors in commerce are provided for those majoring in engineering, agriculture and similar technical schools. Agricultural economics, which has been taught in the only school of commerce at Corvallis, has been transferred to the school of agriculture and established as a department under Dr. M. N. Nelson. Degrees of bachelor of business administration, bachelor of arts, bachelor of science and (Turn to page 2, col. 3)

TO DEDICATE GOLD BEACH SPAN TODAY

MARSHFIELD, Ore., May 27—(AP)—The Oregon coast highway association caravan en route to Gold Beach where the Isaac Leo Patterson bridge over the Rogue river will be dedicated tomorrow, arrived here tonight.

The caravan was led by automobiles in which rode A. W. Norblad, president of the association and formerly governor of Oregon, and Mayor David Looming of Victoria, B. C. Organizations in the caravan were the Longview Red Hats, loggers of rollo fame.

Conflicting meetings tonight split the caravan among the cities of Marshfield, North Bend and Coquille. The largest gathering, however, was at North Bend where the chamber of commerce entertained the visitors. Mayor Looming and G. I. Warren, commissioner of publicity for British Columbia, were among the speakers at North Bend.

Ed Miller, manager of the highway association, and Norblad spoke at the visitors' dinner. Norblad also planned the evening gatherings at North Bend and Coquille.

FEW CLUES GAINED IN BURGLARY CASE

French Shop is Victimized To Extent of $1000 in Merchandise, Word

With few clues to guide them, police officers were able to do little toward identification and capture of the gang of burglars who sometime Thursday night sawed their way into the Little French shop, 175 North High street, and carried away 75 or more dresses valued at around $1000. The burglars appeared to wear gloves, for only two fingerprints were obtained, these blurred.

The same gang, it is suspected, attempted to burglarize the George E. Waters tobacco and confectionery establishment at 229 State street, the General Grocery company at Trade and South Liberty and the Capital City Transfer company's warehouse at 326 State, the same night. Apparently the burglars were frightened away, for doors and windows on the establishments were jimmied but no entrance made.

Entry to the Little French shop was gained through the H. L. Stiff furniture store, to the north. A window was found open in the back. From the second floor of the store, the burglars, using the Stiff cabinet makers' tools, bored and sawed their way through a single board partition into the shop.

That the criminals either entered the Stiff store before closing, or at least sometime before they stole the dresses, developed yesterday afternoon when cabinet maker reported finding his alarm clock removed to a davenport. Likewise a clock in the Little French shop had been moved. It is assumed the burglars may have slept in the Stiff establishment while before making away.

The job was pulled by persons familiar both with the two stores and with the habits of the police, it is believed. Otherwise they (Turn to page 2, col. 2)

Holiday Weather Here Uncertain; Coast Gets Rain

Willamette valley residents are wondering if it will be safe to plan a holiday weekend and not take slickers, umbrellas, and such equipment. There seems to be nothing in the cards which will promise anything definite. The forecast to Sunday promises clouds and occasional showers in the south of Oregon and on the coast. Whether this will reach to Salem and vicinity will be known as a matter of fact when the two days have rolled by and the weekend is being discussed among friends.

DALLAS IS 1932 FARMERS UNION MEETING PLACE

McBee Re-elected President Along With all Other Office Incumbents

Truck Regulation Measure Opposed; no Stand on Higher Education

Acclaiming this year's convention of the Oregon Farmers union as the best ever held, the delegates yesterday afternoon re-elected all officers, selected Dallas as the 1933 convention city, and adjourned. Attendance this year exceeded that of all other state meetings in recent years.

L. H. McBee of Dallas, re-elected president, enters his fourth term in office. J. J. Seaman of Ballston remains vice-president, and Betty M. Kappaf of Eugene, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Kappaf has held office for nine years.

Members of the re-elected executive board will hold office for two years. They are C. F. Emerson of The Dalles, A. G. Rempel of Rickreall, John Shepherd of Scio, Walter W. Russell of McMinnville and Ernest Wedner of Silverton.

The invitation of the Corvallis union and chamber of commerce to hold the 1933 convention there was acknowledged with a vote of thanks. Polk county was due for a convention, however, it was explained.

Columbia Development Policy is Stated
Development of a better development drew the interest of the farmers. After discussion of proposed projects, a resolution was passed stating that the development should be begun at the mouth of the river and carried upstream, rather than the reverse.

The union went on record against the petitions now being circulated to place a truck-regulation measure on the November election ballot. Competition should be the rule rather than strict regulation, it was declared.

Public education was considered at the afternoon session but no stand was taken on the question of the higher schools. A resolution adopted called for appointment of a permanent committee of five to investigate educational problems.

At the suggestion of Ray McKaig of Boise, Idaho, master of the Idaho state fair, the Oregon farmers ordered a committee appointed to confer with state grange and farmers' union representatives from Washington and Idaho relative to legislative matters before the next sessions of the respective legislatures.

Invited members of the Grange Convention M. C. Glover of Looking Glass, master of the Oregon state grange, invited members of the farmers' union to attend the grange convention at Silverton June 14 to 17, the 59th annual session.

All union members were urged in an resolution to patronize established cooperatives where possible. Cooperatives should be established only where there is real need for them, it further stated.

One of the outstanding farmer cooperatives in the state, the bulk of and general commodity station operated at Derry, Polk county, was praised by a special committee. This station was recently incorporated at $24,000 with the following officers: President, Ralph Dodson of Monmouth; vice-president, Francis Bowler of Dalles; secretary-treasurer, R. W. Hogg of Salem; directors, Ronald Jones of Brooks and Carrey Gilson of Perrydale, directors. Over 30,000 gallons of gasoline and 35 barrels of oil and grease have been handled by the station. These products are delivered by the cooperative-owned truck.

Accomplishments in insurance arrangements by local units at Sublimity also were praised.

Burglary Count Denied by Fox

DALLAS, May 27—Louis Fox, indicted last week by the Polk county grand jury on two charges of burglary not in a dwelling, pleaded not guilty in circuit court today. His trial has been set for June 10. Fox was indicted for burglary not in a dwelling, pleaded guilty and will be sentenced later. Fox was indicted in connection with the breaking into and robbing of a service station and cabin in North Dallas.

A couple, just married in Tacoma, and hitch-hiking to Klamath Falls, reached Salem yesterday. Funds accumulated to getting the low so the bridegroom sold his pants to Mike Panek for 50 cents, donning a pair of overalls.

Then the bride and groom took the open road to thumb their way to Klamath.
