

TWO BURGLARY CASES SOLVED

Some of Loot From Little French Shop is Found, Rest Being Traced

When the city officers arrested the men yesterday afternoon, they found four of the dresses stolen from the Little French shop, shirts and a hand grip taken from Bishop's, they said. The rest of the $75 or more dresses were sold, according to the police.

Attempting to recover the other dresses from the "fence" through which they were sold, O. G. Coffey, plain clothes man, and William New, night patrolman, last night went to Portland to confer with police there. Local officers seemed certain that New and Coffey would find what they were looking for.

Sister Didn't Tip Off Police, Stated

Reports in Salem and Portland papers stating that the local police were tipped off by a sister of one of the men arrested were emphatically denied last night. The officers said this statement was mistaken but would not reveal the source of their information on the case.

The Alsmans were under suspicion from the time the burglary of the Little French shop was reported, officers said. Evidence was gathered and information obtained which led them to go definitely to work on the case Monday night.

Chief of Police Frank Minto spoke appreciatively of the services of Officers Coffey, New and E. C. Charlton who spent Monday night and most of yesterday on the case. All officers took some part in the investigations.

STOCKMAN TELLS HIS SIDE OF CASE

name of the organization was changed to the Empire Holding corporation.

Stockman stated that he had never employed anyone to sell stock, and in fact had had very little to do with this phase of the business. He also stated that he had never heard or learned of any misrepresentations made by salesmen until the indictments were returned.

According to his statements he received only $1250 in cash salary over a period of 13 months. He then went into detail, explaining how he had studied the laws of the state of Washington and secured a permit to sell stock there to the extent of $1,000,000. California and Idaho laws were also investigated but no permits were received from those states.

Gross examination by prosecutor Goldstein late in the afternoon accomplished little. Stockman was questioned closely concerning the starting of the corporation and the reason for acquiring Coshaw as president. He told of trying to interest other prominent men in the organization, but with no success. The gross examination will be continued Wednesday.

Stockman's testimony was broken into several times to put character witnesses on the stand. In all, 18 were called, each one testifying as to Stockman's excellent reputation, these witnesses having known him over periods varying from 5 to 25 years, and having been associated with him in every way.

Those called were all lawyers or influential business men mostly from Salem and Portland, and were called as follows: Douglas McKay, mayor of Salem; Mrs. Emma Carlson of Portland; E. R. Hunt of Portland; Dr. Knowlton, professor at Reed college; W. M. Davies of Portland; Judge Louis Hewitt, circuit judge of 4th district in Portland; Jack Eakin of Dallas; Martin L. Pratt, sheriff, Multnomah county; Stanley Meyers of Portland; Lawrence Dinneen of Portland; William Mulen of Portland; John S. Travis, city editor of the Oregonian; Leala Ferris of Portland; James L. Miller of Portland; John Manning of Portland; John Irvin of Portland; Frank Finisted of Portland; and Homer Angell of Portland.

DISTRICT ORATORY FINALS SCHEDULED

Three champion orators representing Idaho, Nevada and Oregon will compete here Thursday night for the honor of representing this district in the national oratorical contest at Washington, D. C., as announced today by Charles A. Howard, superintendent of public instruction.

The three state speakers previously won first places in the George Washington oratorical contests in their states, and will be given 12 minutes for an original oration on the life of Washington. The orations will be held in the state senate chamber, to be held with music provided by the American Legion Auxiliary quartet and the Willamette university school of music.

Bernard Mergen of the University of Nevada will represent that state with an oration entitled "Washington: The Exemplar of American Ideals." Ralph Olmstead, a student at the University of Idaho, will be the contestant from the gem state.

Bryson Hays, orator from Columbia university, Portland, who won the recent Washington oratorical contest in Oregon, will represent Oregon in this regional contest. The title of his oration is "George Washington's Understanding of Men."

Ray Smith Much Better; Visit of Relatives Helps

The arrival of his wife and brother served to revive Ray Smith, who has been ill for months in a Chicago hospital. Telegraphic word received by the family here Tuesday reported that he had passed the crisis and seemed on the road to recovery. The tonic of the visit with Mrs. Smith and his brother Paul of Santa Monica stimulated his spirits and greatly benefited him.

Mrs. Smith made the trip by plane and was delayed so she reached Chicago Saturday evening. Paul Smith will leave his home shortly if the improvement continues.

Eithel Headrick Estate $20,250

The estate of the late Eithel Headrick, deceased, consisted of property valued at $20,250, an appraisal filed yesterday in probate court records. Most of the property was personal and consisted of notes given the deceased by various borrowers. Appraisers of the estate were Roy Bohanan, Roy Barton and L. P. Aldrich. The Ladd & Bush Trust company served as executor.

NOTES IN LINDBERGH RANSOM SWINDLE

To All Law Enforcement Officials, Wardens of Penal Institutions, Etc.

Reproduced below will be found specimens of the handwriting represented by two notes transmitted by the alleged kidnapers in the Lindbergh case:

It is requested that you search the records containing the handwriting of all prisoners in your custody, or any persons coming under your observation or cognizance, for the purpose of ascertaining whether any of the specimens of said handwriting are similar to those indicated above. Should you have reasonable grounds to suspect that any of the handwriting which you may observe is similar to that of the specimen forwarded, it would be appreciated if you would, at the earliest possible moment, transmit specimens thereof, together with all available data relative to the individuals whose handwriting is forwarded, to—

COLONEL H. NORMAN SCHWARZKOPF, Superintendent of State Police, Trenton, New Jersey.

These are photostatic copies of two of the notes given Dr. John F. Condon (Jafsie) by the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby in exchange for $50,000 ransom. They were broadcast by Colonel Norman Schwarzkopf of the New Jersey State Police in the hope that someone may recognize the handwriting and give the authorities a clue to the identity of the swindlers, who police say, are also the kidnapers.

Wage Cut Made At Paper Mills

Minimum wages of $2.16 daily for men and $2.20 for women are in effect today at the local plant of the Oregon Pulp & Paper company, the result of an additional wage reduction agreed upon in May because of continuously lower market prices being received for paper. Women's minimum wages held constant due to the state's minimum wage laws but men's wages were cut. Total reductions of about 40 per cent have been made in wages at the plant in the last two years. The management of the mill reported that the reductions were necessary to keep the plant operating.

SELLING SALEM IS LIONS MEET TOPIC

The chamber of commerce's Salem educational flying squadron will furnish the program for the Lions club luncheon at the Gray Belle restaurant tomorrow noon. Four addresses will be given on outstanding features of the city.

Douglas McKay, chamber of commerce president and Mayor-elect, will speak on "The History of Salem." The Capitol grounds, Willamette university and Chemaqua Indian school will be discussed by L. B. Endicott, chamber of commerce treasurer and director.

William McGilchrist Jr., will tell of state institutions. McGilchrist is governor-elect of the Rotary first district and past president of the local club. Salem industries will be described by W. M. Hamilton, chairman of the chamber's industrial department.

Music is being arranged for.

Three Marriage Licenses Issued As June Nears

The month ended with three marriage licenses being granted at the office of the county clerk. None of the applicants had ever been married before. Licenses granted were:

Raymond Deaver, 23, 1425 Beech street, a bank teller, to Clarabella Kinnaman, 21, 947 Leslie street, a housekeeper. Rev. H. C. Stover is to marry the couple.

Gilbert W. Lyons, 29, Stayton, farmer, to Desha D. Perry, 25, Quinaby, housekeeper.

Albert R. Nadeau, 23, Independence, laborer, to Opal Long, 20, route two, Corvallis, teacher.

GRAND
Wednesday—Betsy Compton in "The Gay Diplomat."

ELSINORE
Today—Lily Damita in "This is the Night."
Friday—Richard Arlen in "Sky Bride."

HOLLYWOOD
Wednesday—Marlene Dietrich in return engagement, "Morocco."
Friday—Bob Steel in "Nevada Buckaroo."

Fun with a romantic "kick" to it is promised for patrons at the Elsinore today when "This is the Night," gay talkie of marital complications is presented.

The main fun-purveyors are Lily Damita, Charlie Ruggles and Roland Young, three former Broadway notables who have captivated the millions in screen productions within the past year or so.

Cary Grant, young Parisian business man, returns suddenly to his home to find his beautiful blonde wife, Theima Todd, entertaining Roland Young, gay bachelor friend of her girlhood days. Grant is immediately suspicious of Young's presence, and the situation is not so pleasant for Young.

Edward G. Robinson, whom the public has come to know for his wonderful character impersonations, and the actor who refuses to wear makeup because he argues that if he does not sufficiently feel his character and express this in his acting so that the public will see the character and not himself, then he has failed as an actor, is again coming to the Elsinore and this time in "Two Seconds."

In connection with the picture an amusing contest is being sponsored by the theatre. It started at 12 o'clock Tuesday and information may be had concerning it from Manager Carey, or Al Adolph, assistant manager, or from The Statesman advertisements.

SIX OLYMPIC TOUR PLANES LAND HERE

United Press Willard Shepherd, pilot of his own Stinson plane and with him was E. C. Genereux, also a professional pilot.

A Swallow plane owned by Mrs. Edith Clark of Los Angeles made up the remainder of the cruises. With Mrs. Clark was J. E. Granger, pilot, and Mrs. Granger.

The airplanes started to land on the municipal field shortly after 1 p. m. Within 20 minutes all had made the field. They were greeted by representatives of the chamber of commerce and were entertained with a light luncheon served outdoors. About 75 carloads of towns people were at the airport to greet the flyers.

The party left at 2 p. m. for Roseburg, next stop on the way south. Tuesday night they were scheduled to be at Eureka on the last lap of their trip home.

LOS ANGELES MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

San Francisco last month but apparently had lost heart.

Reason for the suicide was unknown although it was thought yesterday by police that Clark's finances were worrying him. A few dollars were found in his effects. An open copy of "War Stories" turned to a story, "Rules to Die By" indicated Clark had been reading just before his death. He had taken two blankets from the bed, spread them on the floor, lain down and shot into his body, the bullet going through his heart.

Manager Chadwick said Clark had been at the hotel since May 27. He knew nothing of his business. Liquor found in Clark's grip and his dresser indicated he had been drinking considerably before his suicide.

Clark was last seen at 10:30 p. m. Monday when he went to his room by elevator. No one in the hotel heard the shot fired.
